NOMINEE FOR VICE PRESIDENT

GOP House leader Gerald R. Ford named at 'new beginning for U.S.'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a political masterstroke, President Nixon chose House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan as vice president Friday night to cheers from Congress. Ford promptly announced he wasn't interested in the presidency in 1976.

Declaring it was "time for a new beginning for America," Nixon told a glittering assembly of dignitaries in the White House East Room he had selected Ford because "we need strong, effective leadership" to keep world peace and halt inflation.

Conspicuously absent from the 13-minute, nationally televised ceremony, unprecedented in American history, was Spiro T. Agnew, who resigned two days ago in disgrace. The White House refused to say whether he was even invited.

Nixon made his decision, another surprise in a year of surprises, at dawn at Camp David, Md., but kept it such a closely guarded secret that Ford himself did not know for sure until he received a telephone call from the President at his suburban Alexandria, Va., home at 7:30 p.m. EDT —only 90 minutes before Nixon broke the nation's suspense in a nationwide broadcast.

"I am deeply honored and I'm extremely grateful and terribly humble," said Ford, 60, a former star football player at the University of Michigan, a 25-year veteran of the House of Representatives and its Republican leader since early 1965.

Ford emerged from a post-announcement White House reception, smiling and drenched with sweat, and spoke to reporters scrambling for comment about the 1976 elections.

"I have no intentions of running for President or vice president," said Ford, adding that he told Nixon the same thing earlier in the evening.

Nixon's decision was greeted by overwhelming and enthusiastic approval from members of the House and Senate, which under the 25th Amendment must confirm Ford by a majority vote of both chambers before he can take office.

During his congressional career, Ford built a reputation for honesty and integrity that is generally freely acknowledged by Democrats and Republican alike.

Mrs. Ford added, "This is wonderful."

Informed administration sources said Haig, at Nixon's direction, telephoned former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally in Texas during the day and discussed the vice presidency. It was not known whether Haig relayed a firm offer of the job from the President.

Other reports said Connally turned down an offer when informed of widespread opposition to his possible nomination among Democrats and liberal Republicans, ranging from Percy to House Democratic Leader Thomas P. O'Neill of Massachusetts.

The House and Senate will meet in a rare Saturday session to receive Nixon's formal nomination of Ford to become the 40th vice president of the United States.

The House already has decided to refer the nomination to its Judiciary Committee, headed by Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N.J., but the Senate late Friday bogged down in a procedural dispute over how to handle the matter.

Liberal Democrats succeeded in blocking a Senate leadership drive to refer the nomination to an expanded Senate Rules Committee, which is dominated by conservatives, until the liberals could learn the political ideology of the new proposed vice president.

But after Nixon's announcement, legislators of both parties rallied around Ford and predicted easy confirmation. Laird told reporters in Hot Springs, Ark., he was confident Ford would be confirmed within two weeks.

The White House said it was not until 7:30 p.m. EDT —only 90 minutes before Nixon went on the air to make his announcement —that Nixon's chief of staff, Alexander M. Haig Jr., telephoned Ford and gave him the news.

The White House said Nixon informed Ford during a late morning White House meeting that he was among those being considered. Ford said later, however, that he knew nothing of the President's final choice.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, who also met with Nixon, indicated Ford had been on Nixon's list of five finalists for the job but had been eliminated at the end.

Haig said that when he called Ford, he asked that the House leader's wife also join the conversation.

"I am pleased to notify you and your wife the President will nominate you to the Congress to be the next vice president of the United States," Haig said.

Then, according to Haig, Ford said: "I am honored."

Agnew asks TV time for speech

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Spiro T. Agnew has asked broadcast networks for time to address the nation Monday night.

NBC said Friday that Agnew would appear on television at 7:30 p.m. EDT and CBS said Agnew would be on radio at 8 p.m.

ABC said it had not yet been contacted.

J. Marsh Thomson, Agnew's press secretary while he was vice president, said he "presumed" that Agnew was at his home in suburban Montgomery County. Md., when President Nixon addressed the nation on television to announce that House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford was his choice to succeed Agnew.

Thomson said he had not seen the former vice president at all Friday.

When asked his reaction to Ford's nomination, Thomson said, "I think it's fine, just fine."

He emphasized, however, that he was speaking just for himself.

Court of Appeals orders Nixon to give up tapes

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The U. S. Court of Appeals Friday ordered President Nixon to turn over the Watergate tapes to Judge John J. Sirica for review prior to grand jury scrutiny, but said the President could withhold those portions dealing with national defense or foreign relations.

Assuring a historic executive-judiciary confrontation that will have to be settled by the Supreme Court, the Appeals Court ruled Sirica and Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox must be given access to the material to assess its revelvance to the grand jury's investigation of evidence concerning Watergate. Cox' review would be "limited" to helping Sirica in his determination of what is relevant.

To allow for the certain Supreme Court appeal, the Appeals Court stayed its order for five days.

Sirica ruled Aug. 26 that the White House should turn over the tapes to him to inspect privately to determine what parts if any should be given to the grand jury. Both Cox and Nixon had opposed this. Cox said the grand jury was entitled to the entire unedited tapes and Nixon contended they were wholly private conversations.

The court said it was "sensitive" to the White House claim that candor of persons talking to the President would be impaired if they knew their conversations were made public. However, it said, the President could not show a case where a court "has accepted the executive's mere assertion of privilege as sufficient to overcome the needs of the party subpoenaing the documents."

Two of the judges, both Nixon appointees, attached separate opinions —concurring in part with the ruling dissenting in part.

Judge George McKinnon said he believed disclosure of the tapes would endanger the presidential decision-making process, while Malcolm Wilkey said the decision threatened the separation of powers.

But the ruling itself minced no words in denying Nixon's contentions.

"These are invitations to refashion the Constitution, and we reject them," it said.

"Though the President is elected by nationwide ballot and is often said to represent all the people, he does not embody the nation's sovereignty. He is not above the law's commands: 'With all its defects, delays and inconveniences men have discovered no technique for long preserving free government except that the Executive be under law . . .' Sovereignty remains at all times with the people, and they do not forfeit through elections the right to have the law construe against and apply to every citizen."

The Court's order said that "without compromising the confidentiality of the information" the District Court shtuld follow this kind of a procedure:

"1. Insofar as the President makes a claim that certain material may not be disclosed because the matter relates to national defense or foreign relations, he may decline to transmit that portion of the material and ask the district court to reconsider whether in camera inspection of the material is necessary. The special prosecutor is entitled to inspect the claim and showing and may be heard there on in chambers. If the judge sustains the privilege the text of the government's statement will be preserved in the court's record under seal.

"2. The President will present to the district court all other items covered by the district court with the specification of which segments he believes may be disclosed and which not. This indexing the material and correlating indexed items with particular claims of privilege. On request of either counsel, the District Court shall hold a hearing in chambers on the claims. Thereafter the court shall inspect the disputed items."

15 powers try to halt war, but hopes failing

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The world's 15 most powerful nations gathered at the United Nations for a fourth attempt to end Middle East fighting Friday, but hope that the war could be stopped faded as Israel, the Arabs and the Soviet Union traded charges.

Syria told Security Council members its army would continue fighting "until all the (Israeli) aggressors are driven out" of Syria.

The Syrian representative, in an emotional speech, called Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan "today's Hitler," and ridiculed a reported Dayan statement Friday that Damascus would fall within 24 hours.

"It will fall only when there is no one in Damascus alive," he said.

He also charged Israel, "unsatisfied with dropping napalm bombs," had dumped delayed-action bombs on the suburbs of Damascus during air raids. He said one blew up at a hospital Friday, further injuring three war wounded, including an Israeli prisoner.

His hard-line speech, coupled with less passionate but equally tough statements by Soviet, Israeli and Egyptian representatives, diminished glimmers of hope Friday that the Security Council might at least consider sending a UN force to the Middle East to police a ceasefire.

The idea was first broached publicly by British foreign secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home, who said earlier this week he favored such a force, free of both Israeli and Arab control, to end the week-old war.

Political leaders hail Ford choice

The political leaders who had been considered Gerald Ford's rivals for President Nixon's choice as vice president congratulated the House Republican leader Friday night in statements from across the country.

"I support the President's choice of Congressman Ford for vice president with enthusiasm," former Treasury Secretary John Connally said at his ranch at Floresville, Tex.

"Gerald Ford is an able leader, a man of integrity and dedication with a long record of distinguished service to his party and the nation. I know that he will do honor to the office," Connally said.

California Gov. Ronald Reagan, a potential contender for president in 1976, said in Sacramento he thought Nixon acted "wisely" in his choice of a replacement for Spiro T. Agnew.

"Now it behooves all Americans to unite behind the President's administration and his efforts to cope with the many urgent and serious domestic and international problems confronting the country," Reagan said in a prepared statement.

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who was known to be keenly interested in the nomination, offered his "heartiest congratulations" to Ford.

Rockefeller said Ford has "my pledge of unreserved help in any way I can possibly be of assistance to the nation, the President and the Vice President in these most critical times in the world."

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., another potential 1976 presidential candidate, said of Ford: "I don't think there is any question about it. I've known him for 24 years. He's an exceptional man. He will sail through Congressional confirmation proceedings rather quickly."

Claremont coeds in Golan Heights

War goes on, but area girls in Mideast safe

CLAREMONT — Although they live with the rumble of war nearby, and see jet fighters overhead flash by every day, two Claremont coeds now working on a kibbutz near the Golan Heights are apparently safe.

Dena Belinkoff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adar Belinkoff and a former Teen Scope correspondent for the Progress-Bulletin, called her parents this week to report that with the tide of the war turning in her area, she and her companion are no longer in danger.

The companion is Susan Elhai, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William N. Elhai. Both are involved in a one-year work-study program on Kibbutz Maayan Naruch approximately 15 miles from the Syrian cease-fire line of 1967.

Miss Belinkoff told her parents that although no one from the kibbutz—the Israeli village—has had to be evacuated, everyone is sleeping in air raid shelters.

She said on the day of her call a guerilla rocket exploded near her home, but no one was injured.

The sound of war is all around, she told her parents, and air activity goes on overhead at all hours, but work at the kibbutz has now settled back to a routine, because "for the people here living in constant danger is a way of life."

Nominee Gerald Ford . . .

A 'Mr. Clean' of politics

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The square jaw now has jowls, the sandy hair has thinned and the broad shoulders are still broad above a paunch, but Gerald Rudolph Ford still comes on like the football star he was at the University of Michigan.

At 60, Ford —President Nixon's nominee for vice president —looks more like 50 and his energy seems endless. He is "Mr. Clean" in his political and personal life, according to his Democratic competitors and Republican colleagues.

Ford gave a candid view of what he thought a vice president should be when his Michigan delegation to the 1960 Republican boomed him as a "favorite son" for the second spot n the Nixon ticket.

"He should be on the conservative side in domestic affairs, but take a broad view internationally. He can't be an isolationist," Ford said then. "And I think he should be somewhere in the age range between 45 and 60," he added, a qualification that he just managed to meet.

Born July 14, 1913, in Omaha, Neb., Ford was reared in Grand Rapids, Mich., graduated from the University of Michigan in 1935 and got a law degree from Yale in 1941. He served on an aircraft carrier in World War II, finishing as a lieutenant commander when he returned home in 1946.

It was at Michigan that Ford made his name as a football star, playing center on the school's 1932 and 1933 undefeated teams. He was named Michigan's most valuable player in 1934.

This football background has been the origin of criticisms that Ford's few enemies have leveled privately —but not for the record —"He played too much football without a helmet."

Ford is considered among the lesser orators in the House but rates high on respect for his political infighting to win votes for a bill from his Democratic opponents.

His ambition to progress up the political ladder is well known. He organized the "Young Turks" revolt of junior GOP House members that overthrew Rep. Charles Halleck, R-Ind., as their leader, and got Halleck's job as a result. He never has been seriously challenged in the spot.

An story leading up to the dethronement of Halleck centered around a Ford Motor Co. —the nominee is not related to the auto company Fords — slogan of the times, "There's a Ford in your future." The morning after Ford was named to the No. 2 spot behind Halleck as House GOP whip in 1963, Halleck walked into his office to be confronted by a large sign bearing the Ford slogan.

Ford was married Oct. 15, 1948, to Elizabeth Bloomer of Grand Rapids and they have four children, Michael, 23; John, 21; Steven, 17, and Susan, 16. Ford is an Episcopalian, smokes a pipe and takes an occasional social drink.

HOISTING THE ISRAELI FLAG — Israeli soldiers stir memories of past conflicts and past hardwon victories as they hoist the 'Star of David' banner over a portion of Syrian territory on Friday.

U.S. student's death still a mystery

327 prisoners get freedom in Chile

SANTIAGO (UPI) — An autopsy on an American student arrested and shot to death following the Chilean military coup revealed 17 bullet wounds in his body, the American Embassy said Friday.

The student, Frank R. Teruggi, 23, of Des Plaines, Ill., was living in Santiago and studying at the University of Chile when a military coup overthrew Marxist President Salvador Allende Sept. 11. He is the only U.S citizen known to have died in the country following the military takeover.

Prisoners freed

Outside the national soccer stadium Friday, thousands of mothers, wives and sweethearts wept with joy when the junta freed the first large group of prisoners held there since the coup.

More than 3,000 persons were camped outside the stadium where thousands of suspected dissidents and troublemakers had been held since the junta ousted Allende.

As the first group of 327, including seven women, walked smiling past soldiers carrying automatic rifles and through the steel gates, the waiting crowds found their loved ones, embraced and burst into tears.

"They've killed him"

One young couple locked in a prolongzd kiss. Nearby, a shabbily dressed woman, trailed by three small children, became hysterical when she failed to find her husband among the freed prisoners.

"I can't find him! I can't find him!" she wailed. "They've killed him!"

Before being freed the prisoners heard a stern lecture from Army Maj. Sergio Acuna who advised them to keep out of trouble and suggested they keep their hair short, their chins shaved and their clothes neat. Most of the men, who stood holding small bundles of belongings, were unshaven and unkempt after weeks at the stadium.

"There is no law against long hair and beards," Acuna said. "There is no law that says you have to wear well-pressed clothes, baggy clothes, or any other kind. But we in the military know that sloppiness on the outside is a sign of a disordered life, and we can spot a potential troublemaker 15 blocks away by his appearance."

No explanation

In Terrugi's case, Don Planty, an assistant Embassy press officer, said there has been no explanation from Chilean authorities for Teruggi's death.

The government has told the Embassy that Teruggi was arrested Sept. 20 and taken to the makeshift prison camp at the national stadium but released the following day. He body was found on Sept. 22 and was taken to a morgue where it lay unclaimed until a U.S. consular official identified it Oct. 4 from fingerprints and dental records.

The commander of the stadium prison camp maintains Teruggi was picked up as a curfew violator but a roommate of Teruggi, who was arrested at the same time and later released, said they were both arrested by a military patrol at a home they shared.

Catholic man killed, 2 hurt in bomb blast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) —A young Roman Catholic man was killed and his two sisters, a younger brother and a Protestant woman were injured Friday when a bomb exploded inside a border village grocery store. Bombs also exploded in three Belfast railway stations.

Police said Raymond McAdam, 25, his sisters, Maureen, 20, and Bernadette, 15, and his brother Desmond, 10, went to help a Protestant woman identified only as Mrs. Nicholl, 68, when they heard glass break in the grocery store at Gorthnacarrow Bridge, 80 miles southwest of Belfast.

The bomb exploded as McAdam led Mrs. Nicholl from the store, killing him instantly. Mrs. Nicholl and the two girls were seriously injured by the blast and Desmond slightly injured.

'Out of fairness' to defendant

Mitchell's lawyers request trial site in Mississippi

NEW YORK (UPI) —Attorneys for former Attorney General John Mitchell and Former Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans who are awaiting trial in New York on criminal conspiracy and other charges said Friday the case should be shifted to Aberdeen, Miss., out of fairness to the defendants.

In their petition, the defense attorneys said a telephone poll of five cities indicated the Mississippi town of 6,507 residents was the most likely place to provide a fair and impartial jury.

By contrast, the defense said, the pretrial publicity, especially the Watergate investigation in which both defendants are involved, has made a fair trial in New York or Washington virtually impossible.

Other cities surveyed

Besides Aberdeen and New York, the other cities surveyed were Tyler, Tex., Fort Smith, Ark. and Shreveport, La. The poll was conducted by an independent company during a three-day period last August.

Mitchell, 60, and Stans, 65, are scheduled to go on trial on Oct. 23 on charges of conspiracy, perjury and obstructing justice. They were indicted last May for allegedly trying to influence a major stock fraud investigation in exchange for a $200,000 secret cash contribution to President Nixon's reelection campaign last year.

Request denied

Federal Judge Lee Gagliardi, who will preside at the trial, denied last August the first defense motion for a change of the trial location. The government had argued that the Watergate publicity was so pervasive it affected all areas of the country. Gagliardi took Friday's petition under advisement.

In the latest motion for transfer, attorney Peter Fleming said the independent poll showed a "substantially better jury can be drawn in each of the other districts, especially Aberdeen."

"The government's claim that a transfer could do no good is completely disproved," he said.

The opinion poll, Fleming said, showed that 22 per cent of the New Yorkers questioned believed Mitchell guilty of the charges while 16 per cent felt that Stans was guilty. In Aberdeen, six per cent believed Mitchell guilty and four per cent felt Stans was.

Aberdeen is located in Monroe County about half way between Birmingham, Ala., and Memphis, Tenn.

Nixon reported billing U.S. for his expenses

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's personal attorney and his architect ordered property surveys, special lighting for the grounds and swimming pool, and a new electric heating system for Nixon's San Clemente estate and then sent the bills to the federal government, Congress was told Friday.

John F. Galuardi, deputy commissioner of the General Services Administration, told the House Government Activities Subcommittee that the work was requested by attorney Herbert Kalmbach and architect Harold Lynch.

The subcommittee is investigating government expenditures on Nixon properties. Under questioning from Chairman Jack Brooks, D-Tex., Galuardi said Kalmbach ordered a survey of the entire estate in 1969 as well as a structural survey of the home.

The survey firm, South Coast Engineering, billed Kalmbach for the work, according to Brooks, who in turn sent the bills, totaling $4,400, to GSA for payment.

Galuardi said he was unaware of the Kalmbach surveys at the time and ordered his own survey at the request of the Secret Service to construct a wall around the estate.

"It shows a lax way of picking up the tabs for work ordered by other people," Brooks said, noting that Galuardi could have asked Kalmbach for a copy of the survey.

Galuardi said Lynch had requested the installation of a new $11,800 heating system in the Nixon home to repiace the gas system which he said was "faulty" and possibly dangerous.

Under Kalmbach's orders, Lynch also ordered and designed the lighting installations around the estate at a cost of over $4,300 and sent the bill to GSA, according to subcommittee documents.

To affect meat prices

Wheat, corn crops 'down'

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The size of the 1973 corn crop was reported down 5 million bushels from last month's estimate and the wheat crop was down 700,000 bushels from September estimates—an indication of the outlook for future food supplies and prices—the Agriculture Department said Friday.

The department's regular October crop report estimated a record 5.7 billion bushels of corn on the basis of Oct. 1 conditions, down 5 million bushels from last month's forecast. The report also showed that production of all livestock feed grains combined rose slightly from last month but forecasts for cotton, soybeans and spring wheat all were off slightly.

Corn is the nation's basic livestock feed grain and fluctuations in prices of feed strongly affect meat prices. The new crop was 4 per cent above last year's 5.6 billion bushels. The total winter and spring wheat harvest—important in bread prices—was estimated at 1.7 billion bushels, down 700 thousand bushels from last month but 12 per cent above last year.

Despite the forecast of new records for many crops, the estimates indicated production of grains, including rice, would fall short of the heavy domestic and world demand which has pushed prices for many commodities to new peaks this year. The shortfalls will be made up by drawing on the nation's already thin grain reserves, with the specific outlook remaining uncertain because trade estimates of exports are still above government predictions.

For both corn and wheat, for example, the Agriculture Department predicts exports for the 1973-74 season will be 1.1 billion bushels. But reports filed with the government by exporters point to potential shipments of about 1.3 billion bushels of each crop.

Baking industry spokesmen, claiming that the United States could run short of wheat next spring unless something is done, have asserted export controls are needed in spite of this year's big harvest. But administration officials have rejected the idea and have predicted that with this year's big harvest and an even bigger one projected for 1974, the worst of the food inflation spiral may have passed.

Such a service would include a stop in Pomona.

State still investigating fair mishap

POMONA — The cause of Sept. 30's crash of the Hurricane thrill ride at the Los Angeles County Fair "is still under investigation," a spokesman for the state Industrial Safety Division said Friday.

Eleven persons were injured in the Fun Zone accident which occurred the closing night of the fair's 17-day run. Three were injured seriously and two remained today under treatment at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. Margareta Howle, 40-year-old Los Angeles woman, was out of the intensive care unit and was reported in fair condition. Carmen R. Batras, 21, Baldwin Park, was in satisfactory condition.

The breakdown sent one of the Hurricane's cars crashing into a fence and threw some victims as far as 30 feet.

The spokesman said he hopes tests of the ride and evaluation of them will be completed in about two weeks.

Jury selection over

Trial of prison-stabbing case to open

ONTARIO — Testimony in the trial of a California Institution for Men inmate accused of stabbing another inmate at the Southern Reception Guidance Center March 22 will begin in West Valley Superior Court Monday.

Wednesday and Thursday 12 jurors were selected to hear the case against inmate Isaac Melvin Trunnell, 23, now serving a life sentence. Trunnell is accused of stabbing inmate Nicolas P. Tomayo on March 22 as he was entering the recreation yard. Trunnell, who is expected to claim self-defense, is represented by attorney John Chakmak. West Valley Deputy Dist. Atty. Donald Krout will present the state's case against Trunnell before Superior Court Judge Richard C. Garner.

Judge Garner told the potential jurors Thursday that the case may be concluded by the end of next week.

Trunnell recently was arrested in connection with the stabbing of CIM inmate Robert Augustine Elias, 26, in a holding cell in the San Bernardino County Jail. Elias was one of three inmates recently convicted of assault with a deadly weapon on two brothers at CIM. Charges against Trunnell were dismissed when Elias chose not to talk about the incident.

Detective will resume campus 'raps'

CLAREMONT — Detective Gus Kitterle has announced the hours that he will be visiting the junior high and high school campuses to "rap" with students.

Kitterle last year reported the program as school resource officer was successful, although court time kept him from visiting on the campuses as much as he wanted.

Kitterle will lunch with El Roble students on Mondays, and with La Puerta students Thursday.

He will be at his "office" in room 617, across from the snack bar at Claremont High School from about 9 to 11:30 a.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays.

He visits San Antonio Continuation High School Wednesdays.

"So far I have had a good response this year," Kitterle said. "The students like to rap, ask questions about tickets or police matters. Even teachers seek me out to ask questions students have put to them."

Kitterle said that he can also operate as a rumor control center.

Carnival events slated

Haunted House back for Claremont's Halloween

CLAREMONT — After a one-year absence, the community Halloween celebration will return to Memorial Park Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 30.

The city-sponsored activity will feature the Haunted House, a perennial favorite with the youngsters and with many parents.

"For the Fright of Your Life" is the theme of the 1973 Haunted House, which will contain various ghosts and witches in colorful costumes.

Parents will be allowed to accompany their smaller children through the house with its wailing walls and creaking stairs. The cost will be 10 cents a person.

Many free carnival activities will keep the youngsters bewitched, such as a pumpkin carving contest, witch apple dunk, broom relay, and ghoul marshmallow roll all beginning at 3 p.m., a goblin tug-of-war starting at 3:15 p.m., and a costume contest at 4 p.m.

Last year, the witches and warlocks were disappointed because the city moved its Halloween celebration to El Barrio Park, and the Haunted House received no visitors.

TV program due on Claremont Colleges

CLAREMONT — Activities at the six campuses of the Claremont Colleges will be featured today on KNBC-TV's "On Campus" program.

Because of the start of the World Series coverage, the show will be seen at noon rather than at its usual time of 2:30 p.m.

Chino trustee links students to grass fires

CHINO — When school buses are late, children are apt to play.

And in Los Serranos, some youngsters have been suspected of starting fires while waiting for buses delayed by fog.

Because of problems that might be caused by pupils milling around, Allen McCombs, a member of the Chino school board, has requested that the sheriff's office be notified when buses will be running late. Officers could patrol the area and "keep the lid" on the ituation, he explained.

Supt. Royce Lapp reported the district has a routine procedure on foggy mornings of having the KWOW radio station broadcast when buses will arrive. The district, he added, can also notify the sheriff's station.

In other school board action, trustees:

— Approved a revised student crossing guard plan for the intersection of Benson and Walnut avenues, near the Walnut Avenue School.

— Accepted an electric range and sink-cabinet combination for Glenmeade Elementary School, donated by the Glenmeade PTA.

— Accepted three slide projectors, two overhead projectors, two listening posts and four audio visual carts donated to Newman Elementary School by the Newman PTA.

— Ratified the appointment of Manuel Vizcaino as the seventh member of the Chino Recreation Commission.

— Approved a $2,000 expenditure to upgrade the Chino High School runway.

— Approved a modified school program, from Nov. 26 to Dec. 14, at Boys Republic to allow student participation in the Della Robbia Wreath work experience program.

Explorer on MSAC agenda

WALNUT — "John Muir's High Sierra," presented and narrated by explorer Dewitt Jones, will be the first presentation in Mt. San Antonio College's Community Services travel film series this fall.

Jones' film, featuring Yosemite Valley, Washington's Column and other scenic spots of the Sierra Nevada, will be shown Tuesday, Oct. 30, at 8 p.m. in Room 101 of the Social Science Center.

Other films scheduled for the series include "Serenade to Spain," Nov. 27; "Hong Kong," Jan. 8; and "Hungary," Feb. 5.

Admission to the series is 50 cents and tickets may be purchased through the college's Community Services office.

Uplander hurt in Indian Hill mishap

CLAREMONT — An Upland woman was injured slightly Thursday afternoon in a two-car collision on Indian Hill Boulevard at the southbound offramp of the San Bernardino Freeway.

Joann C. Rypkema, 20, 285 Verdugo Way was treated at San Antonio Community Hospital, Upland. The other driver, Victor H. Sartor, 28, 1334 W. Foothill Blvd., Upland, was unhurt.

Sheriff's dept. post filled in West End

ONTARIO — Sgt. James Marlowe, formerly of the San Bernardino County sheriff's substation in Crestline, has been assigned to the position of relief watch commander at the West End sheriff's substation, announced West End substation Commander Edward Noon.

Marlowe, 40, a 17-year law enforcement veteran, will assume the position vacated by Sgt. Leo Lewis who recently retired. Lewis is now working with the San Bernardino County coroner's office.

Marlowe for 12 years was an officer with the Holtville Police Department until joining the San Bernardino County Sheriff's Department five years ago. Marlowe was working as a detective at the Crestline substation. He makes his home in Ontario.

Weekend workshop slated on 'Understanding China'

LA VERNE — Dr. John Jang, associate professor of history and chairman of the social sciences division at La Verne College, is instructing a weekend workshop "Understanding China" in the History Room, La Verne College Library-Learning Center.

An expert on Asian and Soviet history and a native of Canton, China, Jang left his homeland with his family shortly after World War II. Much of his current information on internal and external developments in the People's Republic of China was gathered during trips to Asia made annually during the past 25 years.

Lectures and discussions will also be conducted by recognized Sinologists who will show movies and contemporary slides on China.

Participants will meet from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. today.

TRUCK OVERTURNED

Pomona firemen view a gravel truck which overturned Friday on the San Bernardino Freeway near Orange Grove Avenue. Lupe Lopez of 11356 Vernon Ave., Chino, the driver, escaped injury. He was going west on the freeway when a rear tire blew out, causing a load of gravel to shift to one side. The truck then overturned and skidded 125 feet. Three lanes of traffic were closed for about one hour.

2 La Verne streets will be resurfaced

LA VERNE — Portions of two streets will be resurfaced by the county this month in the La Verne area, County Supervisor Peter Schabarum announced.

Bank wins fight for sign in Claremont

CLAREMONT — The City Council has denied an appeal of a proposed 4 by 4-foot United California Bank sign above the Foothill Boulevard retaining wall at Griswold's Old School House.

The appeal of the Arichitectural Commission's approval was made by Councilwoman Bertye Smith who said at Tuesday's meeting that the sign for United California Bank would be setting a precedent, and would constitute an inequity.

She said that the GOSH complex at Indian Hill and Foothill boulevards has a major identification sign on the wall at the corner, and that UCB has received approval for two signs on the bank building and a sign on the Indian Hill Boulevard entrance wall.

She noted that no other businesses in GOSH have free-standing signs outside the complex. The UCB sign which Mrs. Smith objected to would be installed in a planter behind the wall, but would face east and west above the wall for Foothill Boulevard traffic.

E. W. Penner, construction manager for UCB, told the council it is necessary for traffic identification to have a sign near Foothill Boulevard, and asked for favorabel consideration of the sign.

He said tha UCB hopes to open its new bank operation "before Thanksgiving."

Councilwoman Claire McDonald backed Mrs. Smith and said, "It seems we are getting a great proliferation of signs at GOSH."

After Councilman Frank Hungerford moved for denial of the appeal, Councilman Gene Block said he liked the sign, and suggested that a building permit be permitted only after the city had received a letter from GOSH owner Sandy Sanford that no other signs would be allowed on the boulevard walls.

Hungerford agreed to add the letter requirement to his motion.

City Atty. William Bergman cautioned the council that such a condition would not be binding on a future council or future owner of GOSH.

Hungerford and Block voted for the motion, with Mrs. McDonald voting no. Mayor Craig McManigal abstained from voting because he represents Sanford in legal cases, and Mrs. Smith couldn't vote because she was the appellant.

In other actions, the council:

—Decided to meet Oct. 30 because the majority of the council will be attending the League of California Cities conference in San Francisco when the next regular council meeting is scheduled.

—Turned over to the city Convention Bureau the responsibilities of welcoming to the city various conferences and conventions and having the mayor sign the appropriate welcoming letter.

—Accepted the bid of J. T. Jenkins Co. for two refuse packers for $66,832.11.

—Set for public hearing Oct. 30 the Planning Commission's recommendation for approval of rezoning of Lewis Homes, Inc., property north of Base Line Road and east of Claremont Heights Drive from single-family 13,000-square-foot lots to a horse overlay district.

The council also decided to write a letter of protest to Gov. Ronald Reagan over the drastic change in billing procedures for workmen's compensation insurance premiums.

Deputy City Manager Norman R. King said that such a change "portends financial disaster for the city during the 1973-74 fiscal year."

King explained that in the past the city has made a small advance payment during the policy year and paid the remainder after a salary audit in the next fiscal year.

King has been informed by the state that not only must the city pay the remainder of the 1972-73 premium as in the past, but the city must pay about $60,000 for the policy year 1973-74 by June 30, 1974.

King explained that this is a one-time increase of $40,000 to $45,000 over that budgeted for this current fiscal year.

Ride the highway of horrors

Vietnam battlefield now lure for tourist trade

By TRACY WOOD

QUANG TRI, Vietnam UPI — See the ruined city. See the wars front lines. Ride the highway of horrors. Now you can.

South Vietnam has jumped into international tourism with a unique package deal: weekend trips to the Quang Tri battlefield, scene of the heaviest fighting of the Indochina War.

The only injury a tourist is likely to sustain is blistered feet if he doesn't wear comfortable shoes.

Still, marines in outposts along Highway 1 — the "highway of horrors" — leading to Quang Tri city, burst out laughing last weekend at the sight of buses with "Air Vietnam Jet Tours" printed on the side and camera-burdened men and women in flowered hats and bright shirts.

No tourist trap

But there's not a tourist trap on the entire itinerary—yet—and the best souvenirs are authentic and free-shell casings, feal treads from destroyed tanks, rusty helmets, broken canteens and brick shards from the rubble that once was Quang Tri city.

All of the ground fighting was done by South Vietnamese marines and paratroopers who won back in six months of intense battles about a quarter of the territory overrun by the Communists at the start of the 1972 spring offensive.

Many of the Vietnamese on the tour knelt and placed burning incense sticks on the altar, which marks the spot where a convoy of more than 2,000 persons, including old men, women, children and wounded soldiers, was ambushed by North Vietnamese troops.

Those who were not killed outright were left to die of their wounds and thirst in the hot, barren sand dunes on the two-mile stretch of highway. Their bodies rotted in the sun for weeks until South Vietnamese troops recaptured the area and graves were dug.

The tourists climbed among the rusting wreckage of trucks, cars, pedicabs and motorcycles trapped in the convoy. Farther up the road, the tour also stopped and flowers were placed on the altar at the bombed-out La Vang basilica.

Then, "We are now in the city of Quang Tri," announced a tour guide. "All of the houses were destroyed. Not even one house stands, not even one."

The statement was unnecessary. As far as the eye could see, there was nothing but shellholes and huge mounds of rubble.

At the bank of the Thach Han River on the edge of Quang Tri the tourists piled out of the buses to gaze across the river at the "front line" dividing the Communists from the marines. "Over there" were the white tents and red and blue Viet Cong flags.

Then the tour moved to the most famous of the Quang Tri battlefields, the 164-year-old walled citadel-last stronghold of the Communists. It fell to the marines "at 10 a.m. on Sept. 16, 1972 when the 6th battalion raised the flag over the west gate," a marine guide proudly told the tourists.

More conventional

The rest of the trip is more conventional-sightseeing in the 200-year-old city of Hue, visits to the majectic tombs of the old emperors in he rolling green countryside and an excursion to the Hue marketplace.

Air Vietnam, the nation's commercial airline, began the weekend tours in early Sep-

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Cures for cancer are not just around the corner, the chairman of the President Cancer Panel says.

"The worst thing we can do is indicate that in a couple of more years, if we spend enough money, we will have a magic wand," Benno C. Schmidt told newsmen.

"Cancer is a terribly complicated subject. It is not a single disease and probably won't lend itself to a single cure. It is many diseases and many approaches will be required. Progress will come on them one by one unless we have a miraculous cure, which none of us truly expects today," he said.

Schmidt, chairman of the Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center in New York City, was appointed two years ago to the Cancer Panel, which supervises the national cancer research program.

Schmidt was here to address the annual meeting of the California Division of the American Cancer Society in Newport Beach.

Progress is being made against cancer, he added.

"Five years ago a patient with acute lymphocytic leukemia could hope for a remission but not a cure," he said. "Today if they go to the right source of treatment the majority of cases can be cured."

Ten types of cancer, which cause one sixth of all cancer deaths, can sometimes be cured today, although they were incurable 10 years ago, he said.

He said it was a "serious mistake" for the administration to cut funds to train young doctors to become cancer research experts. Undoubtedly there were abuses in the program, he said, but "training dollars were the best dollars spent."

He said he would try to have restored the money that was cut from the budget of the National Cancer Institute. The institute asked for $640 million but the Office of Management and Budget cut it to $500 million. "But I understand their problem," Schmidt said. "You don't solve cancer by just throwing money at it."

New clues for virus theory in MS disease

BOSTON (UPI) — Three doctors from Massachusetts General Hospital have disclosed one of the strongest clues yet indicating that multiple sclerosis (MS) may be caused by a virus.

Reporting in the current New England Journal of Medicine, the doctors said they found that 14 confirmed MS victims in Mansfield Mass., had lived there in 1932 when a pond and city waterways were found to be highly contaminated with bacteria. All were about 14 years old at the time.

The disease is a neuromuscular disorder in which the fatty tissue around the nerves breaks down and resulting scars slow or block electrical impulses between the brain and muscles. The result can be total or partial disability.

The doctors who reported on the Mansfield cases are David C. Poskanzer, Richard Eastman and Jean Sheridan.

Their research began after one of Poskanzer's patients from Mansfield mentioned that there seemed to be a high incidence of the disease there.

Of the 14 cases in the community of 1,000 persons, nine grew up there and eight of the nine lived within several blocks of each other.

Vitamin won't help ulcerative colitis

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have chronic ulcerative colitis for which I consult my doctor at regular intervals — without much improvement, I admit.

A health-minded friend, a nurse, has recommended a number of items she thinks would help me, such as vitamin E, lecithin, etc. She also says "no white flour" while the doctor says "no whole wheat."

Would you comment on the value, if any, of vitamin E and lecithin in particular, as well as any general suggesions for the diet of a patient with ulcerative colitis. Are protein supplements of any value?

Dear Reader — For the benefit of our other readers, your problem of ulcerative colitis is a disease that affects the colon primarily. It causes attacks of severe diarrhea, similar to dysentery. As such, it causes a loss of fluid and important salts from the body. In severe cases it can result in hemorrhage from the bowel.

Ulcerative colitis actually affects much more of the intestinal tract. The colon normally does not enter into digestion other than in its role of reabsorption of water from food residue. All of the absorption of nutrients, vitamins, and minerals occurs in the small intestine. Yet these digestive functions are also often impaired in patients with ulcerative colitis. The decreased absorption of vitamin K often leads to an increased tendency to bleeding.

The involvement of the small intestine often destroys the enzymes there that are necessary to absorb milk sugar, lactose. As a result many patients with ulcerative colitis cannot digest milk or milk products.

To answer your specific questions, vitamin E is not likely to help you much. There is no reliable evidence of it having helped any ulcerative colitis patients. Lecithin is not absorbed from anyone's intestine, even in normal people. Lecithin is a combination of choline and a fatty acid containing phosphorous. The enzymes normally present in the intestine break it apart into choline and its fatty acid or it can't be absorbed.

The lecithin in the body is formed from food substances in the liver. The choline is important, but any diet that contains sufficient protein found in animal proteins provides the materials the body uses to manufacture choline, which it can do. So, I am not optimistic that either of these measures will be helpful to you.

Because ulcerative colitis patients often lose protein during their attacks, I do recommend a high protein intake. You can either enjoy this in the form of protein foods (meat, poultry, fish) and have the added advantage and diet satisfaction of bulk, or you can take protein powder supplements.

Your doctor must think it possible that you don't tolerate gluten and that this may be a factor in your problem. Whole wheat bread contains more gluten than white bread, but if gluten is a problem I would wonder about your eating any breads or cereals (except corn or rice) or any foods that contain them.

What you need to do about vitamin, mineral and protein supplements depends a lot on how much trouble you are having with absorption. That varies a lot with different patients.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of The Progress-Bulletin, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's new booklet on diverticulosis, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Diverticulosis" booklet.

Death cruel blow not only to the young

By JEAN ADAMS

LIFE AND DEATH: (Comment) This is a true story of teen-age love.

When I was 8 my mother died, and I took it very hard. Being the only girl, I took over a lot of responsibility. By the time I was 10 I was doing everything.

Each summer I spent at the lake where we have a cottage.

Up the road from us was a boy named Guy. My father hated Guy. Every year I would count the days until summer so that I could be with Guy. By the time I was 12 and Guy 14, we knew we loved each other. My father knew I saw him, but he thought it was a crush and that I would get over him.

One winter weekend Guy was coming to see me at our home in town because it was my birthday. He was two blocks from my house when a man who had been drinking quite heavily struck him with his car and killed him.

Guy's parents showed their love most at this time. They comforted me greatly. They knew I loved him and he loved me, and they had been happy for us.

The thing that hurt me the most was that my father said "Good!" when he heard Guy was dead. He wouldn't even go to the funeral.

Something about parents is weird. They say they care but sometimes when you need them the most they're not there. I hope that all parents who read this will BE there when their kids need their help and love.

You may think I'd be bitter, but I'm not. I'm just sad and heartbroken. The fact that one or two older people have misjudged you or mistreated you doesn't mean you have to hate the whole establishment. I don't.

I don't hate my father for being that way about Guy. I don't even hate the man who killed him. I just feel sorry for them because they can't see things the way they are.—Sad in Virginia.

(A) Thank you for writing. Almost anything I could say would be superfluous. But try to see that maybe your mother's death was a great blow to your father, too, and maybe he, being older, wasn't able to recover from it as you did. You will recover from this blow, too.

Ship captain reprimanded for overload

LONG BEACH (UPI) —A Coast Guard hearing officer reprimanded the captain of the excursion SS Catalina Thursday for carrying too many passengers on the Aug. 5 Avalon to San Pedro run and the ship purser was suspended for six onths.

Capt. Lloyd S. Fredgren, 61, and Chief Purser Howard E. McKee were charged with violating U.S. maritime regulations.

McKee's certificate was also made subject to six months probation after the active suspension.

The SS Catalina is laid up for the winter but will be able to resume its regular operation next summer because the suspension will have expired.

The ship carried 2,283 passengers on its 25-mile trip between the island and the mainland Aug. 5. That was 43 persons more than it is licensed to carry by the Coast Guard.

Both sides in the case had stipulated that the captain did not wilfully allow the extra passengers aboard.

Kaiser was ordered to develop the schedules after two meetings with officials of the Environmental Protection Agency at San Francisco.

The hearing will be conducted by the County Air Pollution Control Board.

PERSONAL PATROL CAR—David Ford, a patrolman in Maryland's Prince George's County, takes his family shopping in his personal patrol car.

'Personal patrol car' used by police

By TOM TIEDE

FORESTVILLE, Md. — (NEA) — When David Ford, his wife and two children get into the family buggy to go shopping they're not really getting into a family buggy nor are they merely going shopping. They ride a police car and though they set out to pick up the groceries they may also pick up people who break the law.

Recently, as example, the Ford family was en route to a store and had to stop at a traffic light. Waiting, Ford made small talk and his wife burped the baby. Suddenly, another car raced through the intersection and the Fords became suspicious. They followed the vehicle, radioed for help and before the "shopping trip" was over the family has helped catch a thug in a stolen automobile.

Unusual? Of course. But such things are happening with increasing frequency in Prince George's County, Maryland. It's part of the fallout from a county police experiment called the "personal patrol car program." Patrolman David Ford is one of 650 county officers who utilize their squad cars 24 hours a day.

The program, used here and in several other jurisdictions in America, is simple enough. Each officer on the force is assigned a patrol car for on-and off-duty purposes. "It's like his own,' says a PGC police spokesman. On duty the officer uses it as normal; off duty he takes it home, to the bowling alley, the shopping center, the church — anywhere he goes in the county. The idea is that he is to be ready for emergencies or routine assistance any time he's in the car.

The plan, say PGC police officials, was born of desperation. Prince George's, once largely rural, experienced a 100 per cent increase in the population during the 1960s. Add to this the county's proximity to Washington, D.C. — it borders the capital — and the exploding urbanization has, in the words of one PGC cop, "really shaken us up around here."

In 1965, the county had 11,615 reported crimes. In 1971 the count was 21,209, and 82.6 per cent increase. "Between 1970 and '71 alone," says PGC police spokesman John Hoxie, "we had a 25 per cent crime increase. The things happening in Washington began to spill over the border and happen to us."

Understandably, the public began to apply the screws. "They expected more of us," says Sgt. Giacamo San Felice, "and the force responded by implementing the personal patrol car program."

The hope was that fulltime utilization of the cop vehicles would act as a visible deterrence to crime. The county authorized three quarters of a million dollars in November 1971 to get the plan started. Since that time, to equip each man, the number of PGC cars on the road has risen almost threefold, from 225 cars before to 650 today.

Has it worked? PGC cops believe so. In the first 20 months of the program, according to police statistics, off-duty officers have "handled, stood-by or assisted in 24,820 calls or incidents producing 192 felony arrests, 673 misdemeanor arrests and 2,115 traffic arrests." The result is that whereas PGC crime was growing at an annual rate of 14 per cent prior to the program, last year's rise was only 4 per cent. One special encouragement: off-duty policemen issued, 1,049 traffic citations in 1972, thus helping to reduce highway fatalities a startling 31 per cent.

The program, to be sure, has not been without its problems. Some county residents protest that the experiment is an exercise in "Big Brother Watching." One young man puts it this way: "I was at the drive-in with my girl and a cop and his family pulled in right beside me. Well, like I didn't want to stay because I was uneasy, but I didn't want to go because he might think I was hiding something." The kid was hiding something: "Yeah, we were smoking grass, before the cop car anyway."

Some police, too, complain. A patrolman says his wife is "afraid to have the damn thing in the driveway, much less ride in it." She fears riding, he says, because of the risk of snipers. And she doesn't like the vehicle in the driveway because it marks their home as a cop residence (there have been numerous instances of home-car vandalism, some of them obscene).

Moreover, besides the complaints, the personal patrol car program has felt some humiliating moments. Says John Hoxie: "I remember this one off-duty officer who got drunk and used his car radio to call the dispatcher. Man, was he smashed. Needless to say that man's patrol car was taken away from him."

Despite such wrinkles, however, the experiment has worked "rather smoothly." Police officilas have instituted stiff regulations concerning off-duty use of the cars: no wives can drive, maintenance must be kept up, normal traffic laws must be obeyed. And most families find the extra auto not only valuable ("It's worth about $1,500 a year to an officer") but prestigious; "I'm proud to have the car at our home," says Patrolman Ford's wife, "and everybody in the block feels safer."

And besides helping reduce crime, says PGC cops, the personal car idea has perhaps also aided community relations. About one of every five off-duty responses has been friendly in nature: to help a man with a flat tire, to help a woman with her bags at the supermarket.

Says Hoxie: "People are beginning to see that cops don't have horns, that they don't always wear badges and that they groan at the meat counter like everyone else."

Amtrak voted financial powers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House and Senate negotiators, risking a possible veto, have voted to give the Amtrak passenger train service greater independence to spend its money without interference by the Transportation Department.

In a $154.3 million funding bill, a House-Senate conference committee also agreed to increase consumer representation on the Amtrak board of directors and ban any conflict of interest on the board.

The negotiators took steps to improve the quality of service that railroads give Amtrak by ordering them to give Amtrak passenger trains priority over freight trains, and by ordering that any increase in Amtrak payments to railroads be tied to quality of service.

Although Amtrak owns its own locomotives and passenger cars, it must contract with individual railroads to actually run its trains, and there have been increasing complaints of poor railroad performance, especially about late trains.

The committee, angered by the Transportation Department's delay and sometimes blocking of Amtrak spending plans, took action to reduce the department's power over the Amtrak budget.

The committee, despite threats of a possible veto, voted to do away with the "grant agreement" plan under which the Transportation Department must specifically approve Amtrak capital spending projects such as new locomotives and cars.

Under the committee bill, Congress and the Transportation Department each would issue guidelines on Amtrak spending, but once Amtrak received the money, it could spend it as it wished within the guidelines.

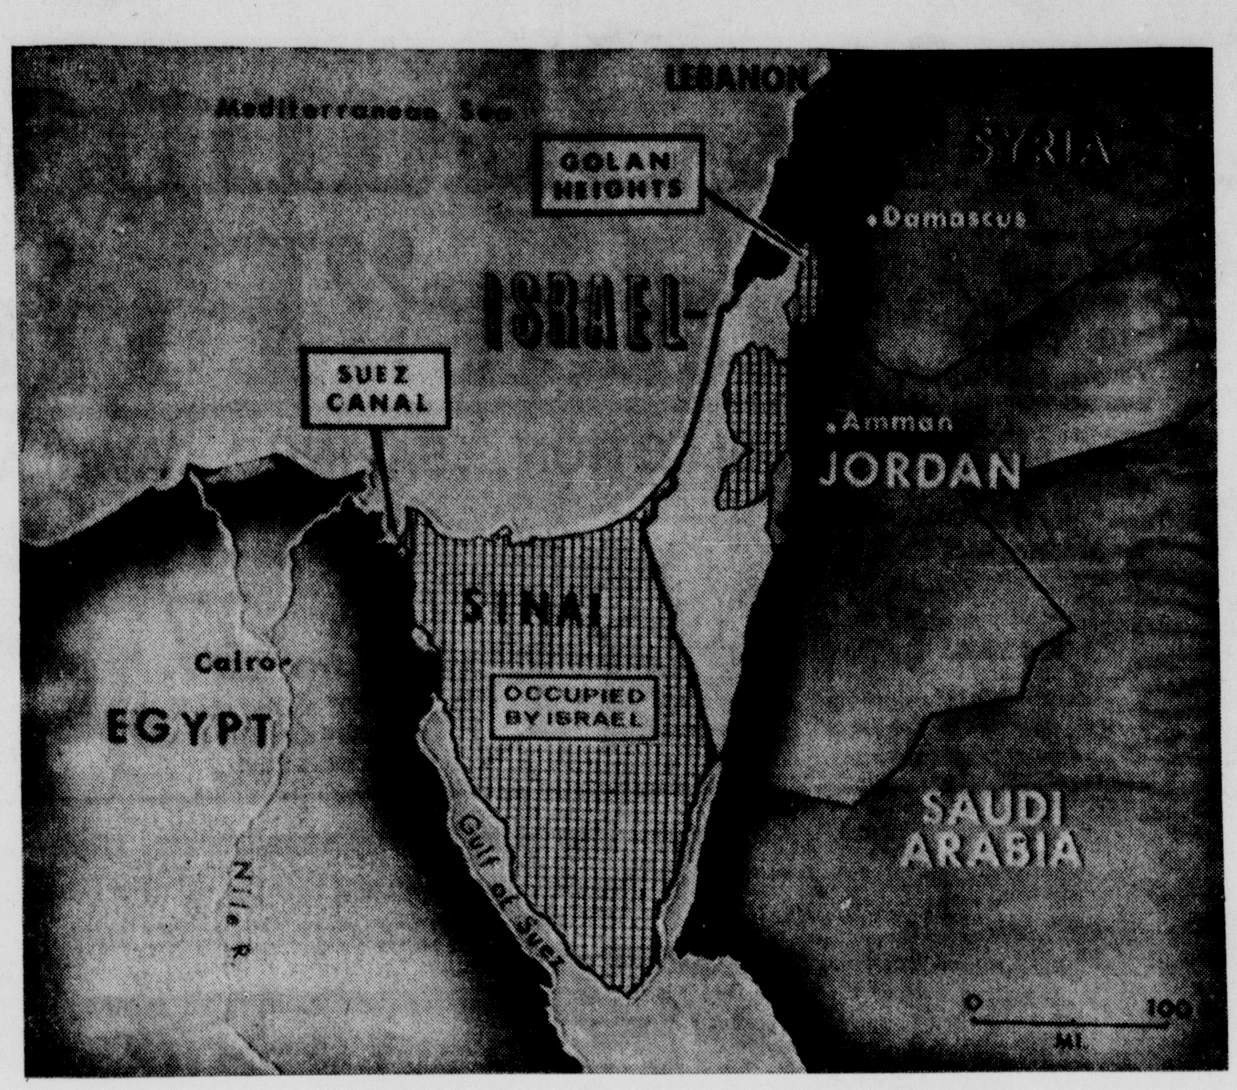

The committee took two steps to revise membership in the governing board of directors, ordering that three consumer members be appointed and that any conflict of interest would prevent membership on the board.

If the bill becomes law, one present board member, John J. Gilhooley, apparently will have to resign because he is president of Transport of New Jersey, a bus company.

Loudspeaker will herald quiet week

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A city permit to use a loudspeaker for one hour was issued recently to Robert Friese, chairman of the Task Force on Noise Abatement and Control.

The loudspeaker will be used to inaugurate the mayor's "Quiet Week," officials said.

MAP OF MIDDLE EAST WAR AREA

Arab-Israeli war strategy emerges

BEIRUT (UPI) —The Arab and Israeli strategies in the 1973 Middle East war are beginning to emerge clearly.

The original Arab plan appears to have been to crush Israel swiftly in a two-front attack on its southern and northern flanks.

Israel staved off that threat by fighting holding actions for the first three days until it could mobilize. Now, it is trying to pick off its enemies one by one to destroy them separately, much as it did in the 1967 war.

The big difference is that in 1967, Israel first crushed Egypt, then Jordan and took on Syria last. This time, the strategy appears to be to crush Syria first before dealing with Egypt.

Although Israel was not taken completely by surprise in the latest war, the twin Syrian and Egyptian attacks did catch it off balance.

Reports by Western correspondents accompanying the Egyptians to the Suez Canal front spoke of Israeli troops caught in their concrete bunkers without time to put on their clothes or boots.

Israel appears to have been successful in its first task—mobilizing its citizens' army of 300,000 to full strength while holding the Egyptians and Syrians.

The next problem facing Israel's military leaders was whether to fight a two-front war—something it has avoided since the first Middle East war in 1948—or take on its adversaries one at a time as it did in 1967.

They chose to go after Syria first while trying to contain Egypt. Western military experts see two main reasons for the decision.

—Syria is the weaker of Israel's two principal Arab foes. It is considered sound military strategy to destroy your weaker adversary first, just as the allies knocked Italy out of World War II before taking on Nazi Germany in Normandy.

—In the Sinai desert Israel had the advantage of space and depth in which to maneuver during holding actions. It did not have that space to maneuver on the narrow Golan Heights.

The Arabs' main problem now appears to be how to save Syria from a swift knockout. Iraq already is reported to have sent 16,000 troops and 100 heavy tanks to the Syrian front. Moroccan troops were reported fighting there too.

Even if King Hussein of Jordan decides in the end not to enter the war, the recent mobilization of his armed forces has forced Israel to divert sorely needed troops to guard against the threat of attack by his army.

Agnew downfall--how it all started

BY KENNETH FRANCKLING

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — The Maryland political corruption probe that led to the political downfall of Spiro T. Agnew began as a routine investigation of tax questions far away from the political spectrum.

Agents from the tax and intelligence divisions of the Internal Revenue Service started poking around in Baltimore County files and records in 1971.

The investigation was believed prompted by questionable business expenses claimed by some contractors and consultants. At the time, U.S. Attorney George Beall said the investigation was carried out on orders from the Justice Department in Washington.

Even then there was word that political dirt might be unearthed, but the full scope of the probe was not clear until this year.

A special federal grand jury was empaneled Dec. 4, 1972 to investigate police and political corruption in Maryland. When the investigation gathered steam in January, attention centered on possible wrongdoing between local contractors and officials in Baltimore County, Agnew's political base.

Cabinets filled with records of county projects and files of 27 contractors were subpoenaed in what one sanitation contractor called "a sweeping check of people doing work for the county."

The investigation switched quickly to consulting engineers and their methods of winning contracts. Agreements for drawing board-type work are made without competitive bidding in Maryland and it is a lucrative field for the winners.

The investigation was aimed at engineers allegedly paying kickbacks or percentages of fees received for contract awards.

Early in the probe, Baltimore County administrative officer William E. Fornoff was contacted. He was top county officer under Agnew from 1962-66 and under Agnew's successor, Dale Anderson, until last June.

Fornoff admitted taking cash payments from county businessmen and passing them on to another public official, allegedly Anderson. Fornoff pleaded guilty to a negotiated tax charge and agreed to cooperate fully in the grand jury investigation.

Anderson, 56, one of Maryland's most powerful Democrats, was indicted Aug. 23 on 39 counts including conspiracy and extortion of $46,420 from eight firms with Fornoff acting as "bagman." Anderson was charged with four counts of federal income tax evasion in an indictment last week.

Anderson, a former Democratic national committeeman, maintains he is innocent and has announced plans for a reelection campaign in 1974.

Fornoff said he knew of no kickbacks or wrongdoing involving Agnew, but his details of other schemes apparently led prosecutors to two consultants last spring.

Both men, Jerome Wolff and Lester Matz, are heavy political contributors and associates of the vice president. The Justice Department said Wednesday they did not receive immunity for their cooperation in the Agnew case.

Matz, Wolff and a third engineer, Allen I. Green, were named in a 40-page "exposition of evidence" as having given Agnew at least $85,000 in illegal cash contributions or assisted in kickback schemes.

Lower beef, pork prices predicted

WASHINGTON (UPI) —More beef and pork supplies this fall will result in lower consumer prices, the Agriculture Department has predicted.

In a "Livestock and Meat Situation" summary, the department said beef production should be up more than 10 per cent from the summer and about equal to a year ago. But the department declined to predict how much meat prices would drop.

In 1974, the report said, live animal prices are likely to rise again during the first three months of the year, then fall off during the second three-month period.

January-March beef production, it predicted, may slip 8 to 10 per cent below this fall and about 4 to 6 per cent below a year ago, while hog production should remain close to a year ago.

As a result, it said, cattle and hog prices should increase during January-March. But it added that April-June beef supplies could be up 10 per cent from the winter and 10 to 15 per cent above a year earlier, producing another round of price declines for both pork and beef.

Crystal ball held it back

LOSANGELES (UPI) —The crystal ball did not tell all to fortune tellers Fidel Ovalls and Ivan Cano.

The seers forecast a bright future for their customer, and charged him $290 for the forecast, according to recent testimony in Municipal Court.

What the prognosticators did not see was that the customer was an undercover police officer, authorities said. He arrested them on suspicion of grand theft.

Today we see Jack Blair of Tulsa and Paul Swanson of Pittsburgh, the current life master champions of the ACBL, using their own version of Jacoby transfer.

With 22 high card points opposite six and no singletons anywhere, the grand slam bid has to represent some optimism, yet it is a lay-down provided West does not hold all three missing trumps.

Jack opened two no-trump. With 22 high card points he held a maximum in their system. Hence, when Paul responded with a three-heart transfer Jack bid four clubs. This confirmed a maximum two no-trump with good spades.

North's four-diamond call was a mild slam suggestion and South's four hearts a mild acceptance.

Paul decided that he could afford a Blackwood four no-trump and Jack's five club showed all four aces. It might have shown none but the bidding made clear which.

Paul's six clubs was their version of the old grand slam force. Jack could have bid six diamonds to show just ace of trumps' he had already guaranteed all the aces.

Six hearts would show ace-queen; six spades ace-king and some weakness somewhere. Jack could find no weakness so he just bid the grand slam.

Must be artist and an amateur

ROME (UPI) —The man police have been looking for since 1971 must be an artist and an amateur, Bank of Italy experts said today.

They said the unknown man hand-painted perfect-looking replicas of 100,000 lire ($176) bills, which professionals with printing and etching facilities never tried to counterfeit because they feared stringent checks on such high denomination banknotes.

The man seems to be setting his own leisurely working rhythm, the experts said. Five of the forged banknotes were discovered in 1971, 12 in 1972 and only one so far this year.

Reggie inspires Mets

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—An innocent little remark by Reggie Jackson may become the week's battle cry as the New York Mets vie for another of their World Series miracles against the Oakland A's.

"Who the heck are the Mets?" Jackson wisecracked to a newsman the other day when it became obvious the upstart New Yorkers would defeat Cincinnati to win the N.L. playoffs.

The Mets, who won a pennant with the worst first place record in Major League history (82-79), hope to start providing some answers when they send 23-year-oold left-hander Jon Matlack (14-16)--this season against veteran Ken Holtzman (21-13) in the series opener today at 1 p.m. PDT.

The outspoken Jackson, who missed the series last year when he hurt his leg stealing home the key run in the final playoff game, said he would have preferred to play Cincinnati again because "when you beat them, you're beating the best."

"I said what I thought and I'm being criticized," said Jackson. "My teammates think the same way, but they're not putting it on the line the way I do."

Oakland is a 6-5 favorite to win the opener and is 13-10 to take the series and become the first team other than the Yankees to win successive world championships since the New York Giants in 1921-22.

Four other teams have tried to the last 20 years—the Dodgers in '56, the Braves in '58, the Cards in '68 and the Orioles in '71—all lost the second year after building up 2-0 or 3-1 leads in games.

The A's are aware of the Mets "miracle" reputation, the way they came from last place Aug. 30 to win the NL pennant, and they got an additional warning this week from Baltimore.

"Wise up," said Brooks Robinson, remembering the Mets' five game stunner over the Orioles in 1969. "Those guys can kill you."

Both playoffs went five games—the Mets over the Reds and the A's over the Orioles— and as a result, the pitching rotation works out that the No. 1 starters—Tom Seaver (19-10) and Jim "Catfish" Hunter (21-5)--won't pitch until next Tuesday's third game in New York.

Lefthanders Jerry Koosman (14-15) and Vida Blue (20-9) will pitch the second game here Sunday afternoon.

Oakland's role as favorite is based on its offense, with most observers rating the pitching staffs comparable, although Oakland has a little more depth in the bullpen.

In Jackson (.293, 32 homers, 117 RBI's), Sal Bando (.287, 29, 98) and Gene Tenace (.259, 24, 84), the A's have three players who match the Mets home run output as a team (85) and each of them has driven in more runs than New York's top rbi man.

The New York attack may be further weakened because Rusty Staub, the Mets' top power threat, injured his shoulder in Tuesday's fourth playoff game, and while he'll probably be able to play today, it is a question of how effective he'll be. The Mets like to point out, however, that even without Staub they scored seven runs against the Reds in the final playoff game.

New York flew here Thursday night after the A's beat Baltimore 3-0 to clinch their pennant and worked out Friday at the Oakland Coliseum.

The A's took the day off, manager Dick Wiilliams saying: "We had our workout Thursday," and held a team meeting to go over scouting reports on the Mets.

The teams never have faced each other before, even in an exhibition game, because the Mets train in Florida and the A's in Arizona.

Matlack, given the starting assignment by manager Yogi Berra, pitched a two-hit shutout against the Reds last Sunday and was New York's most effective pitcher down the stretch.

Holtzman is opening the series for the second straight year—he beat the Reds 3-2 in last year's opener—but the 27year-old lefty said "I never had much luck with the Mets," the six years he pitched for the Cubs in the N.L.

The Mets have changed some, too, and only nine men who appeared in the '69 series still are with them, including three who don't figure to play much this week.

Oakland comes in with a series of feuds going on players, coaches, manager and front office. That's nothing new for the A's, who are known for their in-fighting.

Jackson popped off at the coaching staff in mid-year; Blue still is mad about his salary dealings with owner Charlie Finley; shortstop Bert Campaneris isn't talking to his teammates; Blue Moon Odom and reliever Paul Lindblad are mad because they don't feel they've pitched enough, and the other lefty reliever, Darold Knowles wants to be traded.

But the A's seem to play their best when they're mad and in two years they are yet to lose "big games." They had Detroit down 2-0 in the AL playoffs last year, lost the next two games but won the final; they let a 3-1 lead over the Reds slip in the '72 series before winning the seventh game, and just last Wednesday they had a 4-0 lead in the seventh inning of what could have been the decisive game of the AL playoffs, blew it, and came back to win the next day.

GANESHA'S LITTLE GIANT

Ganesha High's Ron Jacques (23) digs in and turns the corner against Montclair Friday night at Cal Poly. The Giants went on to win, 50-22, against the Cavaliers.

Ganesha Giants like 50-22 feast

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — It was either feast or famine at Cal Poly Friday night.

The Ganesha High Giants were the ones who enjoyed the feast, as the preleague San Antonio League favorites romped to a 50-22 victory over Montclair.

It was the first SAL victory for the Giants this year, while Montclair dropped to 0-2 in league play.

Ganesha, which had at one time a seven-game winning streak before falling to Upland by one point last weekend, capitalized on five Montclair turnovers and turned them into scores.

The game was highlighted by two 85-yard touchdowns and an 87-yard kickoff return.

Montclair's ground game exploded on its first drive of the night, rolling from its own 29-yard line to the Ganesha 34 in six plays. But then Ganesha took over and the rest was all uphill for the Cavaliers.

Ganesha took the ball in for a score on its first series of downs, churning out a 66-yard drive in nine plays before speedy Ron Jacques plowed into the end zone on a 12-yard run.

David Segura, who booted five extra points and a field goal in the game, added the PAT to put the Giants quickly ahead, 7-0.

Filbert Gonzales, the fleet-footed running back for Montclair, then took the insuing kickoff on his own 11 yard line and sprinted to the Cav 31 before fumbling. Ganesha's Joe Coley pounced on the loose ball and the Giants were back in business.

Coach Garry Norvell's crew took only four plays to light up the scoreboard again as Kevin Braxton capped the 30-second drive with a two-yard plunge.

This time it took a Ganesha turnover (a pass interception) to set up Montclair's first touchdown.

In the closing minutes of the first quarter the Cavaliers started a drive from the Ganesha 40 and marched into the end zone in eight plays. Larry Milton, who scored two touchdowns for the Cavs, grabbed a Brett Jetton pass good for a 10-yard TD.

Then Bill Kearns took the Montclair kickoff and ripped off 87 yards down the south sidelines for Ganesha's third TD of the night.

Ganesha scored one more time after a Montclair pass interception by DeFono Walker, and went into the locker room with safe 31-7 lead.

The two 85-yard TD's went to Montclair as Milton returned a kickoff after Ganesha had opened a 37-7 cushion, and Gonzales hauled in a screen pass and out-sprinted the Ganesha defenders to the end zone.

Jacques paced the Ganesha wishbone offense with 124 yards in 15 carries and two touchdowns.

Will Trojans display power vs. Cougars?

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — Will this be the week when the defending national champion USC Trojans finally show their power?

College football experts have been waiting some time for coach John McKay's Trojans to display their might as USC has been dropping in the polls.

While the Trojans are still undefeated, they haven't looked like a national champion in compiling a 3-0-1 record. Their scores have been puny compared to cross-town rival UCLA.

Washington State, picked to be the top contender in the Pacific-8 Conference behind USC and UCLA in the preseason polls, visits the Los Angeles Coliseum today for the first afternoon game of the campaign at 1:30 p.m.

The Trojans have dropped to fifth in the latest United Press International rankings, thanks mainly to the 7-7 deadlock against Oklahoma two weeks ago and the close 21-7 victory over Oregon State last week in the rain and wind at Corvallis.

Considering Washington State's lackluster 1-3 record, it would seem likely this is the week USC will explode.

McKay doesn't agree.

"I don't think we're going to score a lot of points this week," the Trojan mentor explained. "It's going to be a close game.

USC, which is averaging only 17 points per game, is favored by 21½ over the Cougars.

But Washington State's record is a fooler. WSU has one of the roughest schedules in the nation with its three defeats being to powers Kansas (29-8), Arizona State (20-9) and No. 1 Ohio State (27-3). The lone win was a 51-24 rout over Idaho.

"They are a good team that has a poor record only because of the difficult schedule they have played," McKay added.

Of course, the Trojans big problem on offense has been their inexperienced line, which was further weakened by an injury last week to Claremont's Joe Davis.

"We are still looking and grasping to see who can play for us up there," McKay said. "We are undermanned and this leads to inconsistency. If our offensive line stays intact and plays well, we'll be a good team."

While the offense has been sputtering, the defense has been solid. The Trojans have allowed just two touchdowns and two 40-yard field goals in their four games.

Washington State uses a Houston veer-T offense but coach Jim Sweeney has had his problems getting it untracked.

He will start Wally Bennett, a 6-foot-6 sophomore, at quarterback today after he completed seven of 11 passes late in the game at Ohio State.

WSU has two top running threats in tailback Ken Grandberry and fullback Andrew Jones. Sweeney also has seven starters back on defense from last year's 7-4 season.

TROJAN NOTES — A crowd of more than 60,000 is expected today. USC has surpassed its season ticket record with the sales ending at 50,001 . . .

USC owns a huge 29-4-4 edge over the Cougars in its series. WSU's last win was in 1957 in a 13-12 score . . .

The Trojan secondary has picked off 12 passes. Tee Parker needs two more to tie the Pac-8 career record of 18 shared by Oregon's George Shaw and Washington's Al Worley . . .

In Hacienda League battle

Royal Oak stuns Walnut

By CURT WEBSTER
P-B Correspondent

WALNUT — Royal Oak High's football team has been denied the Hacienda League championship the past couple of years for one very simple reason.

It couldn't beat Walnut.

Should the Romans fail this fall, they won't have the Mustangs to blame. The jinx was broken at last Friday night on the MSAC turf as Royal Oak downed Walnut, 30-12.

The victory leaves R. O. as the only undefeated team in the vicinity and co-holder of the Hacienda lead with Bonita at 2-0.

Overcoming an early 6-0 deficit, the Romans relied on a strong performance by stand-in quarterback Jim Gustawes, a trio of key interceptions by defensive back Mike Gibbons, and one very critical aerial theft by Bill Haberstroh.

Gibbons started making life miserable for Mustang quarterback Lance Parrish with an interception midway through the second quarter that he returned to the Walnut 30. Marcus Monson capped the short scoring drive with a one-yard plunge to tie the score at 6-6.

But late in the first half, Haberstroh came up with the interception that really rocked Walnut. His diving catch on his own 46 set up a 54-yard touchdown run that Gustawes completed after being hemmed in at the sidelines.

It was only seconds later that Gibbons again picked off a Parrish pass. This time the theft was turned into a 36-yard touchdown pass to flanker John Ochoa, and Walnut was never quite right afterwards.

After the half, Gustawes teamed up with Ochoa on a 41-yard pass that put the Romans on the Walnut 15. Shortly thereafter, Gustawes scored from the one on a keeper.

Mike Pfeil got Walnut back to within two touchdowns with a touchdown in the fourth quarter, but Roman tailback Rick Hall increased the gap again with a frosting-on-the-cake touchdown reception from Gustawes near the end of the second half.

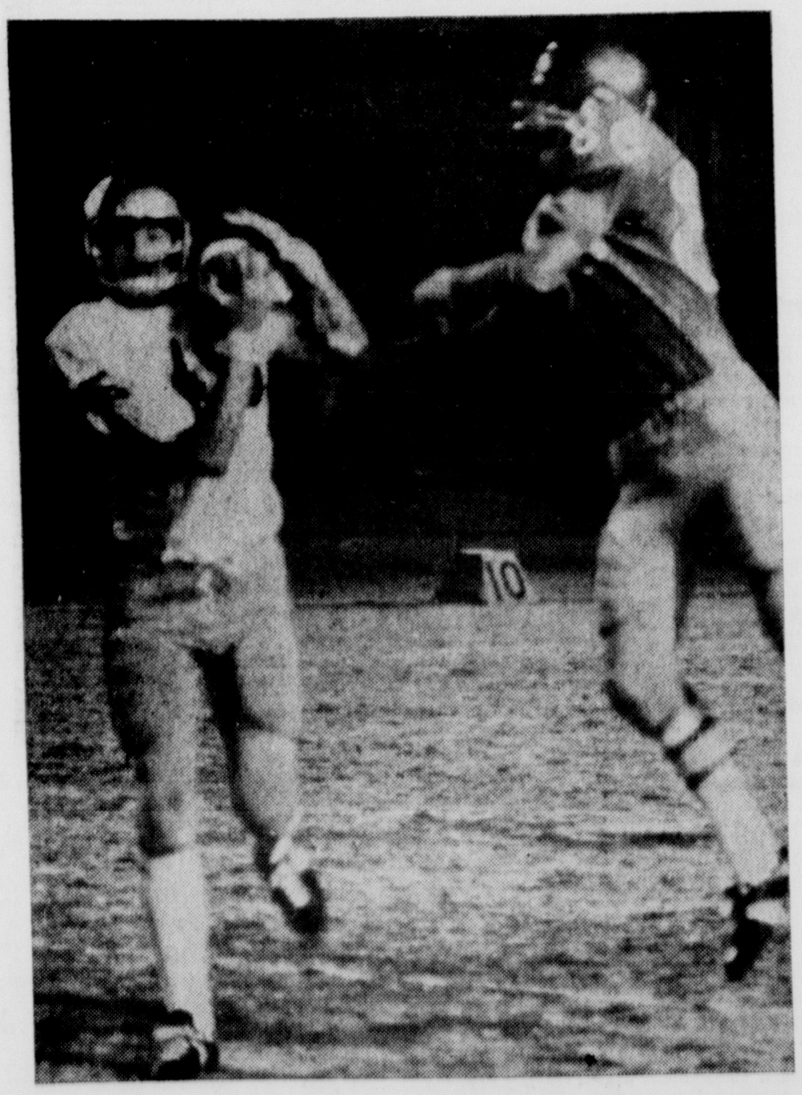

Of some concern to Royal Oak was the back injury suffered by first string quarterback Clyde Christensen in the first half that gave Gustawes his shot at glory.

Christensen was the victim of someone's errant foot, and stayed out of action the entire second half.

Doug McDermott gave Walnut its early lead with a touchdown in the first quarter he took over from the one.

Parrish had his normally devastating passing attack curtailed drastically by the Roman defense. Parrish completed only seven of 24 passing attempts, including the four interceptions, for 58 yards.

The Romans travel to Baldwin Park next Friday to take on Sierra Vista (1-1). The Mustangs, meanwhile, will attempt to stay in the race by facing Ontario at Chaffey High.

Herrera defends title at Forum

Promoter Don Fraser of the Forum Boxing Club hopes to match the Herrera-Borkorsor winner against Mexico's Romeo Anaya, the World Boxing Association 118-pound champion.

Fraser has offered a $150,000 purse to be divided between the two rival champions. The match would be held at the Forum here in January.

Herrera, 28, is a slight favorite against the 23-year-old Borkorsor, who had to shed his WBC flyweight crown because he outgrew the 112-pound division.

'Pack defense stymies Upland

By FRED CLAIRE
P-B Correspondent

AZUSA — Claremont High School turned in a near faultless game here Friday night as the Wolfpack defeated Upland High 14-0.

The victory moved Claremont into first place in the San Antonio League with a 2-0 record, a mark Pomona High (1-0) can match tonight in a game against Garey.

It was a typical Claremont High victory as the Wolfpack had an unyielding defense and a consistent offense led by quarterback Kent Stalwick.

Scoring in the final minute of the first half on a four-yard run by halfback Dean Erickson, the Wolfpack led 7-0 at intermission and increased its margin to 14-0 on its first series of the second half.

Erickson provided the extra point after both Claremont touchdowns.

The Wolfpack offered a balanced offense as Stalwick completed 9 of 15 passes for 86 yards and teamed with Erickson and fullback Joe Hillstock for a hard-nosed running game. Stalwick gained 34 yards on 10 carries, Erickson had 37 yards (12 carries) and Hillstock 36 yards (10 carries).

Janusz was the leading Wolfpack receiver with five receptions for 61 yards. Bruce Abraham caught three passes for 23 yards.

For Upland it was a night of frustration on offense as the Highlanders managed only 69 net yards in the first half and couldn't get inside the Wolfpack 42.

The Highlanders' deepest penetration of the game came in the fourth quarter as they moved to the Claremont 22, where linebacker Jim Ayers tossed Spencer for a three-yard loss on a fourth down play.

Halfback Mark White led the Highlanders' rushing game with 71 yards on seven carries, most of the yardage coming on a 54-yard run in the third quarter.

It was a scoreless game when Claremont took possession of the football on the Upland 49 with 1:23 remaining to play in the first half. On the first play at that point Stalwick broke loose for a 25-yard run to move the ball to the Upland 24. A pass interference penalty carried the Wolfpack to the 12 and then Stalwick threw a nine-yard completion to Abraham and Erickson finished off the drive with a four-yard run.

The Wolfpack took over on its own 40 after fielding the second half kickoff and moved in for a touchdown on six plays with Stalwick hitting Janusz for the TD. The big gainers in the drive were a 15-yard pass from Stalwick to Janusz and a 10-yard run by Erickson.

Claremont controlled the ball for almost all of the third quarter as Upland had only four plays prior to getting a chance in the final two minutes of the period. The Highlanders finally got the ball after Erickson had missed a field goal attempt from the Upland 23.

Pineda pilots Izanami to win

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI) — Alvaro Pineda piloted Izanami to a one-half length victory over highly regarded stablemate Fleet Peach Friday in the $29,850 Anokia Stakes at the Oak Tree at Santa Anita meeting.

Taking command shortly after the start of the seven-furlong dash, Izanami was clocked in 1:22 3-5, a stakes record, in the race matching a dozen 2-year-old fillies. Izanami bettered by a full second the mark set by Sailors Mate in the inaugural Anokia in 1969.

Divine Grace closed well and finished third, three lengths behind Fleet Peach. Lucky Spell was fourth.

As an entry trained by Tommy Doyle, Izanami and Fleet Peach paid $2.60, $2.60 and $2.20.

Royals face winless team

POMONA — The Pomona Royals girls softball team will head for Huntington Beach Sunday to take on the beach team in league action, playing a double-header for the fifth week of loop play.

The Royals, with a 1-7 league record, will be facing a winless Huntington Beach team, which has posted an 0-6 league record.

Last weekend Pomona lost both ends of a twinbill to league-leader El Monte, 1-0 and 11-3.

El Monte's Honlea Coutyescri hurled a perfect game against Pomona in the first half of the doubleheader. The Royals' Vicki Haggard went two-for-three for the day with two singles and an RBI.

El Monte is 8-0 in league play, with Anaheim (6-0) and Mission Viejo (6-0) close behind.

Don Lugo plays first night game

CHINO — Don Antonio Lugo High will play its first night game ever tonight when the Conquistadors take on the Damien freshmen at the Chino field at 6 p.m.

Both teams were big winners during the first week of play, Don Lugo posting a 34-0 win and Damien trotting to a 38-3 romp.

Damien surprises Chino

By TOM FAHEY
P-B Correspondent

LA VERNE — The Damien High Spartans rode a pass interception and a blocked punt to a 9-0 halftime lead, and hung on to register their first victory of the season 9-6, Friday night against the Chino High Cowboys at Damien.

It looked like Chino might win the game in the waning seconds, but it ran out of time.

The final futile drive started on the Cowboy 23 after a 55-yard punt by Spartan Rob Lamb. A personal foul against the Spartans and a 13-yard pass from Jerry Belmudes to Scott Richartz put the Cowboys at Damien's 49 with a minute and a half to play.

Belmudes hit David Lovio for a first down at the Spartan 35-yard line. The Cowboys moved to the 25 on a 10-yard scramble by Belmudes with 40 seconds left.

The next play might have cost the Cowboys the game. Belmudes hit Richartz with an out-pass, but instead of going out-of-bounds, Richartz cut inside to the 17, allowing the clock to keep ticking.

The Cowboys got off one last play, but Belmudes was dumped by tackle Doug Pye back at the 30-yard line.

Damien didn't really ever muster much of an offense, but thanks to the Spartan defense, it didn't need to.

The Spartans scored first in the game with about four minutes left in the opening quarter.

Chino had just recovered a Spartan fumble at their own 26 but was unable to register a first down.

On a fourth-and-14 from the 22-yard line, Spartan Dan Bittner broke through to blocked Paul Belmudes' punt. The ball rolled out of the end zone for the safety.

The rest of the first half except for the final minute was a tight defensive battle, with neither offense generating everything.

Damien's defense set up the Spartans' lone touchdown of the night in the final minute of the half. Lorenzo Hearns picked off a Belmudes pass at the Spartan 21 and returned it 70 yards to the Cowboy nine.

Spartan quarterback Larry Pekarcik went over three plays later from the one with eight seconds remaining on the clock. Bart Sullivan kicked the extra point for the 9-0 halftime margin.

Chino tallied its touchdown near the end of the third quarter. The drive started on the Cowboy 27 and ended on a six-yard pass to Richartz from Belmudes for the score.

The Cowboys held the Spartans to 120 yards, all from rushing. The Cowboys defense, led by Randy Rizo, constantly stymied the Spartan attack.

Pye and Mark Lopez paces the Spartan offense gaining 49 and 40 yards respectively.

Damien's defensive unit, led by linebacker Tony Allen, gave up 239 yards but halted the Cowboys when it was needed.

Damien's victory and Chino's defeat brought both teams to 1-1 in San Antonio League play.

Alta Loma scalps Gladstone in rout

By JIM McCONNELL
P-B Staff Writer

ALTA LOMA — Kula Kuresa rushed for three touchdowns and Jamie Broecker passed for three more as the Alta Loma Braves scalped Gladstone, 41-6, Friday night in a game played at Chaffey College.

A 30-yard punt return by Ted Pedvin early in the first quarter set up the opening Brave score, as Alta Loma stuck to their running attack and Kuresa ran it in from the one.

Another long Brave drive midway through the second quarter featured their running attack, as they drove 70 yards to the end zone, all of it by rushing. Kuresa scooted the final 21 yard to pay dirt.

Two quick scores late in the first half pretty well wrapped the contest up for Alta Loma, as Kuresa scored his third TD from three yards out and Tom Bright made a spectacular catch of a Broecker pass for a 43-yard scoring strike, making the score 27-0 at the half.

Gladstone finally came alive offensively in the third quarter to get on the scoreboard. Fullback Calvin Dupleasis, who was virtually the entire Gladiator attack with 105 yards on 25 carries, blasted over from the six to ruin the Brave shutout.

Alta Loma added two fourth quarter scores to win going away. Broecker and Steve Robinson teamed for a 10-yard TD while Pedvin was on the receiving end of a five-yard TD toss, Broecker's third of the night.

The Braves wound up with 200 yards rushing for the evening, with Kuresa getting 119 of those. Broecker hit on six of 10 passes for 116 yards and ran for 30 more.

With the win, Alta Loma evens its Hacienda League mark at 1-1, and now stands 3-1 for the season. Gladstone remains winless in loop action.

The Braves next H.L. opponent will be the San Dimas Saints in a game to be played at Bonita High next Friday night.

Poly poloists lose at Stanford

STANFORD — Cal Poly's water polo team was edged by Stanford 8-7 Friday in a match marred by fouls. The Broncos had 52 fouls called against them while the Cardinals had 26.

John Roche scored three goals for the Broncs who now have a 5-4 record. Ken Vogen, Bob Elwell, Bob Borland, and Leonard Ortiz each scored once.

Nogales beats Azusa; Webb wins 16-6 in SD

Walter Stahl's 15-yard pass to Jose Lytle gave Nogales a third-quarter touchdown and a win, 15-8 over Azusa Friday night at Nogales for the Nobles' first win of the season.

Both teams scored in the second quarter and the game was tied 8-8 at the half. Sam Abram's 42-yard run capped a 65 yard drive by Nogales. Stahl passed to Lytle for a two-point conversion.

Azusa came back with Pat Presti scoring on a 28-yard run. R. E. Smith ran the ball in for the two-pointer to knot the score. The Nobles shut out Azusa in the second half and Stahl took charge of getting the Nobles the win. After his touchdown pass to Lytle, Stahl booted the extra point.

The Nobles gained 194 yards rushing and 61 yards passing for a total of 255 yards. Azusa made 110 yards rushing and 57 passing for a total of 167.

Nogales now is 1-1 in Montview League play and 1-3 overall. Next Friday is Homecoming with Bassett providing the oppositions.

Webb traveled to San Diego and came out a 16-6 winner over San Diego Christian. Mitch Avant and Gary Zakem scored all the points for the Gauls.

Avant took a 36 yard pass from Zakem for the first touchdown and then ran the ball in for a two-point conversion.

The score was 8-0 at the half.

San Diego got on the scoreboard on a 17-yard run by Marshall Nickey. But the try for the two-point conversion failed.

Lutheran edges Webb's jayvees

CLAREMONT — Lutheran High scored two touchdowns in the second quarter Friday afternoon and held on to squeeze by Webb's jayvees 14-12.

Governor Ronald Reagan was on hand to watch his son, Skipper, who plays for Webb. The Governor saw Webb jump off to a 6-0 first-quarter lead on Bill Butler's yard run after blocking a Lutheran punt on the three.

Lutheran scored on Ted Trahms' one-yard plunge and on a 29-yard pass play from Dale Coleman to Ed Harness. Trahms ran for two points after Harness scored.

Webb came back in the fourth quarter on a 78-yard pass play from Jim Richards to Joe Avant. But Tim Bokath shut off the Gauls' try for two points.

Next week, Lutheran plays the Pomona Jayvees at Pomona.

Sports news in brief

ROGER CRAIG, former Dodger pitcher, was named pitching coach of the Houston Astros Friday by manager Preston Gomez. Craig was the San Diego Padres' pitching tutor for four years and worked for Gomez.

WES UNSELD will have his left knee in a cast the next 10 days to relieve swelling brought on by an arthritic condition. The Capitol Bullets' center has a history of arthritic trouble and his return to the lineup is a matter of speculation.

MEL DAVIS, the New York Knicks' number one draft choice, has reached agreement with the club and is expected to play next Tuesday against the Buffalo Braves. Davis played college ball at St. Johns.

ZELMO BEATY, holdout center of the ABA Utah Stars, has written to the club president saying he is "ready, willing, and able" to play. Club officials announced Oct. 2 that they had given up on reaching financial agreement with Beatty.

ARMANDO MUNIZ was surprised Thursday night by Zovek Barajas. Barajas, in his first major bout, won a split decision over Muniz. The split decision was the result of Barajas losing a point in the fourth round for holding and hitting.

WILT CHAMBERLAIN says he is surprised at the talent he's seen in the American Basketball Association since jumping from the NBA Lakers. Chamberlain says the ABA forwards are better, but the centers don't measure up to the NBA yet.

JOHNNY UNITAS has been replaced as starting quarterback for the San Diego Chargers by rookie Dan Fouts (of Oregon). "Unitas needs a rest," said coach Harland Svare. "He can play, but he is sore. We'll start with Fouts and see how his goes."

POMONA-PITZER leads NCAA Division 3 colleges in passing and quarterback Larry Cenotto in first in passing and second in total offense. The Sagehens have 659 yards and are averaging 219.7 yards per game. Cenotto is averaging 15.3 yards per completion and 214.7 yards on total offense.

TEMPLE CITY lost out in its bid to set a new California state win record Friday night. The Rams were beaten 10-0 by St. Francis, a team that had a 1-2 record going into the game and which had lost to Temple City 41-0. The loss ends the Rams' win streak at 46 straight.

UCLA favored by 17 over Stanford Cards

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Eleventh-ranked UCLA is a 17-point favorite over Stanford for their Pacific-8 Conference match-up today that will pit opposite offense.

The Bruins, with quarterbacks John Sciarra and Mark Harmon running the show, lead the conference in rushing offense with a 342.3 per game yard average. Stanford, meanwhile, is at the bottom of the list with a scant 50.3 per game output.

In the air, however, the Cardinals are third with a 180.0 per game average while UCLA brings up the rear with a 67.3 per game total.

The runners who make UCLA move on the ground are Kermit Johnson and James McAlister. Both are breakaway threats.

The more frequent use of Sciarra, a sophomore, indicates that coach Pepper Rodgers is attempting to get a better balance on offense.

"As the season develops, it's becoming noticeable that Sciarra is a better passer," a team spokesman said earlier this week. "He's got a stronger arm. He's also quicker and more likely to go the distance on a run, although Mark is a fine runner, too."

The Bruins will be minus starting defensive end Cal Peterson, who has a bone chip in his elbow. Fred McNeil, who plays the opposite end, is also ailing but is expected to see duty.

Stanford, which has split four non-conference games, will rely on the passing arm of Mike Boryla. The senior quarterback, a 55 per cent completion passer, suffered a nasty gash over his eye in last week's 24-0 victory over Illinois but is ready for duty with Dave Ottmar the backup.

The Cardinals' offensive line, which broke down in earlier games, has settled down, according to coach Jack Christiansen.

"Our offensive line blocked a lot better against Illinois," he said, "and Todd Anderson, in particular, looked much improved."

SAN DIMAS — San Dimas high evened its cross country record at 2-2 Friday afternoon with a 21-36 Hacienda League win over Sierra Vista.

The Saints, 1-1 in HL decisions, placed one-two-three as Frank Diaz finished first in 10:27 followed by Kevin Kellogg (10:30) and Rick Hurstrom (10:42).

San Dimas 21, Sierra Vista 36
1, Diaz (SD) 10:27; Kellogg (SD) 10:30; Hurstrom (SD) 10:42 Solas (SV) 10:45; Cervantes (SV) 10:47.

San Dimas takes 30-16 win thanks to Brown's heroics

By GRAHAM CROW
P-B Correspondent

LA VERNE — Don't be surprised if the Blue and Gold of San Dimas comes up with a new slogan for the defense next week — Brown is Beautiful.

Tim Brown was definitely beautiful Friday night as he spearheaded a tough San Dimas defense which provided the impetus for a 30-16 win over visiting Sierra Vista in Hacienda League action.

Brown intercepted three Don passes and blocked one punt which led to a score as the Saint defense picked off six passes altogether and set up each score for a fairly colorless San Dimas offense.

The best offensive drive of the night occured the first time coach Bob Baiz's team had the ball as San Dimas drove 68 yards in nine plays with workhorse Jim Richards scoring his first of three touchdowns from two yards out. Saint Dave Maloof, quarterback, booted his first of three extra points to give the Saints a quick 7-0 lead.

Brown's first interception came in the San Dimas end zone, thwarting a Sierra Vista drive which was threatening to tie the score early in the first period.

The next score came on the first play of the second quarter as Brown burst in to block a Dave Kerkhoff kick with Saint Bruce Bosley scooping up the ball on the 10-yard line and romping in.

Interceptions set up the next two San Dimas scores with Richards getting the call both times, once from the four and later from 10 yards out.

But while San Dimas held a commanding 21-0 lead at the half, the last two periods were fairly even, with three more interceptions keeping the Saints from letting the game get out of hand.

In the final half, San Dimas could only get one first down, on Richards' scoring run, while the Saint passing attack was virtually non-existent all night long with Maloof hitting only two of 10 attempts for 23 yards.

In fact, San Dimas got more yardage receiving Sierra Vista passes than its own as the Saints had 133 yards with the returned interceptions.

Richards was the main offense for San Dimas as the senior tailback picked up 111 yards in 20 carries (just seven yards in the second half) while Paul William added 44 yards in seven attempts.

Mike Scanlon hero for Chaffey Tigers

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — Quarterback Mike Scanlon passed for three touchdowns Friday night and ran for another as Chaffey High notched its second straight Citrus Belt League win with a 33-6 rout of Fontana.

The Tigers utilized a big play offense for each of their five scores.

Scanlon riddled the Fontana secondary for 185 yards completing seven of 12 passes. Running back Sal Elefante led the rushers with 115 yards on eight carries as the Tigers ground out 257 yards.

Chaffey's defense was equally impressive holding Fohi to 48 yards passing (six-of-27) and 124 yards rushing. The stinge unit was lead by Barry Sagouspe with 14 tackles, Walt Kaufman (13), Joe McCluskey (12) and Wally Reed with 11 stops.

The Tigers marched 76 yards on four plays on their first possession of the second quarter. The drive culminated on a 62-yard scoring strike from Scanlon to wide receiver Rod Weigand. Alan Lupinetti added the first of three extra points to give the Tigers a 7-0 lead with 9:54 remaining in the half.

The next time they had the ball, Scanlon teamed up with Weigand for a 31-yard gain only to have the 6-1 senior fumble. Fontana's Kevin Jones picked up the loose ball and returned it 23 yards to the Steeler 37.

Three plays later, Fohi QB Henry Colangelo fumbled while being dropped for a 12-yard loss. Chaffey's Bill Edmonson recovered his first of two miscues at the Steeler 37.

On the ensuing play, Scanlon hit Harley Stark over the middle for a 29-yard score to up the score 14-0, 5:24 before intermission.

Chaffey's only sustained drive of the evening began on its nine yard line. The Tigers moved on the ground 91-yards on six plays, biting off chunks of 17, 12, 13, 26, 4 and 20 yards. Scanlon capped the drive with the 20-yarder upping the lead to 21-zip.

Fontana's only score of the night came when tackle Rufus Thompson intercepted a sideline pass and raced 60 yards for the score. To add to the frustrating evening the PAT attempt went awry.

Chaffey then extended its lead to 27-6 early in the final stanza as Scanlon hooked up with Stark for a 23-yard score.

The Tiger' final score of the evening came with 8:46 remaining on Elefante's 66-yard touchdown jaunt.

Fontana moved the ball well on the ground early in the game but was forced to go to the air after falling behind. Terry Henderson ground out 94 yards on 21 rushes while backfield tandem Russ Waleszonia added 65 yards on 16 carries.

Garey vs. Pomona at MSAC, 8 p.m.

Just being cross-town rivals makes this one hotly-contested, but this year a little something extra is added.

Both teams have plenty of offensive punch, even though Pomona won its league opener, 33-12 over Montclair, and Garey dropped its league lid lifter, 14-8 to Chino.

Pomona will rely on the passing arm of All-SAL quarterback Steve Taylor, who completed eight of 13 passes for 160 yards, and on the running talents of San Antonio League Player of the Week Raymond Butler, Garry Honest and stocky Jim Price.

Charter Oak vs. Rowland at Nogales, 8 p.m.

The Lancers were on their way to a league championship last year when the Raiders knocked them off, in their only win of the season.

Charter Oak won't forget that but may not have enough to do anything about it.

The key to the game depends on whether or not Rowland can stop CO tailback Nick Howard.

Howard has bowled over the opposition for 439 yards in the three games to date but Rowland's defense did an outstanding job in stopping a very quick Bassett running game last week.

Sagehens shoot for first victory

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

Pomona-Pitzer players will have a dual goal in mind when they take on Loyola tonight (7:30 p.m., Alumni Field).

The Sagehens (0-2-1) will be seeking both their first victory this year and revenge for the 19-18 heartbreaker suffered last year at Loyola.

It was a doubly frustrating loss since the Lions had not scored a single point in three games preceeding the match while the 'Hens had averaged slightly over 23 points per contest.

Last year Walt Ambord's crew had beaten St. Mary's 28-14 in their opener and lost to Azusa Pacific (48-14) and Claremont-Mudd (31-28).

This year the Sagehens tied Whitman (14-14) in their opener and then have suffered two thumpings (45-25 and 57-7) to APC and the University of San Diego. Meanwhile, Loyola beat the Osaka (of Japan) Sidewinders (20-0) and has since dropped two, 42-13 to Redlands and 21-0 to Whittier.

Either Mark Paredes or Rick Alatorre will quarterback the Lions. Coach Herb Robinson has been alternating the two.

Paredes has completed 30 of 58 passes for 307 yards to two touchdowns. Alatorre has hit on 17 for 46 for 183 yards without a touchdown strike.

The 'Hens' Larry Cenotto, meanwhile, tops SCIAC passers with 46 completions in 91 attempts. The junior quarterback has thrown for 659 yards and three touchdowns.

Like Loyola, Pomona's attack is air-oriented. The Sagehens have netted only 273 yards on the ground.

The two high-scoring losses (to APC and USD) have dropped the 'Hens to the bottom of the defensive statistics. The opposition has racked up 815 yards rushing and 533 passing for an average of 449.3 yards per game while the Sagehen offense has averaged 310.7.

In other games, Claremont-Mudd (1-1) journeys to Cal Lutheran (2-2) this afternoon after a bye last week. USD (3-1) plays La Verne (1-2) at Bonita's field tonight, Redlands (3-0) is at UC Riverside (2-2), Whittier (2-1) is at USIU (1-2), and Azusa Pacific hosts Cal State Los Angeles (0-3-1).

It will be a tough game for C-M. Cal Lutheran held usually high-scoring Cal Poly to 10 points last week in a 14-10 win. Former Temple City star Bill Wilson will probably quarterback the Kingsmen.

Likewise, La Verne will have all it can handle in the Toreros from San Diego. Last year the Leos surprised USD 27-21 and Marty Mercurio broke his wrist.

Mercurio was strictly a running QB last year. The Leopards did not complete a pass in the game at USD and were outgained 305 to 205 yards.

Last week, the Toreros gained 648 yards against Pomona-Pitzer. They are averaging over 35 points per game.

More excitement expected

Broncs battle SLO

SAN LUIS OBISPO — Although the rivalry only dates back to 1968, whenever the two Cal Poly's get together the excitement becomes so intense that anything is liable to happen.

The Pomona-San Luis Obispo series has been consistent in one area, though, extracurricular activities. There has been at least one fight in every game and the contest at Kellogg Field three years ago was halted, with time remaining on the scoreboard, because of a brawl.

While the rivalry has been fierce the outcome has been one-sided.

The Broncos have never won in five meetings and have been outscored 197-68 over the years. The closest the Broncos have come to victory was last year when they scored 16 points in the final quarter only to lose 21-16.

This year's meeting is vital since the Broncos have everything to win and nothing to lose while the Mustangs must win.

SLO is in the same position it was last year when the two teams met. Head coach Joe Harper's club must win if they hope to continue their bid for an unbeaten season and another crack at the Camellia Bowl title in Sacramento.

The Mustangs took the journey to the state capitol last year and were dealt a 38-21 loss by North Dakota, the only loss on the campaign for SLO.

Harper is accustomed to winning. In five years at the helm of SLO his teams have compiled a 35-15-1 mark for a .696 winning percentage. In fact a Harper-coached SLO team has never lost a California Collegiate Athletic Association contest.

The Mustangs are 3-0 this year after posting league wins over Cal State Northridge 65-20 and UC Riverside 26-17 and a non conference victory over Idaho State 20-10.

Mike Coulson has thrown four TD passes and connected on 33 of 54 aerials for a .611 percentage and 517 yards.

Coulson is also the top Mustang rusher with 118 yards followed by Mike Foley (111 yards on 29 carries), John Henson (84 yards on 4 totes), Pat Manus (73 yards on 16 rushes) and Rick Gliniak with 74 yards on 18 carries.

Coulson's favorite targets are Dana Nafziger with 11 catches for 223 yards and Walter Mead with 207 yards on 14 grabs.

All-CCAA guard Fred Stewart (6-2, 234) is the stalwart on the offensive line.

George Frendenberg (6-2, 219) anchors the defensive line from his end position while sophomore George Wilson (6-1, 195) and Greg Lee (6-0, 220), the outstanding defensive player in the Camellia Bowl last year, head the linebacking corp.

The Mustangs lead the conference in total offense (392) with 169 yards rushing and 223 passing per game. Their defense is also tops allowing just 123 on the ground and 139 yards through the air per game.

SLO has been its own worst enemy in its three games. Thus far the Mustangs have fumbled 12 times and lost seven of them and they have been charged with 23 penalties costing them 270 yards.

Coach Roy Anderson's Broncos, will enter their league opener after playing inconsistent football in posting a 2-2-1 record.

S.B. Valley must forfeit wins to Chaffey, RCC

In another incident which has become typical of the Mission Conference each season, San Bernardino Valley College has been forced to forfeit two of its games because of recruiting violations and an ineligible player.

The announcement was made by conference officials Thursday.

It means that Valley will take a 0-3 record into games this weekend, while previously winless Chaffey and Riverside will each pick up victories. Both had lost to the Indians.

The Panthers (1-2) host Palomar Saturday night at 7:30, and instead of seeking their first victory of the year, they will be eyeing No. 2, with the outside possibility of claiming the conference title.

In the meantime, Citrus, which was not touched by the incident, will take a bye from conference play and travel to Pasadena City College for a 7:30 p.m. contest. The Owls are 2-2 for the season, and 2-1 in conference play. Pasadena is 3-1 overall.

Howe makes WHA debut tonight

LOS ANGELES — Gordie Howe, the most prolific scorer in major hockey history, will make his World Hockey Association debut with the Houston Aeros tonight at 8 p.m. at the Sports Arena against the Los Angeles Sharks.

Howe's 25 years of hockey heroics for the Detroit Red Wings of the NHL produced the following records: most games played, 1841; most goals, 786; most assists, 1023; most points, 1808. He was selected to the all-star team 21 times.

Howe signed a multi-million dollar package with the Aeros, a deal that included his sons, Mark, a fine looking right-winger and Marty, a defenseman.

Terry Slater's Sharks figure to be in the thick of contention in the torrid Western Division race. The addition of Marc Tardif, a sharp-shooting left-winger from the Montreal Canadiens who Slater calls a "potential superstar", number one draft choice Reg Thomas at center, and right-wingers, Ron Walters and Don Gordon, should add considerable firepower to the Shark arsenal.

"Every team in the WHA has improved," said Slater, "especially in our division. We just hope that we have improved right along with them."

Gary Veneruzzo's 43 goals last season should be augmented by Tardif's scoring power, plus the deft stickhandling of J. P. LeBlanc, Thomas and Fred Speck.

George Gardner and Russ Gillow are back in the nets to provide depth and experience at that key spot.

Last year the Sharks thumped Houston 6-3-1 in the season series but dropped the 6-game playoff to the Aeros. The teams split their recent pre-season action, Los Angeles winning 3-2 in Greensboro and Houston taking a 5-3 decision in Detroit.

The Sharks host the Toronto Toros (formerly Ottawa Nats) Tuesday and the Chicago Cougars under new coach Pat Stapleton, Thursday, to round out their season opening home series.

Mayfair Music Hall in Santa Monica schedules week of 'grand openings'

SANTA MONICA — The Mayfair Music Hall, a new entertainment center at 214 Santa Monica Blvd., will have a week of "grand openings" starting Tuesday. All performances are at 8 p.m.

Talent includes singer Beatrice Kay as "resident soubrette"; Bernard Fox as "chairman," the English equivalent of an emcee; British singer-composer Ian Whitcomb; Larry and Harry, the Barclay Squares (Larry is better known as Seymour, the TV horror host, and Harry is actor Don McArt); Richard Green, raconteur, and Bubbles, comedienne.

The Mayfair Music Hall was built in 1911 as the Santa Monica Opera Htuse and later opened as the Majestic Theater. Producer Milt Larsen, creator of Hollywood's Magic Castle, has restored it to an Edwardian elegance typical of old English music halls at the turn of the century.

Dance troupe to perform at Inner City

LOS ANGELES — The Paul Taylor Dance Company will give three performances at the Inner City Cultural Center in November.

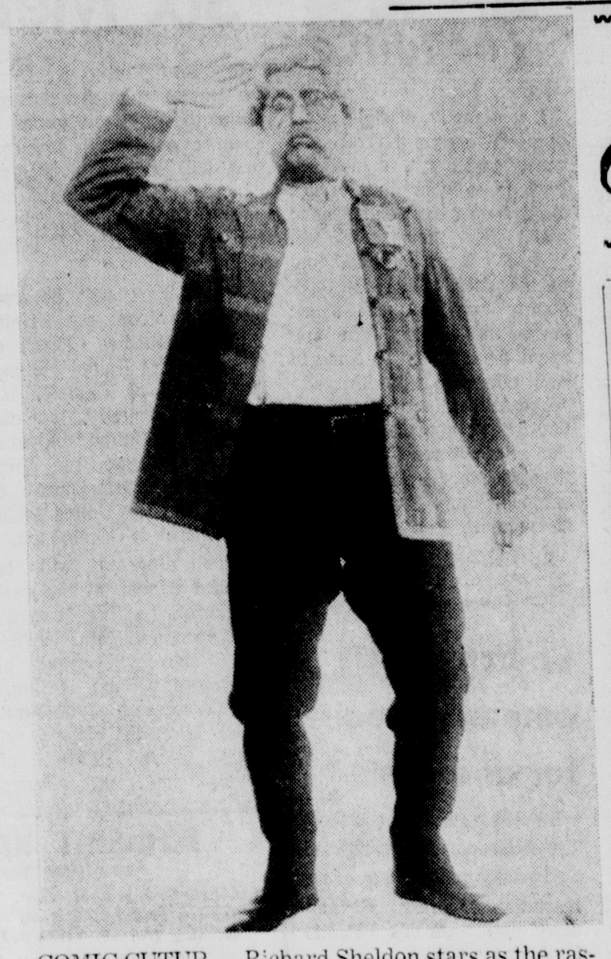

The New York-based company, led by choreographer-dancer Paul Taylor, is scheduled to present performances at 8 p.m. Nov. 9, 10 and 11. The Inner City Cultural Center is at 1308 S. New Hampshire Ave.

Taylor and his company have completed 17 foreign tours, through Europe, North Africa, South America and Asia. Recently the company returned from Mexico where Rudolf Nureyev joined it in performances at the Theater de las Bellas Artes and the National Auditorium.

First county fair

America's first county fair reportedly was established at Pittsfield, Mass., in 1811 as the Berkshire County Fair.

COMIC CUTUP — Richard Sheldon stars as the rascally landlord in "Cox and Box," to be presented at Garrison Theater of the Claremont Colleges at 10:30 a.m. next Saturday. The Sullivan-without-Gilbert comic opera opens the 1973-74 season of Children's Theater put on by the colleges. The production is by the Opera a la Carte Company.

Colleges to offer Sullivan operetta

CLAREMONT — The Claremont Colleges' Children's Theater series will open with a performance of "Cox and Box" at Garrison Theater at 10:30 a.m. next Saturday.

The comic opera by the Opera a la Carte Company stars Richard Sheldon, Keith Halvorson and Paul Harms.

The music for "Cox and Box" was written by Arthur Sullivan in 1867 prior to his collaboration with W. S. Gilbert. The libretto is adapted from a play by F. C. Burnand, subsequently editor of London's Punch magazine.

The opera was written in a hurry for a private presentation when Sullivan was only 25; it had just piano accompaniment, played by the composer himself. The original vocal score has been out of print for some years; only a cut-down version is now published. However Opera a la Carte presents the work as it was originally written.

"Cox and Box" is the only non-Gilbert and Sullivan featured work still being performed today by England's D'oly Carte Opera Company. They do the cut-down version.

Other presentations on the children's series will be the "Nutcracker" Suite, the complete fully staged ballet performed by the Pacific Ballet Theater on Dec. 8; the Morning Glory Theater puppet production of "Anansi the Spider," Feb. 2, and the film "Born Free" on March 9.

Season tickets and tickets for individual performances are available at the central box office in Bridges Auditorium at the colleges. Telephone information is avilable by calling 626-4523.

Chino 1st Baptist to honor laymen

CHINO — Laymen of the congregation will be honored during the 11 a.m. worship service Sunday at the First Baptist Church.

Bill Breunle, general chairman of the observance of Layman's Sunday, will lead the service. Joel Barbee Sr., Wayne Partlow and Ken Merrick will give the morning message. Laymen will conduct the entire service.

The Sisters-In-Christ musical group will sing at the 6 p.m. service Sunday. Members include Mrs. Gary Roberts, Mrs. Joe Murillo, Mrs. Dan Kime, Mrs. Wayne Partlow, Mrs. James Stolsworth and Mrs. Robert Snoke. They will be accompanied on the piano by Craig Watkins.

After the concert, the Rev. Tandy Sullivan will lead a church planning rally in the social hall. Refreshments will be served after the rally.

A quarterly business meeting and potluck supper will be held Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. at the church. Members should provide their own table service, one main dish and a salad or desert. Coffee, rolls and butter will be furnished by Mrs. Effie Knight and her social committee.

Thoughts

I continually discipline and punish everyone I love; so I must punish you, unless you turn from your indifference and become enthusiastic about the things of God. "Look! I have been standing at the door and I am constantly knocking. If anyone hears me calling him and opens the door, I will come in and fellowship with him and he with me. I will let every one who conquers sit beside me on my throne, just as I took my place with my Father on his throne when I had conquered.

Revelation 3:19-22

Six Methodist churches in pulpit exchange

Six West End churches in the United Methodist denomination have joined forces to conduct a special program that will include pulpit exchanges by both laymen and pastors and attempt closer ties to neighboring Methodist churches.

Taking part will be congregations from the Trinity United Methodist Church of Ontario, First United Methodist Church of Ontario, the Montclair United Methodist Church, the United Methodist Church of Chino, the First United Methodist Church of Upland and the United Methodist Church of Cucamonga.

The program will be launched Sunday at the various churches with a laymen's pulpit exchange. John Weaver from Chino will speak at Cucamonga; Gene Billings from Cucamonga at the First United Methodist Church of Ontario; Arlan Walton of Montclair in Upland; George Duerr of Ontario First Methodist at the Trinity United Methodist in Ontario; Dale Stevens of Trinity in Montclair; and Larry Archiblad from Upland in Chino.

A pulpit exchange of the ministers will be held Oct. 28 during the morning services. A joint celebration is planned for Oct. 28 at 7:30 p.m. at the Ontario First United Methodist Church. Bishop Charles Golden will be the speaker.

The program will conclude Nov. 4 with a Loyalty Sunday program when each individual congregation will work toward a goal of underwriting its own financial needs for the year. The Every Member Canvass program will also begin that day.

Snake's alive! case dismissed

LONDON (UPI) —Two London street performers, in court accused of obstructing traffic, proved to the judge recently that they still had something up their sleeve.

Their "act" was to charm a snake, and when the constable who arrested them told the judge the snake was "probably artificial," Dennis Carthy, 28, pulled the non-poisonous king snake from out of his shirt.

"It only eats one mouse a week," he told the judge.

Carthy and his partner, Anthony Gasson, 26, were released.

Church rejects amnesty plea for dodgers

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — The Episcopal church refused Wednesday night to approve a resolution favoring full amnesty and veteran's benefits for draft evaders.

The resolution was adopted by the House of Bishops but the House of Deputies refused to concur on the next to the last day of the church's 13-day convention.

The House of Deputies, composed of both clergy and laymen, also voted to support federal legislation that would bring all agricultural workers under the jurisdiction of the National Labor Relations Act.

Bible school joy bus program at Vinton

POMONA — The Vinton Avenue Church of Christ will launch a "Joy Bus" program Sunday for the Bible school that will have church buses picking up children and bringing them to church for the 9:30 a.m. program.

Other churches of the denomination involved in the program to send the yellow and brown colored buses out into the community include those from Chino, Riverside, Beaumont and Palm Springs.

Children will be delivered back to their home at 12:30 p.m. according to David J. Reynolds, pastor of the Pomona church.

Mr. Reynolds will discuss "Freedom from Sin" at the 10:30 a.m. service Sunday. His 6 p.m. topic will be "Respect from God and Man."

Dog likes to stay on top of things

OLDHAM, England (UPI) — Sandy the mongrel dog lives on the roof of his owner's pub and apparently likes it.

"Soon after we moved into the pub 13 months ago Sandy jumped off the fire escape onto the roof—and has stayed there ever since," said Gerry Ratcliff, the pub landlord.

The dog is fed each day by Ratcliff's 10-year-old son who clambers up the fire escape to leave the food in a kennel on a flat part of the roof.

TO PERFORM — The Reflections music group will appear in concert Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at Assembly of God in Pomona. Also appearing will be the Challengers and musicians from the local congregation.

Other participants will include Joe Jasso, Ron Ray and Ted James, trio; Donna Rosenkrans, Jim Burnham and Deana Grace, mixed trio; Don Clark, saxophone solo; and a vocal duet by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Heinrichs.

Brown on top of veto list

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, felt the sting of Gov. Ronald Reagan's veto power more than any other state legislator this year.

The Senate Democratic Caucus has reported that Reagan vetoed 11 bills authored by Brown, the most of any state legislator.

It said Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, was second to Brown in bills vetoed with nine. Also, another Moscone bill for training bilingual teachers was "gutted," said, when the measure's $580,000 appropriation was cut by the governor to 20,000.

Among Republican legislators, Sen. John A. Nejedly of Walnut Creek, had the most vetoed bills—seven.

Energy talk loses steam

Lights were out in the windowless auditorium for about 10 minutes.

Hobby had just finished telling the students about how the state is meeting the energy crisis when the power failed.

"I guess we're not doing enough," Hobby said after a 30-second pause.

Wallace urged to stand firm on appraisals

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI) —Gov. George Wallace was urged Tuesday to stand firm against inside-the-home inspections by state officials attempting to assess the value of personal property.

Arnold Debrow, Mobile County tax assessor, told Wallace that interior inspections are unecessary. He said experienced personnel can learn all they need to know with an exterior appraisal.

"Without the continued protection of the residential sanctuary for the private rights of our citizens ... there remains nothing left that the Wmerican citizens can consider private and safe from the invasion of government agencies," Debrow said in a letter to Wallace.

He kept ahead of the news

BOSTON (UPI) —Massachusetts House Speaker David M. Bartley is not a man to be caught off guard.

After learning that the president of a private government watchdog agency with whom he'd been trading charges had scheduled a news conference for today, the speaker Tuesday issued the following statement:

"House Speaker David M. Bartley, D - Holyoke, responding today to Sam Tyler's Mass Action press conference of tomorrow, said he expects to have no reply to Mr. Tyler's reply to his reply to Mr. Tyler's statement of Oct. 1."

Rattles & straws

Music soothes us savages

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

The recent visit of the Los Angeles Philharmonic to Claremont was the official opening of my 1973-74 season of orchestra watching. It was an interesing inaugural, offering, as the old saying, or tune goes, something old, something new, something borrowed, something flat.

It was the opening concert for the Mehta mercenaries as well as for me, so it was only natural there would be some gaffs among the staffs. For example, in the opening Vivaldi, there weren't enough chairs on stage, and the violin section had to stand through the entire number like a band of gypsies playing in the streets. I half expected some of them to wander down the aisles.

After the first number, someone forgot to buzz the boys having Cokes and cigarettes in the rehearsal room, and none of the strings showed up for Varese's "Integrales," or Integrales' "Varese," which ever comes first. The winds and percussion did their best, but it was sort of like a pro football team when the defense missed the bus to the airport.

Whenever I attend a symphony concert, I always look over the violins first—first violins first and second violins second. For one thing there are so many of them, and they all seem to be working so hard and not enjoying it very much. Violinists are a serious lot by nature, and when they clamp down their chins on the instrument and begin sawing away, they look terribly grim. This season's Philharmonic crop seems even more morose than last year's.

After watching the violins for awhile, noting who looks at the conductor most often and which ones seem to be sight-reading, and trying to guess which is going to turn the page, I survey the cellos and basses. Cellists are generally as dour as volinists, as well they might be in that awkward position straddling their cellos like a nervous novice riding a horse for the first time. Bass players seem more amiable and relaxed, sweeping the bow, plucking the strings, counting the house.

Turning now to the woodwinds, we find a variety of men and women mouthing bassoons, oboes and clarinets like children sucking popsicles, and flute and piccolo players whistling up a storm with their charming instruments. To the windward of the woodwinds are the rich, stern trombones, French horns, tubas (tubae?) and cornets. You can't tell much about their mood or temperament, because the effort of pumping out notes makes them all red-faced and frowning.

In the back are the precussionists, the only ones who seem to have any fun with their music. Two or three grown men move about thumping kettledrums, rattling snares, and clonking a variety of chimes, triangles and gongs like kids in nursery school. They never smile—no one in an orchestra ever smiles—but they are obviously enjoying their work.

By the time I have studied the percussion, the orchestra is well into the second movement, and I go to sleep.

Birth control drug will be given trial

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has decided to allow a trial run of a contraceptive drug which can be given by injection but which may cause long-term infertility.

The FDA said the drug would be recommended to only a small fraction of women who cannot use other contraceptive methods and are willing to risk infertility even after the injections cease.

The drug, Depo Provera, can prevent pregnancy for up to three months at a time with one injection and is the only known injectible contraceptive.

It has been under FDA study for nearly eight years and already is approved for use to treat cancer of the uterus.

Dr. Alexander Schmidt, the FDA commissioner, said Wednesday, "While the drug is clearly effective in preventing pregnancy, it presents the risk of infertility when use is discontinued. In addition the drug has other adverse effects associated with the oral contraceptives."

"At the same time there is a demonstrable need for this long-acting drug among a small but definable group of women," Schmidt added. "On this basis the FDA will approve the contraceptive use of Depo Provera with strict labeling guidelines for both physicians and patients and with special provisions for limiting distribution and for monitoring the results of its use."

The FDA said laboratory tests on dogs given the drug showed some cases of breast cancer but "whether or not this finding may be relevant to humans is not known ... At the present time there is no evidence that breast cancers occur more often in women receiving the drug."

The FDA said initial research indicates most women regain their fertility after quitting the drug, but sometimes not for a matter of months.

THIS CAR GETS MILEAGE—Ben Visser stands in front of his 1959 Opel station wagon at Rosewood Heights, Ill., that he's done a little work on. The last time he drove it he got 376 miles to the gallon.

Only 376 miles to the gallon for this auto

By DONALD BERNS

ROSEWOOD HEIGHTS, Ill. (UPI) —Ben Visser has a 1959 Opel station wagon and he's done a little work on it. The last time he took it for a spin he got 376 miles to the gallon.

"Of course, when you get better gasoline mileage, you have to sacrifice something," Visser conceded.

Visser's car has sacrificed such luxury items as the windshield ("We're trying to cut wind resistance") and it operates with a one-speed transmission ("We don't have a reverse, and we go forward very slowly.")

Visser is a research engineer at the Shell Oil Co. refinery in Wood River, Ill. He and a few friends have worked for about four years on the wagon, and claim this month's achievement of 376.59 miles a gallon is a world record.

"A few of us were sitting around a couple of years ago and wondering about how much gasoline mileage we could get if we went all out to develop a car simply for the sake of getting better mileage," Visser said. "It started with a few fellows at work but we've done all this on our own with our own money."

Visser's car has the original body shell and engine, but the roof has been chopped off at about the point where the back of the front seat used to be. The engine has been moved from under the hood to the back and has been placed sideways to eliminate one gear.

All of the modifications are intended to reduce friction. The transmission is regulated by only two sprockets, and all of the other gears and bearings have been eliminated. The rear tires have been moved so that they are side by side. A special axle engages only one of the back wheels, and the other rolls freely. The car, which weighs 2,400 pounds, can be pushed by one person.

The tires on the car are 14-ply jet airplane tires. Visser got them from a junk pile, shaved off all of the tread and fills them with 200 pounds of air as compared to the normal 30 for a car.

For the six months before the record run, Visser worked on the car in his driveway from roughly 6 p.m. to midnight four nights a week plus about 12 hours a day on Saturdays and Sundays.

"Some neighbors probably think I'm the crazy man of the neighborhood," he said. "But a guy down the street just finished working on an airplane in his front yard, and two fellows up the block have boats. I guess I can have a crazy looking car."

Grape wine 'new'

Grape wine has been traced back to at least 10,000 years but some authorities believe the first wine was made of dates and palms long before that.

Rescue crews seek missing flood victims

ENID, Okla. (UPI) —More rain pounded waterlogged areas of Oklahoma and Texas Friday and rescue crews slogged through mud in search of a few persons still missing. Eleven persons were killed in the flash flooding in the two states.

Seven of the known dead died in Enid floods caused by rains of nearly 16 inches Wednesday night and Thursday. The other four were killed in Texas. All the missing, originally numbering 35, were in Oklahoma.

"Eight or nine persons are still unaccounted for," said Ed Hardy, press aide to Gov. David Hall. "We are almost certain one of those will be found dead."

He said other fatalities were possible.

Hardy said a pest control company reported the loss of 100 canisters of ethyl bromide insecticide. Police warned residents to avoid the canisters because they could explode and would then be poisonous.

Hardy said preliminary estimates set damage at $10 million in Enid. More than half of that was to residences and about $1.5 million to business structures. St. Mary's hospital was forced on emergency power and candlelight early Thursday and suffered $3.8 million in damages.

Army misses recruitment goals again

WASHINGTON (UPI) —For the eighth month in a row since the draft was discontinued, the Army failed in September to reach its recruitment goals, the Pentagon announced Friday.

When asked if the all volunteer program which replaced the draft is working, Army Lt. Gen. Robert Taber, a defense assistant for manpower affairs, said:

"I can't tell you if it's working or not. I don't think anybody can tell you. It's the greatest experiment any nation has tried with a volunteer force."

The Pentagon report said 30 per cent of the Army's recruits were black—almost double the percentage of blacks in the general population. It was the third consecutive month that blacks have comprised 30 per cent or more of the Army's recruits.

The report said the Army made 86 per cent of its September recruiting objective of 19,800 persons while the Marine Corps made 65 per cent of its objective. The Navy and Air Force were close to their objectives.

Eighth nuclear test blast held

BEATEY, Nev. (UPI) —The Atomic Energy Commission announced Friday the detonation of its eighth underground nuclear test of the year, a 20-kiloton blast 1,356 feet below the surface of its Nevada test site.

The explosion, equivalent to 20,000 tons of TNT, was set off in a tunnel at Ranier Mesa in the north central portion of its test range.

The AEC described the detonation as a "Department of Defense weapons effect test," They said no problems were associated with the blast.

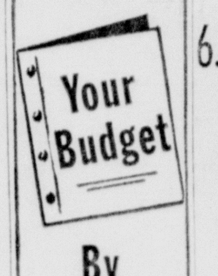

Eating in sewer now traditional

BIRMINGHAM, England (UPI) —About 100 engineers, drainage experts, public works officials and workmen will sit down to lunch next week in a sewer.

They'll dine on roast meat, fresh salmon and fruit salad to commemorate the opening of a sewer 30 feet underground. "We got the idea after finding that a celebration party was held in the old sewer which was built 70 years ago," said Albert Philips, secretary of the company which built the sewer.

NASA: bigger than space

If we can put a man on the moon, why can't we: get rid of smog, develop run-resistant pantyhose, clear up freeway traffic jams, build a soft drink machine that works, find a cure for wheat rust, make a cheaper home?

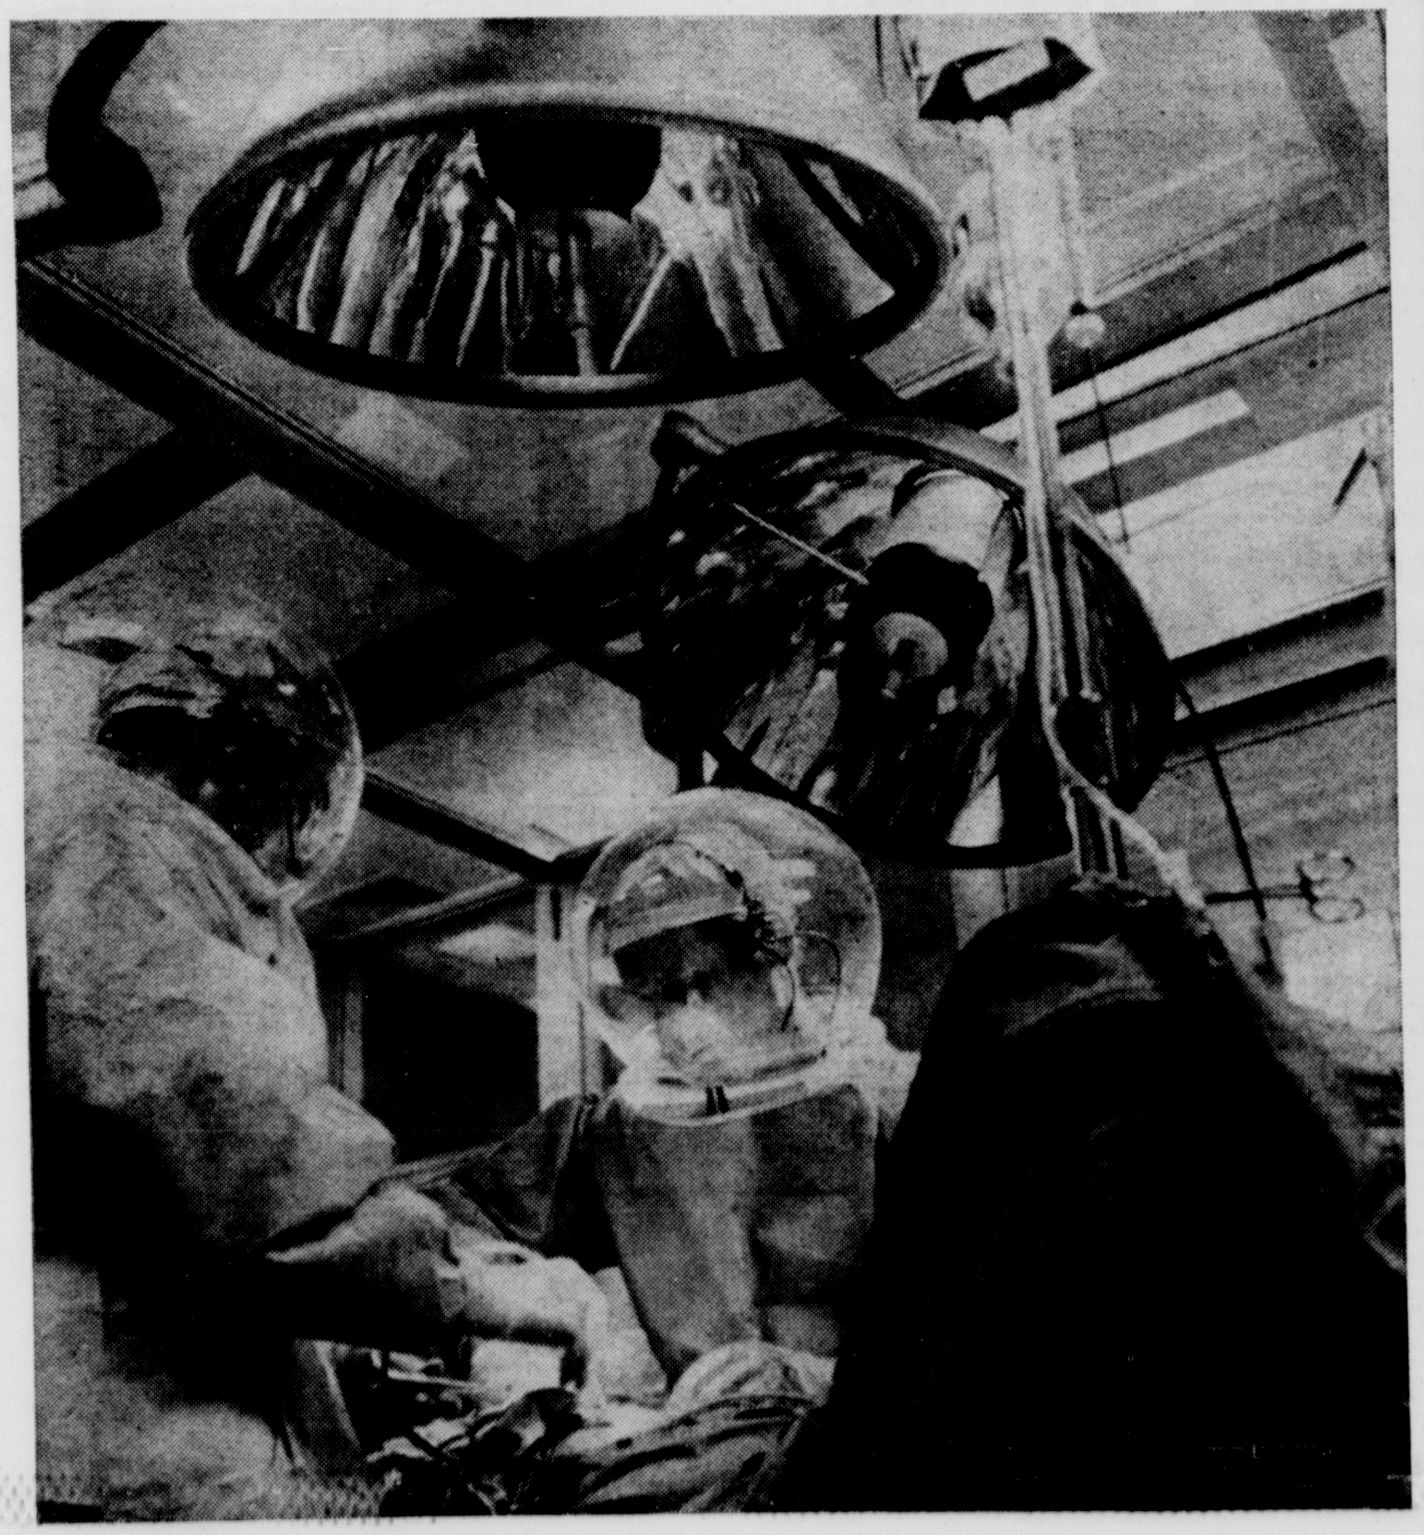

As the National Aeronautics and Space Administration this week celebrates its 15th anniversary, the cliche question that sums up the frustrations of so many Americans has become old hat in modern society. In point of fact, the work of NASA's scientists, technologists and space pioneers has influenced and benefitted the lives of every American since the passage of the National Aeronautics and Space Act of Oct. 1, 1958.

The newspaper you are reading at this moment, the tires on your car, the loaf of bread on your pantry shelf — all of these things and many more have been influenced, changed and improved by the federal program that has put the first human being on the moon, initiated space communications satellites, and launched deep space probes of Venus, Mercury and Jupiter.

The taxpayers of America have spent $50 billion on NASA since its inauguration 15 years ago, and while the spectacular achievements amid the planets of the earth's solar system have been highly publicized, the down-to-earth spinoffs of the space-age investment are less well known.

When NASA was created in 1958, it had one mission — to catch and surpass the Soviet HIGH FLYERS — Members of the Gloria Newman Dance Theater sail through a number in preparation for public performances in Gymnasium 3 at Mt. San Antonio College Monday and Nov. 1. Admission is free. The troupe performed for enthusiastic audiences at MSAC last year. Both programs will start at 8 p.m.

TV 'conservative' compared to radio

By RICK DU BROW

With video continuing to plunge into racier material than it once offered, there will be more complaints from various viewers and organizations that the networks are becoming increasingly irresponsible in this area.

The fact is, though, television is still by far the most conservative mass entertainment medium—light years behind the stage, movies and books in terms of frankness. Even radio has been far earthier, as witness the trouble that some of its talk show programming got into for going way out on a limb.

The networks will often be tasteless and off base in their shows—an inevitable fact considering the huge amounts of material they turn out in a season—but their overall image will still be conservative to anyone who sees the trends and social developments around us.

You will, as the new video season gets rolling, hear some people offer their periodic blanket putdowns of television in general, telling how awful it all is, what a waste of time it is. Whenever I hear foolish sweeping statements like these, I find myself, despite my own criticisms of video, asking such people just how much television they watch, and what they watch, and whether they have seen this or that notable program.

And invariably the answers make clear they don't know much about television, watch the worst stuff, miss most of the best and don't really work at getting the maximum out of the home medium, which you can do.

Of course, if anyone simply plunges headlong and without any selectivity into an entertainment medium, the results will be predictable. Most television is mediocre. Most movies are mediocre. Most stage plays are mediocre. Most books are mediocre. The key to civilized survival amid mediocrity has always been selectivity.

Although broadcasters control what appears on video, in many ways the television a viewer sees is as good or bad as he or she wants to make it. If there is an extraordinary amount of material on the home tube, and an extraordinary amount of bad material, there is also an extraordinary amount of good material, from news and sports to worthwhile interviews.

At MSAC

Dance theater to present free programs

WALNUT — The Gloria Newman Dance Theater will be in residence at Mt. San Antonio College Sunday through Nov. 1 and will present free public performances in Gymnasium 3 at 8 p.m. Monday and Nov. 1.

The program is presented by the MSAC Community Services and supported by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts.

The repertory dance company has performed all over the United States to good notices. The group performed in concert on the MSAC campus last year to enthusiastic audiences, and to MSAC dance and music students who participated with the group in lecture-demonstrations.

In addition to Miss Newman's own choreography, the ensemble performs many works of such artists as Donald McKayle, Elizabeth Keen, Daniel Hagrin and Carol Warner. The Dance Theater's community art projects have been seen by thousands of Southern Californias in the company's many concerts, workshops and master classes.

The audience is invited to meet the artists in a reception in the Student Center following the Monday concert.

Classes for MSAC artists and art students on campus will be held Tuesday, and a master dance class for students will be conducted by the company on Oct. 23. Area children will be guests of the Community Services Office Oct. 24 to watch the theater ensemble perform.

A lecture - demonstration for the high school students of the Hacienda La Puente Unified School District will be performed by the Newman Dance Theater Oct. 31 in La Puente.

Based in Southern California for over 10 years, the company is under the direct supervision of Miss Newman, assisted by Carol Warner, associate director, and Betty Walberg, artistic adviser.

Miss Newman has studied with such masters of dance as Martha Graham, Merce Cunningham, Louis Horst and Doris Humphrey. CLIFF KING Says:

What makes some sports fans so unhappy is the fact that the home games of his favorite team are blacked out on local TV, even when the event is a sell-out and there are no seats to be bought. It doesn't help if he realizes that this game, which he has no chance to see, is being played in a stadium his tax-dollars built.

Local blackouts of sporting events are on the way out. Legislation is pending to forbid them during any sell-out game. Also, it seems to us that the delivery of an audience of 2 or 3 million ought to bring in enough revenue from local advertisers to over-compensate the club-owner for loss of gate receipts.

NASA's influence bigger than space

Dr. Harold Newhall and a patient demonstrate a mobile medical gas analyzer developed under contract to NASA and now in use in the field of respiratory medicine.

Union in space.

"In those days we were tending to respond to what the Russian threat was," said Dr. James C. Fletcher, NASA's fourth administrator. While the space exploration program takes 34 per cent of NASA's current budget of $3 billion, the benefits from the space-related programs are having a powerful impact on modern life.

One dramatic example is the "spy-plane" U-2, in which Francis Gary Powers was shot down over Russia 13 year ago. Today the high-altitude (65,000 feet) plane zooms across America daily with five cameras capable of picking up objects as small as two feet long. Flying out of the NASA base in Mountain View, the U-2 provides photos helpful in combating air and water pollution, forest fires, floods, crop insect infestations and soil erosion. The pictures (150,000 so far) have given invaluable information on wheat rust in the fields of Kansas, forest fires in the West, floods in the South and strip mining in the East. California recently entered a compact with NASA for disaster evaluation surveys — fires, earthquakes, even the recent explosion of the ammunition train in Roseville.

The knowledge gathered by NASA since its origination in 1958 has provided vital data in science, medicine, navigation, communications, agriculture, commerce and crime prevention. It has developed swifter and safer ways of building skyscrapers, bridges and airplanes, improved tires, roads and railbeds, and discovered new techniques in medicine that will save many lives.

Medicine, in fact, has put more of NASA's technology to use than any other discipline, mainly because of the space age advances in miniaturization and sophisticated electronics circuitry. The organization has developed a temperature pill the size of a vitamin capsule that is actually a radio transmitter that can be swallowed. A miniaturized blood analysis system has been developed that can perform 16 different studies of human blood. Breathing machines, manipulator systems for paralysis victims, gas analyzers, operating room purification systems and other devices are in common use in America's hospitals today.

NASA has also provided improved alarm systems against burglars, detection devices that warn of intruders, life rafts for mariners, self-lubricating metals for auto manufacturers, infrared tire testers, computer-programmed stress indicators for a variety of tools and structures, using techniques that offer a 60 per cent improvement in behavior of components under stress.

The space agency has developed new fireproof, fire protective and fire retardant clothing and building materials, and non-flammable foams, paints, fabrics and glass fiber laminates.

NASA has adapted the laser beam to a variety of uses, from surveying boundary lines to measuring plankton in ocean waters. It has introduced new high-energy batteries now used in commercial manufacture of power tools and sports equipment. Another time - and money-saving device developed by NASA is the paste-on wiring circuit, a flat electrical conductor cable first used in spacecraft, but now being adapted to walls, ceilings and floor surfaces of homes and offices.

All of these advances benefiting modern civilization are part of the "new image" of NASA, according to Dr. Christopher Kraft, director of the Johnson Space Center in Houston, Tex.

Speaking at the Town Hall West Forum in Los Angeles last week, Dr. Kraft said NASA today is dedicated to assuring the adaptation of the space technology that has been developed in the last 15 years to help solve today's problems.

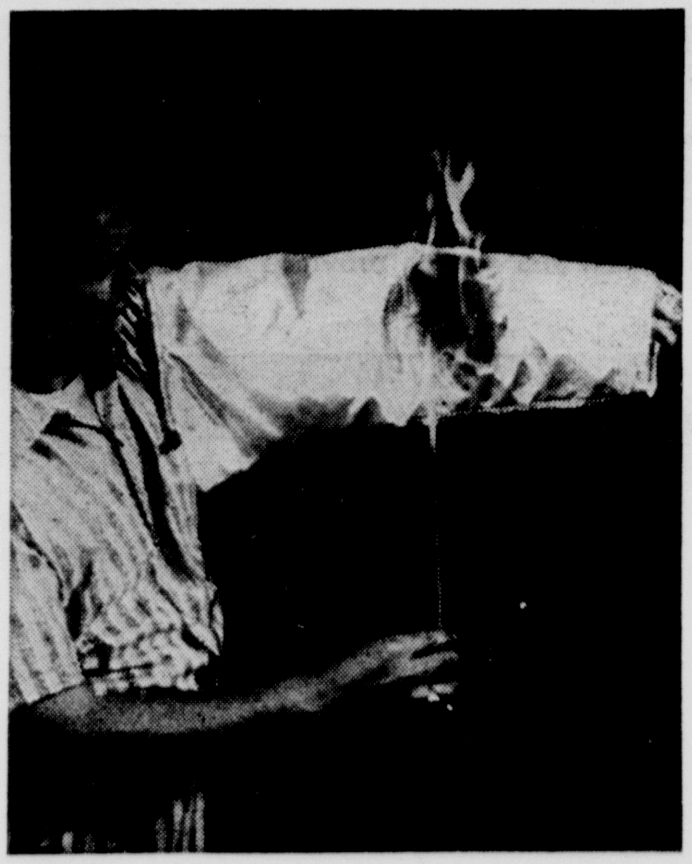

"This is part of NASA's thinking as well as everyone else's," he said, "and we are committed to this objective."

NASA has come down to earth.

A mighty rocket sending men into space from Cape Kennedy and surgeons in astronaut - type helmets illustrate two aspects of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. The nation's space agency, which has put men on the moon and probed other planets, has provided many benefits to modern living. This week NASA celebrates its 15th anniversary.

It Happened in Pomona

By Doc Peirsol

City's 'golden age'

According to most historians, Pomona's "golden age" was that era prior to freeways and subdivision and smog when many a fortune was in the making because of citrus gold.

But despite the glowing reports of historians who often likened early day Pomona to the golden garden of the Hesperides, there were numerous citizens in this community in those days whose dreams of fabulous fortune had little to do with golden oranges — citizens with literal, down to-earth minds who refused to settle for anything short of gold itself.

What's more, some of them were actually cashing in on their belief that there was gold in them thar hills and deserts surrounding Pomona. One such individual was given recognition in the Aug. 27, 1892, issue of The Pomona Weekly Times where it was reported:

"A citizen of Pomona is said to be taking from $4 to $15 a day out of a mining claim in Lytle Creek."

A month later The Weekly Times had this to say about the local gold situation:

"A well known Pomona man is reported to have recently obtained an interest in a mine out on the desert which promises to make him rich."

But it wasn't just isolated instances such as those two Times reports that are the basis for my contention that early day Pomonans had gold rush fever in their veins. Actually there were hundreds of similar get-rich-quick hopefuls who were willing to put their money where their dreams of fabulous fortunes lay. And again it is The Pomona Weekly Times that I cite in proof of that statement. The story reads:

"On Thursday, articles of incorporation of the Virginia Mining Company were filed in Los Angeles. Principal place of business was listed as Pomona. — Capital $1,000,000 — Stock actually subscribed, $994,500."

Fit your family's need

by HIAWATHA ESTES

If you want to get the maximum enjoyment from your new home, then be sure and fit your house plan to your family's need. This design has been especially planned for a family whose individual members desire their privacy, appreciate large spacious rooms and value refreshing indoor-outdoor living.

Double front doors lead from the roofed porch to the wide entry which efficiently channels traffic to every room in the house. Partial walls separate the entry from both the living and family rooms. These two large rooms have been planned so that two generations can live, relax and entertain with plenty of space for individual privacy and comfort. The fireplace has been located in the family room where experience has proven that it will be used more often. The sliding glass doors which lead from the master bedroom, living and family rooms to the partially roofed patio, encourages an informal living pattern.

Informality and carefree entertaining and living can be enjoyed in the family room-kitchen area. A feature of the kitchen is an extremely large eating nook, surrounded by windows which flood the kitchen with sunlight and continually offer an ever-changing view of the rear yard during different seasons of the year.

The master bedroom suite features a dressing room and a private bath. The den or third bedroom could be used as a guest room, office or as an individual suite for a parent or older child. By eliminating the wardrobe and closet, it could be used as a separate dining room although there is space for a drop leaf table in the family room so that this room can double as a dining area.

This same basic exterior is also available in a four-bedroom floor plan, at a different price structure, and is illustrated in our book, Ranch & Modern Homes.

Complete working drawings for plan 31110 can be purchased for only $12.67 for the first set and $6.36 for each additional set ordered at the same time. This plan will be available at these special prices until February 14, 1974. Please allow two to three weeks for delivery. A specification booklet is available for $1.06. The following home plan books are also available: Distinctive Homes — $1.33; Prize Homes — $1.33; Hallmark Homes — $1.33; Town & Country Homes — $1.33; Homes by Hiawatha — $1.33; Ranch O Modern Homes — $2.12. All six books — an $8.77 value — for only $6.89. Orders for less than three books, please add an extra 20 cents per book for postage and handling. Prices include sales tax. Send all orders to: Hiawatha Estes, P. O. Box 404-PO, Northridge, Calif. 91324.

Lacquer protects metal

By Mr. Fix

Metal hardware always looks good in a new kitchen or bathroom, on new furniture and in hardware store displays. Hinges, knobs, pulls and caches of metal are both attractive and durable. But some of that attractiveness fades in time.

Metal pieces lose their luster and may tarnish in time. Some are more durable than others and some are easier to clean than others. A few will pit and corrode if not taken care of right from the start. Some will be ruined by improper cleaning, even losing the exterior coating that made them so attractive in the first place.

A wide variety of metal polishes is available and a good hardware store will carry most of them. A metal polish generally consists of a solvent and a mild abrasive. The solvent dissolves the oxides that form on metal surfaces. The abrasive is there for polishing.

These are mild polishes generally and are to be preferred because they do the least damage to the metal. But a mild polish is only effective before tarnish becomes too thick and heavy. Although the polish may be mild, use it sparingly, especially on plated metals. Frequent polishing eventually wears through the plating.

To avoid this problem with plated surfaces give them a protective coating while still new and clean. A coat of clear lacquer lasts indefinitely and the surfaces can be wiped off with no damage to the plating.

Apply lacquer only to a clean surface. Use a mild polish that will not scartch to remove all dirt and tarnish. Wipe with a rag dipped in denatured alcohol to remove all traces of polish. Then polish with a dry cloth.

If possible remove the hardware before lacquering. Apply two coats with brush or spray.

Do not use lacquer on objects that come in contact with flame or high heat.

Solid copper, bronze or brass are durable and do not present the problems of thin plating. But a coating of lacquer can help these too since they are metals that tarnish easily. They can then be cleaned with the mildest polish and soap and water.

Objects of copper, bronze and brass may become pitted through neglect. Clean first with a mild kitchen cleanser, then rinse with hot water. Remaining stains should be cleaned with a solution of vinegar and salt followed by rinsing in clear, hot water and polishing.

Aluminum doesn't rust but it does become dull and pitted in time, especially when exposed to the weather. Make aluminum bright again with fine steel wool pads and mild soap. Avoid strong cleaning agents, particularly those with lye. These discolor the aluminum. Special aluminum cleaners are available which will do the job easily if not neglected for two long.

Stainless steel does stain if substances dry on the surface. Soap and water are generally enough to clean it. Acid containing foods may discolor the steel but this can be corrected with a metal polish.

Chromium is a plated metal and should be cleaned with care. Use soap and water or a mild polish. The kind sold especially for chrome cleaning is best. Harsh abrasives will scratch the surface. If possible, protect the surface with wax.

Wood screen, boxes ease trash crush

A rising tide of refuse is a problem shared by most families. Recycling of cans and bottles cuts down on solid waste, but it also compounds the storage problem.

For many, the solution is a separate service area, where there's room for garbage cans, bins for bottles, cans and newspapers, and barrels for grass and yard clippings.

An unobtrusive service area, enclosed with wood screens, can be added along a house or garden wall, or in a corner of the fence at the side or rear of the yard.

When bulit as a free-standing unit, the service area is enclosed on three sides with a six-foot high screen of vertical 1x4-inch fir, pine or western cedar boards in a frame of 4x4-inch posts and bottom rail.

A decorative touch is added with a 2x4 cap on the boards, topped with three spaced, horizontal 1x2 inch slats and a 1x4, and capped with another 2x4 extending over the 4x4-inch posts.

Above and below ground storage can be combined in the enclosure to make best use of space. For garbage cans sunk in the ground, the flip-on covers are enclosed in a box frame of 2x6-inch Douglas fir, and lids of 1x2s in a frame of 2x2s. This also could be used to store coiled garden hoses.

The frame of 2x6s also supports a large box built of 2x4s and the same 1x4 boards as the fence. The box holds garbage, yard refuse or recyclables. It has a top lid of 1x2s and 2x2s for depositing materials, and side doors facing the back of the enclosure for easy emptying.

The screened area offers room to keep lawnmowers, garden carts, large barbecues and other outdoor equipment out of sight, yet close at hand when needed.

Construction of the screens is adaptable, using horizontal bevel siding when it matches house or garage, or another style to tie in with an existing fence. Planter boxes made of the same materials help blend the service area into the landscaping.

Hand-crafted items in decorating scene

You name it—macrame, appliqué, crewel, needlepoint—the urge to "create" has made the decorating scene!

Needlecraft classes have never had such overwhelming enrollments, and enthusiasm for old arts in running rampant.

Use of hand-crafts isn't restricted to traditional home furnishings settings either. In fact, these items are often times the best counterpoint to contemporary rooms and give a detailed welcome relief to sleek, modern times.

Once a craft is mastered, it seems, imagination run wild.

Can you guess what the centerpiece is? It's carpeting! But . . . not any ordinary carpeting . . . It's a Persian Medallion, part of Armstrong's exciting new Grand Noble Collection.

The carpeting was "zig-zag" cut to follow the outline of multi-colored medallions producing a unique design. A nice warm feeling pervades and the wall treatment is a nice change of pace from all the usual pictures.

Necessity isn't the only mother-of-invention. Creativity can come from allowing yourself to "improve" on an already-great thing.

Fabricate!

You don't have to be a genius to come up with a good notion of your own.

Phantasize!

. . . Bet you've already got a couple of great ideas yourself!

Froggy high chair for the small fry

By STEVE ELLINGSON

The worlds of the old English nursery rhyme remind us that almost everyone likes frogs. The chances are you remember the fable about a frog that turned into a prince (or was it a prince that turned into a frog)?

Calaveras County in California has an annual frog jumping contest in honor of another frog lover, Mark Twain. The little rascals have been the subject of countless children's stories . . . so why not a froggy high chair for the small fry? He's sure to wow them and wow them!

The chair is of a very stable design. The full-size pattern parts can be traced right onto the plywood, then painted (over the tracings) to a color scheme of your choice. Vivid greens, chartreuse and yellows would seem to be ideal for this happy frog's face, pictured here with another charmer, little Lisa Ford. However, feel free to "do your own thing", color-scheme wise.

The tray can be painted in any good, washable enamel. It slides on waxed grooves. The ready-made legs used are of a design available in do-it-yourself centers or lumber yards. No fancy woodturning involved. Just race, saw out the parts and assemble. Step-by-step pictures and instructions will guide you all the way.

So make a hit with your little prince or princess. To obtain the Frog High Chair Pattern number 525, send $1.00 (add 25 cents per pattern for air mail delivery) by cash, check or money order too:

Steve Ellingson, Pomona Progresss-Bulletin Pattern Dept., P. O. Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif 91409.

Other projects you will enjoy: No. 56 rocking horse . . . $1, bucking burro glider swing . . . $1, booklet picturing over 500 projects . . . $1.

Gov. Evans says Agnew affair GOP body blow

SEATTLE (UPI) —Washington Gov. Dan Evans, chairman of the National Governor's Conference, considered the resignation and "no contest" plea of Vice President Spiro Agnew "a body blow to the Republican party."

"It is a major shock to our political system, especially following the other shocks to the system we have been going through," the GOP governor said Wednesday.

Evans said the Congress and president Nixon should get together quickly and set all partisan differences aside and get the matter of a new vice president resolved quickly.

World of animals

Cold virus can take week to get to a cat

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: Briefly, please, how long should it take a cat to catch a cold from another cat who has one? —A.B.

Dear A.B.: The time it takes for virus transmission from one cat to another is variable depending upon the virus, the concentration of the virus the potential victim is exposed to, and on that animal's resistance. Symptoms may take as long as a week to develop or may appear within 48 hours.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Three of us here can't agree on whether green food is good for parakeets or not. I've already been advised mine don't need any. One friend feeds her birds a good meal of greens every Sunday. The other gives hers a smidgen of something green every day. Who is doing the best thing for his bird, would you say? — L.N.

Dear L.N.: Parakeets apparently may do very well for years on a straight, high-quality seed diet. This doesn't necessarily mean they wouldn't do even better with some variety. Greens provide additional vitamins and other nutrients which can be of value.

In addition, greens are a source of cellulose and parakeets can certainly do better with a substantial amount of this bulk in their diet. Birds who don't get cellulose from greens will usually eat some paper or wood, if available, as an alternative source.

Personally, I'd prefer to see the birds offered small amounts of greens every day or two provided (1) the greens are completely clean and pesticide-free and (2) they are strictly fresh. The greens should be taken out when they start to wilt. The simplest way to judge the acceptability of the greens being fed, assuming they are eaten, of course, is the effect on the droppings. If these are loose, cut down on the amount of greens until they are normal again. For an occasional parakeet, this means no greens at all; there are some who cannot tolerate even small amounts.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Can a four-month old pup be given the rabies shot, or is that too young? — E. O.

Dear E. O.: With the type of rabies vaccines now available, rabies vaccination is appropriate at four months of age or, for some, even several weeks earlier.

Book on living presidency offers monumental study

by WILLISTON WIRT

THE LIVING PRESIDENCY by Emmet John Hughes, Coward McCann & Geoghegan, $10.50.

This book is a monumental study of American presidents from Washington to Nixon, their personalities, power, and achievements.

The author has impressive credentials for his careful analysis of this high office, having served as an editor for Time-Life-Fortune for 20 years, having served President Eisenhower as chief speechwriter, and as administrative assistant to Nelson Rockefeller.

(Williston Wirt is a staff member of The Pomona Public Library.)

At present he is professor of politics at Rutgers University and teaches a graduate course on the presidency.

In the opinion of Henry Steele Commager, one of our foremost authorities and writers on American government, "this is quite simply the most original, the most thoughtful, the most perspicacious book on the presidency I have ever read".

Since the powers of the American Presidency were not precisely defined by the Founding Fathers, the office was left to be shaped by each President according to his individual personality, and the political pressures, both foreign and domestic, of his time.

Thus the author examines the way in which each President made his office a reflection of his basic ideas and how he acted to determine the nation's relations with other countries as well as to arouse support for his domestic policies.

In particular, the author addresses the President's ability to involve us in war. He says, "It is not too fanciful to see the complex union of President and people as a kind of marriage, with all its vows, conflicts, doubts, and need for patience and hope. Both signify great gambles, and both depend so decisively on a shared faith that there is no force more certain than mutual distrust to break a marriage — or a President".

Hughes shows the great importance of the White House staff. He says, "The staff a President brings into the White House almost always revealingly reflects his personal ideas, habits and aspirations."

"A President should realize that the most important of all his decisions are likely to come even before he takes office. For it is then he must make appointments and select his advisors. Any one of them may fatally mislead him or stain his administration."

An important part of the book is the supplemental section entitled "The Presidency As I Have Seen It", in which 12 well-known presidential advisors state their character qualifications for that high office. These 12 appraisers are Sherman Adams, Clark Gifford, Benjamin Cohen, Ralph Dungan, Abe Fortas, Clayton Fritchie, Bryce Harlow, Averill Harriman, David Lilienthal, Nelson Rockefeller, Samuel Rosenman and Theodore Sorenson.

In giving his own response to the question, "Should the powers of the President be redefined or restricted?", the author's reasoned judgment is no. "I feel strongly that each President has to be, and should be, free to find and choose his own modus operandi. Thus I am not now among those revisionists who wish to limit the President's powers."

And in commenting upon the personal reactions of the 12 men who make their judgments upon the presidency, Hughes state, "They speak incisively for themselves. As they do, there emerges one striking concensus; after almost two centuries of Presidential government, they plainly believe still that the creation of the Founding Fathers was a work of art and wisdom".

Comments Henry Steele Commager, "The timeliness of this book is overwhelming. What a good idea if you could get Mr. Nixon to read it."

I feel very sincerely that it would be a good idea if you read it. It will give you a concept of the huge responsibilities carried by the holder of his exalted position. You may marvel at the successes he is able to achieve and perhaps understand his occasional failures to measure up to the nobility the office of President demands.

Implausible plot, improbable story provide escape

By CHARLOTTE LYON

THE FRIGHTFUL SIN OF CISCO NEWMAN, by G. A. Ralston and Richard Newhafer, Prentice-Hall, $6.95.

Here's a light-hearted story for your reading in the autumn doldrums—one that settles the Arab-Israeli guerrilla conflict using the combined forces of a willingly-kidnapped Pope of Rome by three young Mafia gangsters—one a Jewish-American, Cisco Newman, one an Arab-American and one an Italian-American.

Such an improbable lot manages to make wry fun of such diverse issues as interfaith marriage, federal income taxes on kidnap loot, skullduggery among the inner circle of the Chicago Mafia, and Vatican machinations to use its influence in the UN toward a peaceful settlement of the Arab-Israeli guerrilla war.

Serious issues, you say? Ah yes, but what better fantasy than to come home from your vacation having read of so many of the world's ills being temporarily solved by the light reading you did and while you were on vacation, no less!

This novel reads like a movie script which may be explained by the fact that both authors Palston and Newhafer write for both movies and TV.

How to make money work is outlined

By MARLIN L. HECKMAN

HOW TO MAKE $1,000 GROW, by Herbert Dolmus. Doubleday, $4.95.

This book is about $1,000 outside your regular budget and how it might be put to work for you. Dolmus answers common questions about real estate, the stock market, commodities, and mutual funds as means for making your $1,000 grow.

(Marlin L. Heckman is librarian at La Verne College.)

Chapter headings include such titles as, "How to Be a Landlord on $1,000," "How to Think Like a Sophisticated Investor," and "How to Choose a Mutual Fund."

Dolmus suggests that success in money handling depends on three things. Being able:

1. To see all the risks possible in any situation;

2. To understand those that can be measured and how to measure them, and to recognize those that cannot be measured at all; and

3. To understand how much risk you are willing to take and how you will react and respond when something happens you couldn't possibly have foreseen, but which may seem to threaten your project with disaster.

There are good, practical answers here for becoming aware of the possible windfalls and pitfalls of making money with money.

In his final paragraph, Dolmus states: "The most important thing to remember is that whatever the situation, however involved or simple the way you choose to make money with money, the responsibility for all decisions invariably comes back to the same place: yourself."

Spy adventure to help pass a lazy afternoon

By LANGE WINCKLER

MESSENGER FROM MUNICH by Noel Pierce, Coward McCann & Geoghegan, $6.95.

This is what some English teachers occasionally refer to with disapproval as a "fast book." Maybe they mean it reads fast, or is fast-paced, or even, rather racy. It is all that — an involving, whambang spy adventure novel. "Messenger From Munich" is also deserving of some of the English teacher's negative overtones, for the plot is weak, the story hard to believe, and the prose less than classic. Yet the book is interesting, and serves well for an afternoon's escape into adventure.

Essentially it is the story of a spy's wife and her involvement with the man who would wreak revenge on her retired ambassador father. The spy, whose attachment to a supersecret U.S. agency is never quite clear, is assigned to stop the killer before he commits the deed.

There is much more in the book, which seems like a spy novel built on a formula for a true confessions-type article. The spy's marriage is falling apart, despite his well-documented prowess as a he-man lover and ready fighter. The old man's role in the tale revives stories of Balkan intrigues before, during, and after World War I, and the assassin is used to introduce elements of a noble family with a dark past and dead-end future.

Set in New York City, most of the story is about a Hudson River docks area. The detail of the locale displays the author's thorough familiarity with the vicinity, but he is apparently unaware that most readers will not recognize the places used. As a result it is sometimes hard to keep up with twistings and turnings through alleys, parks, shops, and shacks.

For a first novel, Mrs. Pierce has turned out what should be a commercially-successful book. If she continues writing in this style, the talent for inventing intricate plots and interesting characters shown in "Messenger From Munich" should develop, and many of the weaknesses of this book may not be repeated.

Line Up for A Tasty School Lunch Week!

Over 27 million school lunches are served every day in the United States.

The theme of this year's School Lunch Week is "You Are What You Eat". That was last year's theme, and will be the theme for a total of four years.

YOU ARE WHAT YOU EAT

This is National School Lunch Week, a special week set aside by Congress to call attention to the importance of eating the good, hot meals served at school. Each year, this week starts the second Sunday in October.

In 1946, Congress passed the National School Lunch Act that helped provide some of the money to the states so schools could offer hot lunches. Though the government had offered money before, it had not offered enough. Many schools did not have kitchens. Children went home to lunch or carried cold sandwiches from home. Some children could not afford lunches. The new law helped change all that.

A "Type A" lunch paid for with the help of government money must include: a meat or meat substitute, fruits and vegetables, bread, butter or margarine, and milk. State and local governments must provide some of the money, too.

Four years ago, a meeting called the White House Conference on Hunger was held in Washington, D.C. Doctors and food experts called nutritionists brought out the fact that even in our rich country, thousands of Americans are starving because they are eating all the wrong things. They just don't know about good nutrition.

Good nutrition, or eating the proper food, is important. Food gives you energy and is the fuel that makes your body run. Eating proper food helps you keep alert so you can be a better student.

This fall, cafeterias are having to charge more for school lunches and to switch menus because of higher prices and food shortages.

While larger school systems will probably be able to get their orders of such items as meat, the smaller systems will have to do more substituting. Be on the lookout for more fish and cheese dishes and some interesting new taste treats!

Universal Menu Planned For October 17

Did you know that everybody throughout the country eating Type A lunches will be eating the same thing on Universal Menu Day? Here's what the plans are for it to be:

- Barbecued beef on a bun
- Buttered whole kernel corn
- Popeye salad (we've given you the recipe in case you don't know how to make it)
- Yellow cake with cherry sauce
- Milk

POPEYE SALAD
125 (½ cup) portions

Salad:

Lettuce, coarsely chopped	6 lb.
Spinach, coarsely chopped	4 lb.
Green onions, sliced	1 lb.
Tomatoes, diced	3 lb.
Cucumbers, sliced	3 lb.
Radishes, sliced	2 lb.
Carrots, shredded	3 lb.

Dressing:

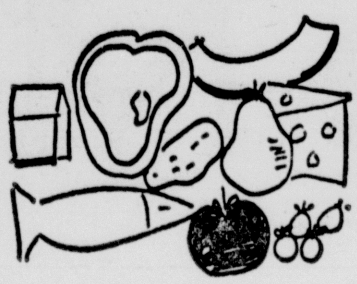

Oil	2 cups
Sugar	2 cups
Salt	2 Tbsp.
Vinegar	2 cups
Celery seed	1 tsp.
Black pepper	1 tsp.

Directions

1. For salad: Coarsely chop lettuce and spinach.
2. Slice onions, cucumbers and radishes.
3. Dice tomatoes. Shred carrots.
4. Toss salad ingredients lightly together.
5. For dressing: Mix ingredients and add just before serving.

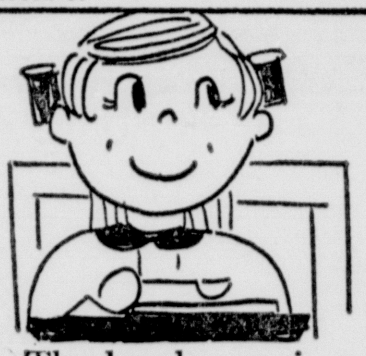

A School Lunch IS More Than Just a Meal

A "Type A" lunch must meet at least a third of all your nutritional requirements for the day. It must be a well-balanced meal.

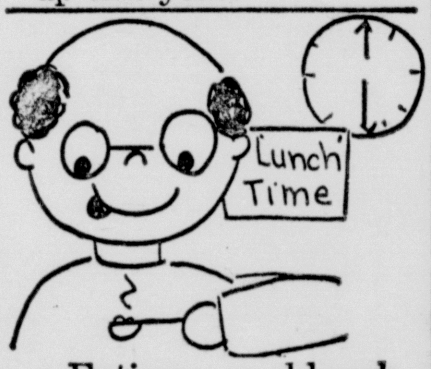

School lunches offer an excellent chance to taste new foods that you might never get at home! Try them all! You'll never learn to eat new things if you don't.

With the help of money from federal, state and local governments, the price is kept down so that most children can afford to pay. However, school lunch prices have gone up this year!

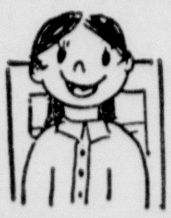

Eating a good lunch every day will help you develop good food habits. Hopefully, you will carry them with you as you grow up.

Meet Seymour Safely

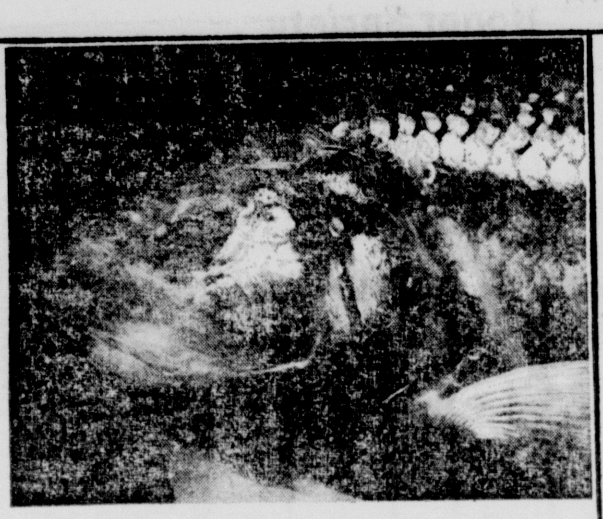

Seymour Safely is a character created by the American Optometric Association. This group is made up of eye doctors and other people that are interested in better vision. Seymour Safely suggests you to use an iron-on or sew-on tape fabric that will glow in the dark so you can "see and be seen" on Halloween.

The Association also suggests that you use makeup on your face, rather than wearing a mask, since mask eye slits are so small. Be careful, don't get any makeup in your eyes!

Animal of the Week:

The Blind Cave Fish

Photograph courtesy of the National Aquarium —Washington, D.C.

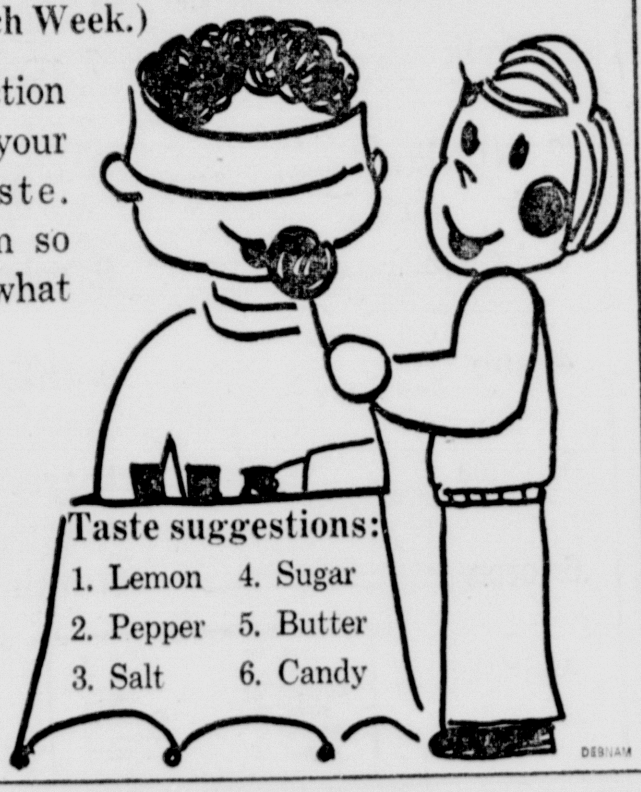

For countless generations, these fish have lived in the dark caves and underground streams. Life in the caves has caused certain changes to occur. They have no eyes and no color to the skin. There are over 30 different kinds of blind cave fish. Although they can't see, they have a "built-in radar" that keeps them from bumping into things. It also helps them find food as easily as sighted fish.

Mini Do: Taste and Tell

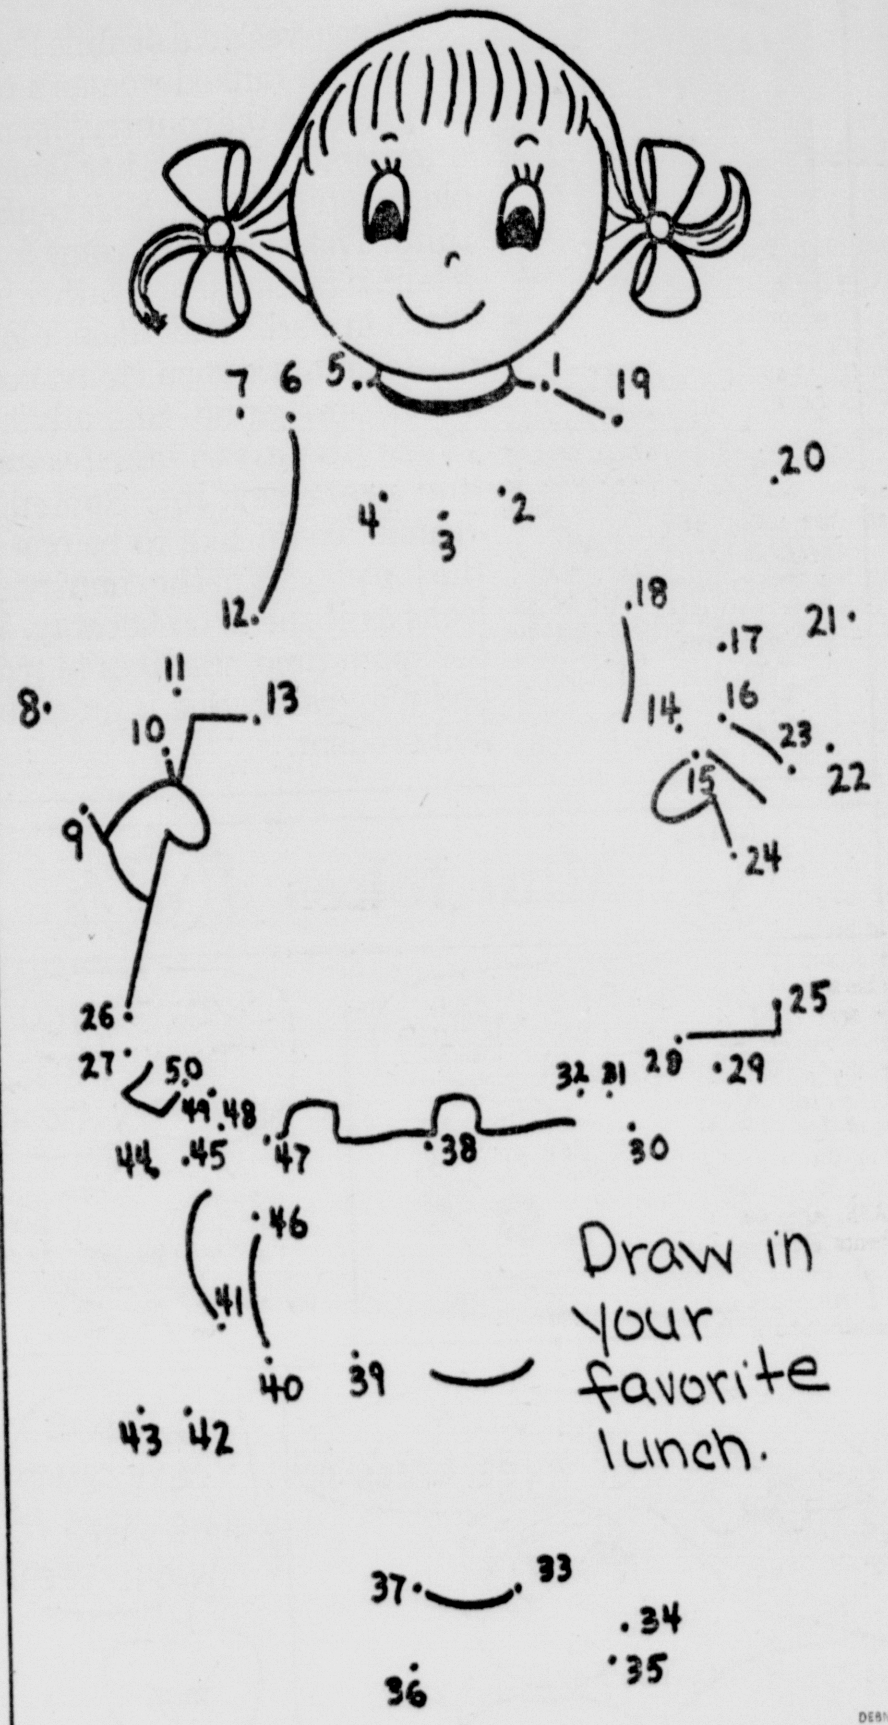

(This might be a fun thing to do at school during School Lunch Week.)

1. Make a collection of things for your friends to taste. Blindfold them so they can't see what you have.

2. Ask them to guess what they are tasting as you give it to them, but be careful. Don't let them taste anything they shouldn't!

PTA now PTSA at Pomona

By KEN SWART
Pomona High School

There has been a new and important development regarding the Parent Teacher Association (PTA) at Pomona High and in the entire Pomona Valley.

This organization now includes active student participation, and has been renamed, accordingly, the Parent Teacher Student Association, as of 1973.

As PTSA President Doreen Keepers explains, "The PTA has always needed active student communication and involvement." Mrs. Keepers adds that she hopes because of this, students will be able to participate in an organization that was created largely for their benefit.

In order to promote awareness and involvement in the PTSA, membership dues envelopes were sent home last week to each student's family. Dues for the entire year consist of $1 for each family member; out of this dollar 15 cents goes to the student's class, 10 cents goes to the Pomona High ASB, and the remaining 65 cents goes to the PTSA fund of Pomona. In this way all participants will get a chance to "share the wealth."

The individual letters and envelopes included explanations and signatures from each class president at PHS; ASB president, Eric Wilson; principal Joe Andrews; PTSA president Doreen Keepers; PHS student council representative and PTSA co-membership chairperson, Peggy Weis; and PTSA co-membership chairperson, Sylvia Stavros.

Several fund-raising activities have been discussed and tentatively planned. They include a "pizza-making-and-delivering" service, and a paperback book sale which will probably be held in the PHS library. These specific activities will be planned and carried out with the help of the PHS student body.

Mrs. Keepers claims that this is the forty-ninth existing PTSA in California, and the first such organization to be established in the Pomona Valley.

War novel raises life-death values

By KITTY WOODALL
Bonita High Reporter

Dalton Trumbo's "Johnny Got His Gun" is one of the most powerful books I have ever read. This fiction anti-war novel brings the horrors of war into vivid perspective.

Johnny got his gun and went to war, with the reassurance he would return to his happy hometown environment. Gradually Johnny awakens. He feels numbness and slowly realizes he is incapacitated — a basket case.

The impact on the main character is tremendous. He, obviously, is totally helpless and confined to this unexpected state.

A group of officials award him a victory medal. He is alive; his body is vegetable. And they ask him, "Who are you?" His identity is really irrelevant.

The novel paints a horrible picture of war's consequences. The atrosities of war are almost beyond comprehension, but this book allows the reader to visualize the unanticipated plight of one victim.

If more people were exposed to such a shocking and revealing account, perhaps war, which drives mankind to destruction, could be prevented.

The issue of mercy killing is also raised. When a human being is dead, but alive, completely dependent on mechanical devices and treatments to function, is it fair and-or humane to continue medication? And yet, who has the authority to pass such judgment?

The book stimulated my thinking and caused me to evaluate my own opinions of life and death. Possibly reading "Johnny Got His Gun" would have a similar effect on you.

Stones' new album shows versatility

ALBUM BEAT
By E. J. JONES

The Rolling Stones. GOATS HEAD SOUP. Rolling Stones Records. COC 59101

Just received the new Rolling Stones Album. Didn't quite know what to expect after their last smash album, "Exile on Main Street." It was a real winner, but it was what I call a "yes" and "no" album. Some people were really turned on and some didn't think it quite as good as the Stones should be.

Goats Head Soup is a winner all the way. Featuring "Angie," "Winter," "100 Years Ago," and "Coming Down Again," the Stones have certainly put it all together. Of course Mick Jagger adds his own individualistic style and class.

Not only is the music on this album some of the Stones best, but look at the lineup of musicians. Mick Jagger, Keith Richard, Mick Taylor, Charlie Watts, Bill Wyman, Nicky Hopkins, and Billy Preston to name just a few. Quite an impressive talent list for one album, but then the Stones do things first class.

The album is a departure from earlier Stones albums in that it has more slow tempo. Not all the songs are hard rock, in fact a few are slow and easy with the natural Stones beat. "Angie" is a typical example and there are a couple of other songs which follow this style. This album shows the Stones are more versatile than ever before which I believe will rocket Jagger and his group even higher up the charts.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR GEORGE HAMILTON

How do you feel about all the trouble Burt Reynolds got into during the filming of "The Man Who Loved Cat Dancing" in Gila Bend?—A. Peters, Gadsden, Ala.

● The furor would never have happened in a big city. A small place like Gila Bend isn't used to having a film company there, so everything got out of proportion with the excitement. The man who killed himself was obviously a depressed and very unfortunate person. But the whole thing gave Hollywood a bad name, and actors a bad name. Being the star of the film, Burt was the obvious focal point. In my opinion he was not to blame. However, I think all the publicity will help sell the film.

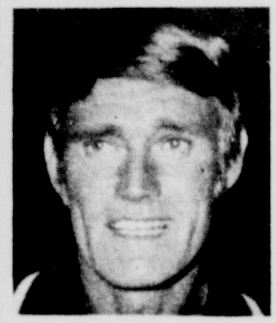

FOR POSTMASTER GENERAL E. T. KLASSEN

Does the U.S. Postal Service plan to eliminate residential mail service on Saturdays?—Mrs. Laurel Aldridge, Hobart, Ind.

● No, but people are accusing us of it all the time. They may be confusing residential delivery with business delivery. Many offices and office buildings are closed on Saturday and such firms have requested that we do not deliver mail to them on Saturday, so we do not. Residential mail service as well as delivery to businesses that desire it will continue on Saturday.

FOR CHUCK CONNORS, actor

What was the funny comment you made after Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev hugged you and you lifted him off the ground in a friendly embrace?—John Lang, Green Bay, Wis.

● The thought that went through my mind as I lifted Brezhnev in farewell was "He's head of state—I'm surrounded by security men—I MUST be careful." And after the hugging incident, a TV interviewer kidded me: "So you're a card-carrying Communist, eh"? and I told him: "No, I'm a Communist-carrying card."

FOR BARBARA EDEN

Do you like your new role as a nightclub entertainer?—K. B., Green Bay, Wis.

● Well, yes, but. . . . On TV I was protected by the character I played. In nightclubs you are vulnerable because you are yourself—you aren't playing a role. And your audience is right there deciding if they like you or not. That's a terrific challenge. I had to get used to it—but I like it.

FOR SUSAN DEY, Laurie on "The Partridge Family"

Was there any resentment on the set of "The Partridge Family" when David Cassidy made it so big and the rest of you didn't?—M. H., Battle Creek, Mich.

● Yes, there was for a while. We resented the totem-pole status. But mainly the resentment that was felt for a time was not because David had become an overnight superstar, but because he was so busy and so very much with it. That was great! We all wanted that. I think it was a sign of maturity that we outgrew it.

FOR DR. BILLY GRAHAM, evangelist

I can't find anything in the Bible that says suicide is wrong. Why are you against it?—Donald Davidson, Durham, N.C.

● The Bible says positively that God has a plan for each of us. He alone knows when we have served our time. Interference on our part is presumptuous. The question is not when do we reach the end of our rope, but when do we reach the end of His rope.

FOR KAREN BLACK, actress

Would you rather be a leading lady or a character actress? —F. K., Visalia, Calif.

● I am a character actress. I always have been. In the old days you got to be a character actress when you were 47 or something like that. To me, you are always a character. Even people my age have so many different personalities: outgoing, vain, malicious, sweet—there are millions of ways to portray someone. All different. All characters.

FOR CLARENCE M. KELLY, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation

How are criminals named to the FBI's "Ten Most Wanted" list?—Mark Waldkirch, DePere, Wis.

● In addition to current serious crime charges, "Top Ten" fugitives usually have a long history of violent criminal behavior and are considered an acute menace to society. Before it's published, the list gets its final personal approval from the director of the FBI.

FOR DENNIS HOPPER

There is a scene in "Kid Blue" in which you try to kill a chicken, and whack away at it with an ax. Was that for real? —R. G., Sarasota, Fla.

● It sure was! I told them before we started, "Get me a really sharp ax because I'm only going to do this once!" I guess they didn't listen to me. As a kid I was raised on a farm and I had to kill an awful lot of chickens. I don't enjoy eating chicken because I remember them as a dirty lot. I keep smelling those chicken houses I had to clean.

FOR GRAHAM KERR, "The Galloping Gourmet"

● "Eden Sur Croute," named in honor of Adam and Eve. I am convinced that the apple was not "the tempting fruit." (1) Take one fresh banana and slice into four chunks. (2) Place one slice of whole wheat bread into a toaster until lightly browned. (3) Butter heavily and smash banana chunks over the oozing toast. (4) Sprinkle with freshly ground parsley and top with ground black Telicheri peppercorns. (5) Now sink your teeth softly into it, and lo, Adam (or Eve) beckoneth!

"The Russians were smiling and happy at the sight of Big Red (my wife Norma) and me, particularly since I was dressed in my usual cowboy hat, boots and leather jacket."

An American Cowboy (and His Wife) Find Open Hearts in Lonely Russia

By Clair Huffaker

Author of "The Cowboy and The Cossack"

The first thing I liked about Russia was their word for "cowboy." The word is "cowboy," except that they usually say it more like "cowf-poy."

For a part-time cowboy on Russian soil for the first time, that was a good start.

My wife Norma—I call her "Big Red"—and I had just arrived by boat in Nakodka. Nakodka is a port on the southeast tip of the USSR, not too far from Japan. We were about to travel across Russia to research a novel I had in mind about cowboys and Cossacks. I intended to put those two unique, tough brands of horsemen together in terms of fiction. But I had to deal in terms of truth—to pick up a handful of Russian earth and get the feel of it. And most important, to find out as best I could what the grassroots Russian people were really like.

So far, they were smiling and happy at the sight of Big Red and me, particularly since I was dressed in my usual cowboy hat, boots and leather jacket. At the train station we managed to order two cups of coffee, and the young waitress grinned all over. "Cowf-poy?" she asked. "Amerikansky?" I nodded and said in my fluent one word of Russian, "Dah." She giggled with infectious good humor as she left.

Soon we were on an elegant red-velvet-draped train on our way north to Khabarovsk, the major city of Eastern Siberia, where we were to spend our first several days. The people on the train were almost overwhelmingly friendly. At dinner time we made our way to the dining car, where we were met by a small sea of smiling, nodding faces.

One evening in Khabarovsk, we got into a line at a bakery to buy some sweet rolls. There were about 30 people in front of us. A handsome young man near the front of the line turned and saw us. He came back to where we were and somehow made it clear in Russian, "You are guests of ours here, and you should go to the front of the line."

We tried to refuse, but everyone agreed with him, nodding and smiling as he led the two embarrassed Americans to the head of the line. (It's hard to argue, I found, when all you can say is "Dah.") Uncomfortable, yet deeply moved, I pointed at the sweet rolls and held up two fingers to indicate two of them, then quickly dug into my pocket for some kopecks. The middle-aged man behind the counter put two sweet rolls into a bag and handed it to me. I tried to pay him—but he shook his head.

So there we were at the head of the line with free rolls, and nothing we could say. All I could do was what Big Red was already doing—smile. Smile and mean it from the bottom of my heart. As we started from the bakery, the people in the line not only smiled back, but, suddenly and spontaneously, they applauded!

Two days later, we walked far off into the rolling mountains surrounding Khabarovsk, so I could pick up a handful of earth and see how it felt. Red thought it was silly, but I thought it was important.

"Well, how does it feel?" she asked,

"There is a forest there called the Siberian Taiga. The Taiga, by itself, is bigger than the entire U.S."

as we stood together on a high mountain slope.

"About the same as back home in Utah."

She smiled, shrugging her shoulders. "I could have told you that 1,200 miles ago."

"I doubt it. Because I'm very good at judging the feel of dirt."

She looked at the mountains around us, with the sun about to set. "How good are you at finding your way home?"

"Terrific."

I insist to this day that we were never lost when it got dark, but it was nice to find a small farmhouse. The old man, his wife and their middle-aged son knew instantly that we were Americans, and that we were somehow off the track. They gave us strong coffee and delicious pieces of meat. And then the father and his son led us back through the night to where we could finally see the lights of Khabarovsk.

Before we could thank them, they disappeared in the darkness.

One evening, as Red and I were headed back to our hotel, we were approached by a tall young man with a couple of friends who'd all had a few drinks. The young man said something to us in a happy, good-natured way. We didn't understand, but we stopped to try a few words of conversation, and a crowd soon gathered around us. Fountain pens and pieces of paper appeared, and it became apparent that they wanted us to autograph on anything they had—matchbooks, packs of cigarettes, even photographs from their wallets. Red and I signed our names, laughing and speaking in English and fractured Russian.

An American Cowboy

Then the tall young man who was wearing a white shirt, turned his back to me and made it clear he wanted me to boldly sign the back of his shirt. As I finished, the laughter and fun were stopped by a few snarled words in Russian. A husky young man stepped into the center of the crowd and angrily shoved the tall young man off-balance. His vicious tone of voice told us pretty much what he was saying. "How dare you cheapen yourself by letting an American write on your shirt!"

There was a moment of hard silence as they faced each other.

Suddenly, I got an idea. Grinning, I took off my jacket and handed the tall young man the pen. Then I swung my shoulder around so that he could sign his name on the back of my shirt, too. He laughed and signed my shirt. As the husky troublemaker stalked off, the relieved crowd started to talk and laugh again. But it had been a spooky few seconds.

"A husky young man stepped into the center of the crowd and angrily shoved the tall young man off-balance. His vicious tone of voice told us pretty much what he was saying. 'How dare you cheapen yourself by letting an American write on your shirt!' "

It came time to leave Khabarovsk. Red and I had brought a number of bolo ties and other American trinkets with us. We gave one, a black Apache tear, to the head waitress who had watched over us like a mother hen. She was almost overcome by the small gift. We always gave scarves or small pieces of jewelry when leaving the friends that we made. And our Russian friends would always give us something, no matter how small it might be, or how distressed they were not to have more. A tiny flask of perfume for Red, a pack of cigarettes or a postcard for me.

Compared with the elegant train that had brought us from Nakodka, the Trans-Siberian Express that was to take us some 7,000 miles to Moscow looked like a cattle car. Our small, dingy compartment was shared with another couple, an elderly Russian man and wife who were at first terrified of me and the way I dressed. Later, when we became friends, it turned out that they, like most Russians, knew about "cowf-poys" from American Western films, and they were concerned that I might be a "bad guy" instead of a "good guy."

To give an idea of the vastness of that huge country we were crossing, there is a forest there called the Siberian Taiga. The Taiga, by itself, is bigger than the entire U.S. And the silences are equally huge. One night in Siberia the train stopped for some reason and Red and I were standing at a window looking off at an endless dark plain leading to the far-off immensity of star-studded sky. We could hear each other breathing. But there was another sound that I couldn't quite place. Finally I realized it was the sound of the burning tip of my cigarette.

In our final stop, Leningrad, a four-year-old boy named Ivan fell in love with my cowboy hat in the elevator at the Hotel Europa. This led to our meeting his handsome young parents, Igor and Irenia. Igor spoke workable, self-taught English, and they wound up showing us their city.

On our last night in Leningrad, Igor and Irenia took us to dinner at a small family-run restaurant on the bank of the Niva River. Three big Russian men deep in their cups staggered over to sit, uninvited, at our table and ply us with loud, suspicious questions about America. They weren't really too bad, but they were noisy and out of line.

More and more embarrassed and confused, Igor tried to translate back and forth. But they felt that the louder they spoke, the more we would understand. And finally I leaned toward them and in a low, but very tough cowboy voice recited Lewis Carroll's nonsense poem "Jabberwocky." When I bellowed out the last rumbling line—"And the momeraths outgrabe!"—they didn't want to push their luck any more. They got up and left.

Two young Russian couples were sitting at a nearby table. Within a few minutes, they left, too. But one of the young men passed by our table and silently put a note in front of me that was written on a paper napkin. It read, exactly, "Excuse those three man for their behavior. Don't think that all Russian man are as those man. Don't mind it. And excuse also us. Goodbye."

That night Igor and Irenia took us to their small apartment, and they insisted on giving us two precious paintings of Irenia's that we had admired. Big Red gave Irenia her last necklace from around her neck. And I gave Igor my cowboy belt and buckle, so that my pants would be in danger of falling down all the way back to America.

We all Russian-hugged each other, and Igor said, "Did you like your trip away from home?"

Are you washing your face like a six year old?

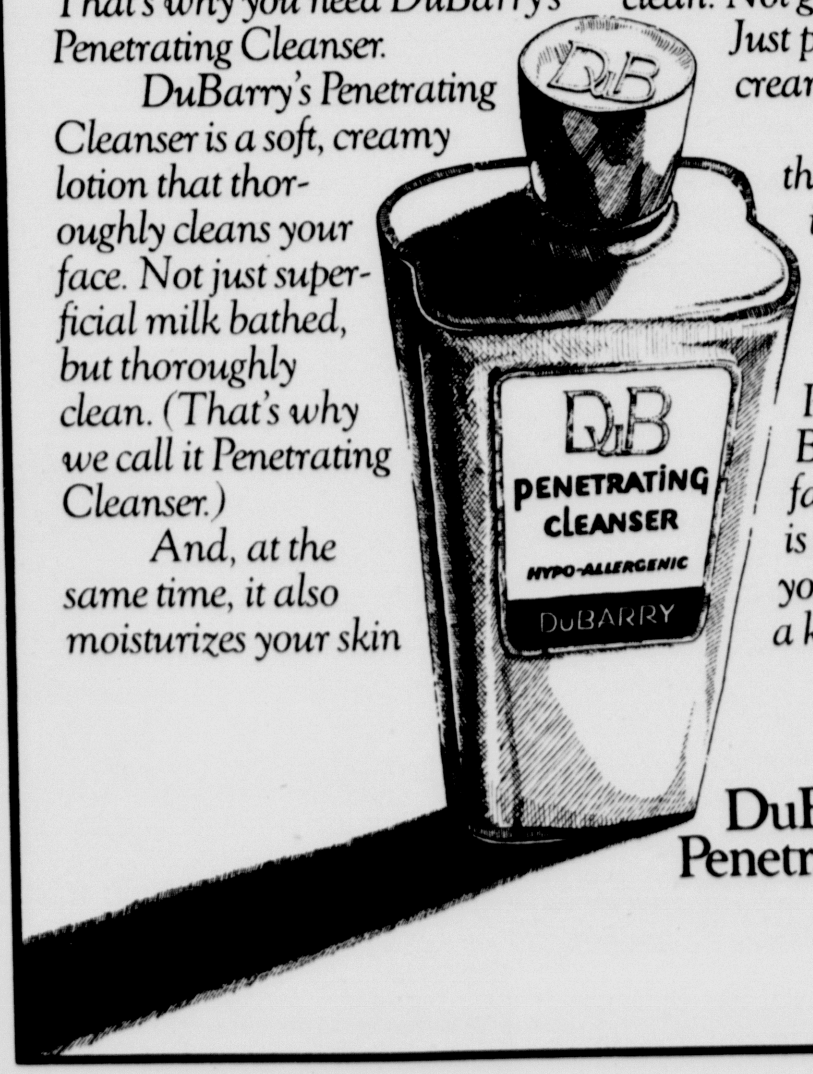

Soap and water was all you needed when you were a kid. But you're not a kid anymore. That's why you need DuBarry's Penetrating Cleanser.

DuBarry's Penetrating Cleanser is a soft, creamy lotion that thoroughly cleans your face. Not just superficial milk bathed, but thoroughly clean. (That's why we call it Penetrating Cleanser.)

And, at the same time, it also moisturizes your skin while it's cleaning it. So, when you rinse it off with water (or tissue it off), your face is dewy clean. Not greasy. Or oily. Just plain clean and creamy-soft.

FRANCO HARRIS:
Pittsburgh Has a New Hero

"Franco's Army" doesn't carry guns or fight wars. It is an army of Pittsburgh football fans who proclaim their rabid worship of Franco Harris, star running back who last winter sparked the Steelers to their first pro football championship in their 40-year history. Harris won Rookie of the Year honors in the AFC by rushing over 100 yards in six consecutive games to tie a league record. He also grabbed a deflected pass to race for a winning touchdown in the last five seconds of the division conference championship game against Oakland. . . . Franco is one of nine children born to a black GI who landed on the Anzio beachhead in Italy during World War II and married an Italian war bride. The Diet Watch

Mini-Exercises That Melt Off Pounds

Most people gain weight gradually, by taking in 100 to 200 calories a day more than they should—that is, more than they exercise off. Dr. Frederick Stare, professor of nutrition at Harvard, points out that any little extra exercise beyond our normal everyday activities can knock off those 100 to 200 calories and keep weight from accumulating. But how to find time for that "extra" exercise? One excellent way is to get up and jog occasionally during TV commercials, for a loss of 15 calories a minute. Or invest in a jump rope and do the same thing. Get into the habit of walking briskly up a flight of stairs instead of taking an elevator. If you own any exercise equipment, use it while you're doing something else. One woman keeps her exercise bicycle in front of the TV set. Riding it, she loses about 150 calories during a half-hour show she is watching. Wherever you go, walk fast. A fast half-hour's walk uses up 60 more calories than walking at a leisurely pace.

The Doctor Lets You In

Don't* Ignore It!

Many people think venereal disease is something that should be stifled or ignored, like a burp. Despite the success of penicillin and other drugs in curing gonorrhea and syphilis, both have again become epidemic. Millions of dollars are needed for research that would develop a gonorrheal blood test and a vaccine for both syphilis and gonorrhea. And people need to realize that venereal disease is not a punishment but a cold, hard fact, just like any other illness. . . . Sex is coincidental to venereal diseases: the same germs can be transmitted non-sexually. If you have a sore or discharge or itching on your genital parts, see a doctor at once. These diseases never go away by themselves. And remember, the only way you can betray someone you've loved is by not helping them get proper medical care. Otherwise, the disease will surely get back to you in time. It's a problem all must work against.

'5' MINUTE BODY SHAPER

We Care About The Shape You're In—Don't You?

Joe Weider, fitness expert and trainer of champions since 1936 says:

"Give me 5 minutes twice daily for only 7 days and you'll lose up to 3 inches from your waistline, up to 6 pounds of unwanted weight, and 'shape up' — or I will return every penny."

LET'S FACE THE FACTS WHY YOU'RE OUT OF SHAPE

You eat the wrong combination of foods, you do not get enough exercise to thoroughly work your muscular, metabolic and respiratory systems daily. Because of this, fat accumulates around your waistline, heart and other body organs, slowing you down, aging your body and destroying your vitality, virility and youth. There is only one way to firm up and shape up: that is through proper exercise and proper nutrition. Effortless exercisers, reducing pills, sauna shorts, weighted belts, dangerous and painful diets and other gimmicks designed to appeal to your laziness will not work and have been exposed by the medical profession as frauds, ineffective and in some cases dangerous. They can only reduce your pocketbook.

Face up to it...If you want to slim down, firm and shape up, you must work off the inches, and there is no safer, faster and more enjoyable way to do it than with our patented, truly miraculous "5" Minute Body Shaper Plan.

HOW DOES THIS INGENIOUS "5" MINUTE PLAN SLIM, FIRM AND SHAPE YOU UP?

Its miraculous slimming action is based on doing one simple "5" Minute Continuous Rhythm coordinated exercise, lying on your back! That's all you do! That's all your body needs to help make up for the lack of activity it doesn't get most of the day. The action is designed to supply your waistline and hipline (where fat accumulates quickest, giving your body a flabby, weak and distorted look) with the activity it needs to slim you and keep you slim. It also burns off excess fat FAST by speeding up your metabolism and respiratory system, using up stored calories, carbohydrates and fats and releasing excess water, thereby shaping and firming up your total body!

It's safer than strenuous gym workouts, beats the time consumption and dangers of gym workouts...or any other vigorous sport.

The unit weighs about 16 ounces and fits any wallet-size case. You can carry it with you and use it — anytime — wherever there's floor space for your body. Even while watching television.

How to Barbecue Chicken— And Ribs, Too

Photos by Elizabeth Gee

BARBECUED CHICKEN HICKORY

12-16 drumsticks (2½-3 lbs.)
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
Double-Triple Hickory Barbecue Sauce

To broil chicken:

1. Preheat broiler if necessary. Place drumsticks in shallow foil-lined pan, brush with butter.

2. Place drumsticks 5 inches below source of heat. For gas range, set thermostat at 450°F.; leave door slightly open. Broil for 20-25 minutes. For electric range, broil 20-25 minutes.

3. Turn drumsticks; broil 15-20 minutes. Brush with barbecue sauce; broil 5 minutes; turn and brush again. Continue broiling about 5 minutes, or until chicken is browned.

To grill chicken:

1. Preheat grill or prepare and light charcoal grill. Brush drumsticks with melted butter.

2. Place drumsticks on grill 5 inches above source of heat. Grill for 20-25 minutes. Turn drumsticks; grill 15-20 minutes. Brush with barbecue sauce; grill 5 minutes; turn and brush again. Continue grilling about 5 minutes, or until chicken is browned.

Makes 6-8 servings, 2 drumsticks per serving

BARBECUED RIBS HICKORY

4½-5 lbs. spareribs (½-¾ lb. per person)
Double-Triple Hickory Barbecue Sauce

To roast spareribs:

1. Preheat oven to 450°F. Place spareribs in shallow foil-lined pan.

2. Roast spareribs 30 minutes. Pour off excess drippings. Reduce temperature to 350°F. and continue roasting 45 minutes.

3. Brush spareribs with sauce and roast 10-15 minutes, or until browned. Cut into strips to serve.

To grill spareribs:

1. Preheat grill or prepare and light charcoal grill. Cut most of excess fat off the ribs.

2. Place ribs on grill about 5 inches from source of heat and grill slowly for about 45 minutes, basting ribs with lightly salted water and turning frequently.

3. Brush with sauce and grill slowly 20-30 minutes longer, until glazed and tender. (This method keeps the sauce from burning excessively. It also allows more smoke flavor to penetrate through the ribs.)

4. Heat Double-Triple Hickory Barbecue Sauce and serve as a dip for ribs.

Makes 6-8 servings

TEXAS RANCH BEANS

1½ cups dried pink or pinto beans
5 cups water
Salt
2 tablespoons butter, margarine or vegetable oil

1. Wash and sort beans. Place in 3-qt. saucepan with 3 cups water. Bring to boiling; cover and remove from heat. Let stand 1 hour.

2. Add remaining 2 cups water to beans. Bring to boil; reduce heat. Simmer covered 30 minutes. Add 1 teaspoon salt; simmer covered 30 minutes, until just tender, drain.

3. Meanwhile, prepare sauce: In medium skillet, in hot butter, sauté onion, green pepper and garlic 5 minutes, stirring occasionally.

4. Add tomato sauce, tomatoes and jalapeño pepper, chili powder, 1 teaspoon salt, pepper, Worcestershire sauce and molasses. Bring mixture to boiling. Reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes.

5. In 3-qt. casserole place beans, corn and chick-peas. Add sauce and mix well. (May be made ahead up to this point; cover and refrigerate.)

6. When ready to bake, preheat oven to 350°F. Bake covered for 1 hour, or until bubbly throughout. Remove cover and stir in cheese. Serve immediately. Makes 6-8 servings

Tasty Rolls You Make with Buttermilk

bake 20-25 minutes, until light golden brown.*

Makes about 20 balls

*Make-ahead note: You may make Cheddar-Cheese Balls ahead, refrigerate them and bake just before serving. They may also be frozen and baked just before serving for 25-30 minutes. Do not thaw.

BUTTERMILK SESAME PAN ROLLS

- 5½-6½ cups unsifted all-purpose flour or enriched unbleached white flour
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 2½ teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon baking soda
- 1 pkg. active dry yeast
- 1 cup buttermilk
- 1 cup water
- ⅓ cup margarine or butter
- 1 egg yolk
- 2 tablespoons water
- 3 tablespoons sesame seeds

1. In large bowl, mix 2 cups flour, sugar, salt, baking soda and undissolved active dry yeast.

2. Combine buttermilk, water and margarine in a saucepan. Heat over low heat until liquids are very warm (120°-130°F.). Margarine does not need to melt. Milk will appear curdled.

3. Gradually add to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Add 1 cup flour, or enough to make a thick batter. Beat at high speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in enough additional flour to make a soft dough. You will want to use your own well-scrubbed hands here to work in the flour.

4. Turn out dough onto lightly floured board. Knead until smooth and elastic, about 8-10 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

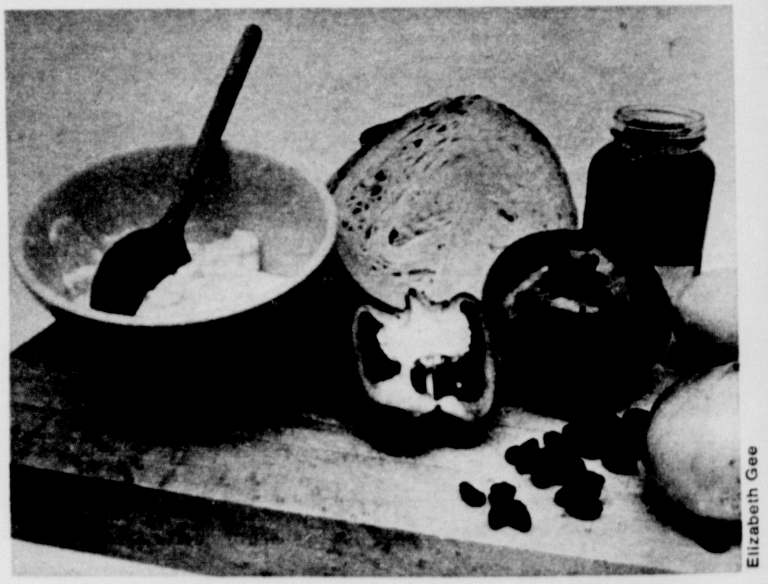

5. Punch down dough; turn out onto lightly floured board. Divide dough in half. Form each half into a roll 12 inches long; cut into 12 equal pieces.

6. To make Pan Rolls: Form pieces of dough into smooth balls. Place in 2 greased 9-inch round cake pans or on cookie sheets. Beat egg yolk with water. Brush surface of rolls with egg-yolk mixture; sprinkle with sesame seeds. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

7. Just before rising time is up, preheat oven to 375°F. Bake for 25 minutes, or until done. Remove from pans and place on wire racks to cool.

Makes 2 dozen rolls

By Sophia Loren In conversation with Helen Dorsey

I think food is important. It is a symbol of security, especially to those who have suffered hunger. As a child I was hungry six days a week and ate on the seventh. The idea of food as a festivity and a physical elation has become deeply rooted in my thinking. So now if I really like someone, I always associate him with one of my favorite dishes.

I call my husband "Involtini" [veal birds], because this is my favorite dish and he is my favorite man. Sometimes I've been known to call him "Eggplant Parmesan"! I call our son Chipi [Carlo, Jr.] "Spaghetti" because he loves it so. Sometimes I even think of myself in terms of food—like a pizza, which I happen to like very much. Being Neapolitan, I see myself as the classic pizza made with tomato and mozzarella. Why pizza? Because pizza is common, and I think I'm a very common housewife. Every woman should have a husband to love, babies to hold and meals to cook!

I like to entertain only close friends, people I know and am very comfortable with. I do not like to go out. I am really such a homebody. A house needs to be looked after. I like to keep flowers in the room. I'm very responsive to color, and I use white, red and yellow roses.

My grandmother Luisa taught me how to cook. She also taught me the most indispensable ingredient of all good home cooking: love for those you are cooking for. It's not surprising my most successful meals have been for my family.

Gerber helps surround your baby with love.

Nursing him... Nursing your baby is like sharing love. And Gerber gives you more time to enjoy it. Our new nurser bags have tabs that make each bag easy to open and provide a nice snug fit. And the tapered shape of the bag fits all popular nursers. No adapter necessary. The bags even have ounce markings printed right on them so you can see how much formula baby has taken.

Feeding him... Gerber has been helping to feed babies since you were a baby. Today Gerber offers over 150 different foods—cereals, juices, strained and junior foods, and toddler meals. All prepared with one thought in mind: to help provide your baby with proper nourishment for a healthier future.

Clothing him... You'll find little "extras" in babywear that carries the Gerber name. Like bind-free seamless underarms in our cotton shirts. And nylon finished edges on our vinyl pants. Our stretch socks really stretch. Your baby may outgrow Gerber babywear, but chances are he'll never outwear it.

And Babygro® by Gerber sleepwear is flame retardant. You'll find it in leading department stores and infant specialty shops.

Soothing him... Gerber also takes special care of baby in the nursery, with vaporizer-humidifiers that provide comfort whenever it's needed. A vaporizer-humidifier not only helps relieve colds' discomforts, it also adds moisture to dry indoor air. Hankscraft makes a full line of compact models... with safety features that will be comforting to you, too.

"I even think of myself in terms of food—like a pizza, which I happen to like very much. Being Neapolitan, I see myself as the classic pizza made with tomato and mozzarella. Why pizza? Because pizza is common, and I think I'm a very common housewife."

WE DISCOVERED CONSUMERISM 34 YEARS AGO

July, 1939. The first Albertson Super Market opened its doors. It was a big store for its time. (Too big according to skeptical competitors.) It offered customer services never before available. (Too many according to the critics.) In-store bakery. More sparkling fruits and vegetables than were ever displayed under one roof. Quality meats. A whole row of check stands. Paved, lighted parking. A store ahead of its time. Now there are 254 Albertson Super Markets throughout the west . . . all ahead of their time.

So the very next time you want to treat your taste-buds to something sort of special—just send them a smoke signal from Rath.

Rath Cold Cuts. Fresh out of the cold.

We season our luncheon meats in the cold, slice them in the cold, and ship them in the cold. So the flavor and freshness stay in right up till the time you serve them.

A Frenchwoman's

By Genevieve Antoine-Dariaux
French author and fashion expert

Genevieve Antoine-Dariaux

"All the American woman needs now to become the world's greatest cook is one small touch of witchcraft—or Frenchcraft, if you prefer."

Each time I come back from the States having gained a few pounds on ice cream, apple pies, cheese cake or Idaho potatoes, my French compatriots stare at me in astonishment and say: "I thought one could not eat a decent meal in the States."

In my opinion, it is easier to produce a marvelous meal in the U.S. than it is in France. This is because of all the frozen foods you can find in American supermarkets. Even in a French three-star restaurant (and we have only 16 left), I never got spinach as delicious as some of the frozen brands in America. Frozen buttered mushrooms in the U.S. are better than any canned brand you can find in France, and I think I could launch the most successful "patisserie" on the Champs-Elysees using American frozen fudge, cheese cake and lemon chiffon pies. All the frozen croissants, buns, etc., are as delicious as the ones we get baked freshly every morning—and what a luxury to get them hot from the oven!

All the American woman needs now to become the world's greatest cook is one small touch of witchcraft—or Frenchcraft, if you prefer.

For example:

- Half a glass of dry Vermouth adds glamour to any frozen fish or scallops. As a matter of fact, dry Vermouth is the best white wine to use in sauces.
- Put one package of frozen mushrooms and one package of frozen scallops into a covered saucepan, on low heat. Add minced garlic or onion, fresh parsley, salt, pepper, and two or three spoons of Vermouth. Let it boil for 15 minutes, remove from heat, and add a little sour cream. Serve in the middle of a crown of rice.
- A can of lobster bisque or crab soup, which you can find on any gourmet counter, gives you the key to haute cuisine. Mix the soup with Vermouth instead of water, then add some dissolved arrowroot or a white sauce to thicken it. Pour over crab, filets of white fish, sole, mussels or big prawns. Cover with grated cheese and put in low oven to melt cheese. The same mixture also works in a pie crust.

• A spoon of cognac in any frozen Beef Stroganoff or prepared frozen meat works miracles.

• A wonderful flaming dessert can be made out of bananas sliced lengthwise, covered with butter and sugar. Put into a hot oven for 20 minutes. When ready, add a glass of rum and put a match to it at the table.

• A fruit cake left over from Christmas can enjoy a new life, even as late as Easter, with a few drops of cognac or rum.

• Here's a good dish for leftover chopped meat. Mix meat with sautéed onion, add some pepper and salt. In a soufflé dish, put one layer of instant mashed potatoes, one layer of meat, and one of mashed potatoes. Sprinkle with grated cheese, add a few balls of butter and put in very hot oven until it gets nicely browned (about 20 minutes to get the inside very hot). This is called a "Parmentier" (Monsieur Parmentier was the man who brought the first potatoes to France).

If you ever invite some French people to dinner, here are some tips:

—First, don't serve them "French dressing" on their salad! (Heaven knows how that mixture got called "French"—it was never served in France!) This is how we do our salad dressing: one dessert spoon of hot mustard, two of wine vinegar, a good sprinkle of ground pepper, four spoons of oil (preferably olive oil). Use these ingredients in that order if you want a smooth sauce. Add any fresh herbs you can find—dill, chives or tarragon. Notice that there is no salt, as the mustard is already salted.

—All French people will love American mixed salads, but they don't care for fruit in them, and they usually don't appreciate fruit gelatin served as a first course.

—Most Frenchmen appreciate American clam chowder, American roast beef, good Idaho potatoes and a salad. Never begin the meal with a salad. Serve it with the meat and don't give any with fish. (We get good beef very rarely in France, so it is sure to be a treat. A Maine lobster served hot with melted butter is also sure to be a success.)

—With your meal, serve a good red California wine. This will interest Frenchmen much more than the wine they get every day on their tables.

—Remember, too, that Jewish delicatessen foods are quite a treat for French people, who must shop in certain areas to find that kind of special cuisine. They are likely to rave about simple corned beef or hot pastrami served with coleslaw. On the other hand, artichokes, which are considered such a delicacy in the States, are quite ordinary and inexpensive in France.

—Finally, if you offer French people some chocolates, never give them mint chocolates, but they will love all your fudgy sorts. Good chocolate costs twice as much in France, so it always makes a very presentable gift.

THE SPIRIT OF '76

First in a series of four superbly sculptured heirloom plates to be struck in honor of our nation's 200th anniversary in Solid Pewter and 24Kt Gold on Pewter

THE year was 1773 . . . and in colonial America small bands of patriots gathered together to discuss their desire for complete "freedom" from the domination of British rule. As the appeals to the Crown became more and more ignored, our young country, with its ragged bands of farmers, businessmen, students . . . almost everyone who longed for a feeling of independence, joined together in what was to become America's Colonial Army of Independence. With the first shot "heard around the world" from the slopes of Bunker Hill, America began its most dramatic moment in history. . . . The American Revolutionary War.

And now, in commemoration of America's 200th Anniversary, The Hamilton Mint has created a special series of proof-quality Pewter Plates that depict the most significant events of this important period in our nation's history. And, if you act promptly, you may become a participant in this unique and truly worthy offering.

OUTSTANDING PLATE COLLECTION

To fittingly record and commemorate the major events and individuals in the founding of our country, The Hamilton Mint has commissioned master sculptor Alfred Brunettin to create the four most significant events in our long struggle for independence: "The Spirit of '76. . . America's ageless symbol for the fighting men of this war and all other wars since; "Paul Revere's Ride" . . . an expression of the individual's willingness to risk life or limb for the cause of independence; "Betsy Ross Creates The First Flag" . . . America's banner of freedom and liberty that has survived, almost in its original form, for over 200 years; and finally, "Washington At Valley Forge". . . a graphic dedication to the bravery and suffering of America's first army.

Each plate in this series measures a full 9" in diameter and is struck in high bas relief to bring out all of the sculptured detail and drama of these important scenes. Created by The Hamilton Mint, America's Fine Art Mint, your plates will represent an outstanding collection of meaningful significance that you will be proud to display in an honored place in your home or office.

Your first plate, "The Spirit of '76", will be sent to you as soon as your order is received. Then, every three months you will be notified by mail of the availability of the next plate in the series. It is important to remember however, that only those individuals who order "The Spirit of '76" Bicentennial Plate now will be given the opportunity to order the remaining plates in this historic series.

PEWTER—THE TRADITIONAL METAL OF AMERICA

Because Pewter has traditionally been the metal of America's finest craftmen for over 200 years, it has been selected as the appropriate metal for this plate collection.

Pewter was not only used to a large extent in the households of Colonial America, but our first American Continental Dollar was actually fashioned from Pewter. Today, Pewter has gained an enormous revival of interest among artists and collectors because of the metal's ability to reflect the finest details of the designs that are struck into its surface and because its brilliance resembles fine silver so much.

AVAILABLE IN SOLID PEWTER AND 24 KT GOLD ON PEWTER

The Hamilton Mint's Bicentennial Plate Collection is available in your choice of Solid Pewter for just $15.00 per plate and 24 Kt Gold on Solid Pewter for only $25.00 per plate. If you prefer, you may order and pay for all four of the Bicentennial Plates now. The Four Solid Pewter plates, paid in full now, are just $55.00 complete (you save $5.00), or the four 24 Kt Gold on Solid Pewter plates are just $90.00 complete (you save $10.00).

STRICTLY LIMITED EDITIONS

A strict limit has been established by The Hamilton Mint on the quantity of Bicentennial Plates that will ever be issued in this edition. Only individuals who subscribe to the first plate in the series—"The Spirit of '76"—will be entitled to order the remaining three plates.

Each plate in the series will be individually minted by The Hamilton Mint and each subscriber will receive a registered Certificate of Authenticity attesting to his status as a collector of this limited edition series.

REMARKABLE INVESTMENT OPPORTUNITY

Even though prices in the International Metals Market have soared greatly during the past few years (and leading economists feel they will continue to climb) The Hamilton Mint has already committed for a sufficient quantity of Pewter and Gold to fully cover each subscription in this series. Therefore, you are guaranteed that these prices will not be increased for any plate in this series . . . no matter how high the price of Pewter and Gold rise in the months ahead.

In addition, collector plates have traditionally represented a fine investment opportunity. Certain limited edition collector plates, during the past several years, have soared in value from their original issue price.

To insure yourself of this opportunity to own these finely sculptured Bicentennial Plates, we urge you to send in your order today. It can only be accepted if it is received in time to be included within the edition limits.

Deluxe Version: 24 Kt Gold on Solid Pewter

The beauty of these Bicentennial Pewter Plates has been made even more exquisite and valuable with the addition of 24 Kt Gold richly layered on Solid Pewter. A limited quantity of these plates is available for just $25.00 each.

What can you do about it? Fortunately there is an easy-to-take medication that gets rid of Pin-Worms. It's called Jayne's® P-W® tablets. Ask your pharmacist. He'll tell you that Jayne's P-W tablets are specially formulated with an effective medical ingredient that gets Pin-Worms out of your system. Ask for Jayne's P-W tablets at your drug store.

How Much Do You Know About What Intelligence Means to Us?

By John E. Gibson

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. People judge your intelligence more by what you do for a living than by your face, dress, or general appearance.

2. There's a lot more to intelligence than just thinking.

3. You can learn a lot about a person's general intellectual ability in just a few seconds.

4. If your mother had a higher IQ than your father, you're more likely to be smarter than if it was the other way around.

5. People with high IQ's tend to have authoritarian personalities—opinionated, dictatorial, seeking to dominate others.

6. If your job involves frequent stresses and pressures, this is likely to interfere with your capacity to think, reason and perform various mental tasks.

ANSWERS

1. True—according to studies at Southern Illinois University, where men and women were asked "to rate the personality characteristics of others who had been identified only by name and occupation." Findings: The degree of intelligence—as well as assertiveness and responsibility—was found to be highly related to the prestige of the person's occupation. Conclusion of the investigators: How intelligent people credit you with being depends far more on your occupation than the way you look.

2. True. As one authority observes, intelligence is an incredibly complex set of interrelated aptitudes and abilities, which are also affected by our moods, emotions and general outlook. Moreover, it is pointed out, a great deal of our thinking and problem-solving is done without us realizing how we do it—by what psychologists term "intuitive cognition." That's why, in many cases, people are at a loss to explain how they arrived at some of their best decisions.

3. True. Here is a test, based on findings of a British psychological study, that will provide almost instant insight into a person's intellectual capacities. Simply give a person a sheet of paper on which 20 different numbers—ranging from 10 to 99—are written. Allow him five seconds to estimate the mean, or average, value. On the basis of experiments, this number-averaging ability is believed to be a "function of general intellectual capacity." It's pointed out that the ability to process such information quickly, efficiently and in a meaningful way is an important intellectual skill, and one related to achievement.

4. True—as evidenced by a University of Texas study of 104 families and their teenage children, in which both parents and offspring were subjected to a battery of intelligence tests. Findings: "Low-scoring children were found to have mothers scoring higher than fathers only 23 percent of the time, while high-scoring children had mothers exceeding their husbands 44 percent of the time." These results suggest that there is a very strong maternal effect on children's intellectual functioning.

5. False. Sociological studies conducted at the University of Illinois have shown the opposite to be true—that a person with these authoritarian characteristics tends to make low scores on intelligence tests. He's not nearly as smart as he likes to make people think he is. Interestingly enough, people with this type of personality tended to rate themselves as feeling powerless and lacking in inner strength.

6. False—according to the findings of two university investigators who made a study of the effects of stress on mental ability. It was found that subjects turned in superior performances after being subjected to stressful situations. It has been suggested that reaction to stress may manifest itself in increased drive in later performance.

True or False: People judge your intelligence more by what you do for a living than by your face, dress, or general appearance. (See number 1)

Shirtdress With a Difference

How to update a classic? Don't change the shirtdress' comfortable fit or its easy front-button closing, but do give it smashing detail. Like this smart silhouette with unusual "Bassett-ear" collar, lots of top-stitching, a back yoke and mock pockets. Fabric suggestions: gabardine, wool jersey or blends.

Size 12 takes approximately 3¼ yards of 44-inch fabric. Standard body measurements for size 12 are: Bust 34, Waist 25½, Hips 36.

What am I?

I cannot be seen. Many times I go completely unrecognized—particularly in the very young. Because of me, children fail to learn and their speech will never be normal. They are labeled stubborn. Deficient. Or even retarded. Yet they are none of these.

I make the elderly suffer. When I strike, they often cut themselves off from family and friends. They feel misunderstood. And they know the heartbreak of loneliness.

In all, I rob more than 15 million Americans of much that is good in life. I undermine their confidence and eat away at their social life.

I am equally hard on the rich and poor. I cause trouble on the job and in the home. Yet, in spite of this, few of those I attack do anything to fight me, because no one wants to admit I exist.

EVONNE GOOLAGONG
Let the men wear telltale gray....

In these days of Women's Lib, one of the world's best-paid tennis champions hasn't been liberated from washing her own clothes. The problem is that Evonne Goolagong plays just about every day. Says Evonne, "I can't wear the same outfit twice without washing it. And tennis is a grueling occupation." So every morning (at least when she's home) tennis takes second place as Evonne hangs out a freshly washed white outfit for her day on the court. (See, Bobby Riggs? No ring around the collar!)

Marriage three decades from now: "By the year 2000 it will be feasible to insure that there will be no children in a union. By one of the several means currently under study, each individual will be assured of lasting infertility in early adolescence. It will take positive action, permissible only after a thoughtful decision, to reestablish fertility. . . . Also, computerized matching of prospective partners will be far more sophisticated. . . . It's becoming increasingly clear that a man-woman relationship will have permanence only to the degree to which it satisfies the emotional, psychological, intellectual and physical needs of the partners." From "Becoming Partners: Marriage and Its Alternatives," by Carl Rogers, Ph.D. (Delacorte, $7.95).

SEN. BARRY GOLDWATER
Turning off the leaks

QUOTE: Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) on running a government in public: "It is impossible to conduct the affairs of government in the window of Macy's department store. And it is a frightening thing to attend, as I did on one occasion, a meeting of top officials in the White House and read all about it in the morning paper the next day. I am not talking about just any meeting. I am talking about a meeting that I felt was so confidential that I did not even discuss it with my staff. Yet, the next day I found a completely accurate account in the newspaper. It was so accurate that even the words I spoke were correctly attributed. You almost have to have it happen to you to understand the feeling such an experience gives you. I called the President and suggested that something would have to be done to seal off the leaks of information from the executive branch." UNQUOTE.

Can a woman of 70, the mother of three grown sons and grandmother of nine, make it as a movie starlet? "Of course she can," says Terry Blake, "if she really wants to." This is no idle longing. Terry spends half of each waking day at calisthenics, the other hours in voice, dancing and acting lessons. She explains, "All my life I've wanted to be in show business, but I never got the chance. Now I have the time and the money. I bill myself as 'the world's most glamorous grandmother.'" Her objective, she modestly declares, is to match Marlene Dietrich. In fact, she's challenged the German songstress to a contest—in bikinis!

I'm thinking of the meter reader

A rather prudish woman was strolling along the beach one day when she spotted a young girl clad in a very brief bikini. She was appalled and said to the girl in horrified tones, "Really, young lady, you should be ashamed of yourself. What would your mother say if she saw you in that suit?"

The courtroom has all the sights, sounds and special drama of real courtrooms. The law Perry artfully manipulates is real law. The moment of truth is dazzling and always believable.

And no wonder since Erle Stanley Gardner, who created Perry Mason, had been a formidable criminal lawyer himself.

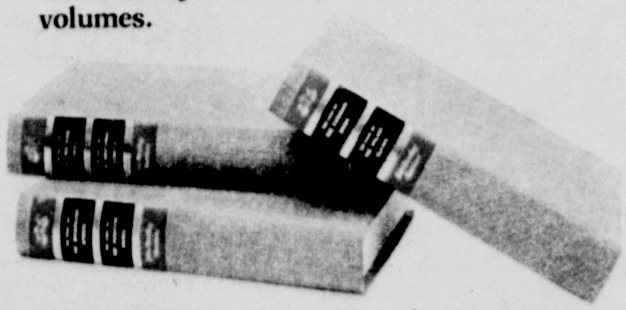

That's why Mason's secrets of cross-examination, which Gardner lets him reveal for the one-and-only time in The Case of the Restless Redhead, are a model for practicing lawyers. As well as fascinating inside information for almost anyone (you never know when it might come in handy).

We'd like to send you The Restless Redhead plus five more of Perry Mason's greatest cases—so you can see how Gardner used a trial lawyer's knowledge of rules of evidence, autopsy, ballistics...to create the best-selling mysteries ever written.

We'll include The Case of the Curious Bride, which was actually used in a murder trial in Arizona. And helped convict a killer who would have gone free, were it not for a legal ploy sprung by Perry Mason in that book.

Plus The Case of the Velvet Claws (the very first Perry Mason mystery) and The Cases of the Waylaid Wolf, The Fugitive Nurse and The Bigamous Spouse.

We'll send you all six for $1, as your introduction to The Gardner Mystery Library. Because we think they'll make you want to read others by Erle Stanley Gardner.

And, as a member, you get your choice of other Perry Mason classics. Plus Donald Lam-Bertha Cool stories, which Gardner wrote under the pen-name A.A. Fair. As well as courtroom dramas from his famous District Attorney series.

But you take only the books you really want. And for each hardbound double-volume you decide to keep, you pay only $3.89, which is less than a single run-of-the-mill mystery costs these days.

We urge you to take up this offer today. If you're a mystery fan, it would be a crime not to. The Gardner Mystery Library, Walter J. Black, Inc., Roslyn, N.Y. 11576.

The Gardner Mystery Library
Walter J. Black, Inc., Roslyn, N.Y. 11576

Please send me my 6 Perry Mason thrillers.

I enclose no money. If I don't want to keep these introductory volumes, I'll return them within a week and owe nothing. Otherwise, I'll pay just $1 for all three, plus a small mailing charge.

Also reserve for me additional volumes in The Gardner Mystery Library, which I'll be entitled to receive as they come from the presses.

I'll get advance descriptions of all future volumes. I may reject any books before or after I receive them. For those I do keep, I pay just $3.89 each plus a small mailing charge. And I may cancel my reservation at any time.
